IN LONDON, John Puckering, 58, apparently dead was revived after five minutes. Meanwhile, he had gone to heaven, saw interesting things, came back to tell of them. Souls, evidently, travel more rapidly than light, which takes nine hundred million years to get outside of the universe as we know it, going 186,000 miles a second. Mr. Puckering says heaven is filled with a "happy crowd."

There were no children. "All were dressed as on earth." No moths in heaven, of course, no depression either.

ALFRED P. SLOAN, Jr., head of General Motors, announces that 30,000 employes, under the company's saving and investment plan, will have eleven million dollars cash divided among them. The employe who saves $25.00 a month, the maximum, $300 a year, gets back his $300, plus $321.52, contributed by the company, including $114 for interest. It is rather difficult to persuade men to "arise, ye prisoners of starvation," and "throw off their chains," when one of the chains is attached to an "$11,000,000 melon."

"SEEST THOU a man diligent in his business, he shall stand before kings." The late Thomas E. Maloy, business agent of the Motion Picture Operators' union, recently murdered by gangsters, for reasons of their own, was diligent in his business. He did not exactly "stand before kings," but he lived comfortably. Federal authorities that indicted him in an effort to collect income tax on $300,000 income supply interesting information. Maloy had in his apartment a $4,000 bathroom, a drinking bar that cost $5,000.

UNION MEMBERS gave him these necessities and $24,000 in cash to finance a trip to Europe. His salary in the union was $500 a week, but that was only pocket money. According to government authorities, one loop theater paid Mr. Maloy $10,000 a year, "for getting them better operators."

He allowed distributors to discharge union operators, regardless of union rules, on payment of $1,100 for each of the 100 operators discharged, and for a reasonable payment, he allowed non-union operators to work. On one occasion Maloy admitted he drew $500,000 from a certain bank, but it was "just union funds being shifted." The union, at one time, gave him $275,000 to use as he pleased for a "war chest."

If Mr. Maloy's successor does better, he will do well.

ENZO FIERMONTE, traveling abroad with his second wife, the former Mrs. Madeleine Astor Force Dick, visited the first wife whom he divorced, and their child. The Associated Press reports that the second wife, the unhappy American lady, "wept hysterically" when told that her husband had gone to see his first wife and child. If she knew more about Italian character that would not surprise her. Italians are devoted fathers, the child in Italy might outweigh a million dollars in America.

MR. HAUPTMANN, on trial for kidnaping the Lindbergh baby, tells reporters "I don't feel so good."

A fog of contradicting testimony and some perjury have entered into the case. It will be hard even for jurors to make up their minds.

Many, including some educated men, will tell you that it is possible to read the human mind. Why not prove it by going to Flemington and reading the minds of the jury one by one and writing down the results for comparison.

ALICE HARGREAVES, original of "Alice in Wonderland," left property worth $57,250. If she had had half the money that the story about her brought in, she would have millions, but she had enough and that satisfied her. If only more Americans had felt that way in 1928 and 1929!

FRENCH HOPES LIFTED BY DISCOVERY OF OIL

PARIS, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Discoveries of new sources of oil in Morocco today raised the hopes of French engineers that France's efforts to obtain independent supplies of the "black gold" may be successful.

Oil was reported found near the town of Petit Jean and while the amount the wells will produce was uncertain, the engineers declared the discovery significant inasmuch as it follows Djebeltselfat and Si Ameur are the only oil-bearing regions in Morocco.

Quiet as the world for centuries was hurled far and wide for gold, France, producing an unimportant proportion of her own needs at home, has searched for oil.

With an oil burning navy and almost 2,000,000 motor vehicles on her roads, the problem of oil has worried the French for the past 20 years and is still far from solution.

It is for that reason that France is encouraging research in Algeria and Morocco, and keeps a weather eye on the oil situation in Russia, Rumania and Venezuela.

HIGH COURT WILL NOT GIVE RULING ON GOLD MONDAY

Tribunal Departs From Its Usual Course For Second Time

NINE MEMBERS MEET

Cummings, Roosevelt Confer On Move If Verdict Is Adverse

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9. — (AP) — The supreme court's awaited-for-weeks gold decision will not be announced on Monday.

For a second time the high tribunal departed from its usual course to let it be known that its next regular opinion day will pass without the announcement of that tensely awaited verdict.

The nine austere members of the bench met for their customary Saturday consultation. For nearly five hours they were closeted in their closely guarded dicussion room.

Then while his colleagues climbed into waiting automobiles, Chief Justice Hughes repaired to his office and summoned the court's clerk, Charles E. Cropley. Their conference was brief.

Cropley returned to his office, crowded with newspapermen, sensing the suspense which gripped the group, he leisurely seated himself behind his desk, lolled back in his chair with easy informality, and at last said:

"There will be no statement, but I am authorized to say that no opinions will be announced on Monday."

"That means no opinions of any kind?" a newsman asked.

"That's it."

"How about Tuesday?"

"I said Monday."

Cropley went on to make it plain that he was speaking only of opinions, that "orders" may be handed down, announcing whether other cases will or will not be reviewed by the court.

Just as was the case a week ago, the capitol had become keyed up to the expectation of a Monday decision. A short statement by Chief Justice Hughes last Saturday abruptly provided the anti-climax.

While the court was sitting today, Attorney General Cummings spent two hours with President Roosevelt going over the plans which have been drawn up for immediate action in the event that the decision goes against the government. Informed of the court's further delay, he declined to comment.

The government's plans for action, is necessary, were ready a week ago, the product of many hours consultation between treasury, justice depart-

NOTED NOVELIST DIES IN GEORGIA

Mrs. Corra Harris Succumbs To Heart Ailment At Atlanta

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Mrs. Corra Harris, the novelist, died of a heart ailment in a hospital here today at the age of 65.

The writer, whose best known work, "A Circuit Rider's Wife," attracted wide discussion through its interpretation in many quarters as an attack on policies of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, had been ill since January 27.

Suffering a heart attack at her mountain home, "In the Valley," near Rydal, Ga., Mrs. Harris was brought to Emory university hospital for treatment. Earlier this week her condition was reported slightly improved but she suffered a relapse that proved fatal.

Born at Farm Hill, Ga., on St. Patrick's day in 1869, Mrs. Harris was educated by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tinsley R. White, at home in the manner of the south of antebellum days.

Later she attended Elberton academy and Old Salem schoolhouse in Banks county, Ga., where she met Lundy Howard Harris, a student for the ministry, to whom she became engaged at the age of 15. They were married two years later shortly after

MAMA DIONNE FRETS, PAPA FROLICS

TENANT FARMERS MAY ASK FOR AID OF STATE TROOPS

Appeal Sent To Arkansas Governor After Meeting Is Broken Up

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Feb. 9.—(AP)—H. L. Mitchell, secretary of the Southern Tenant Farmers' union, tonight wired Governor J. Marion Futrell of Arkansas that "upon further violations of our rights we shall petition you for the protection of state militia."

The telegram was sent from here immediately after the arrival of four speakers for the union, who said they were accosted by a "mob" at Birdsong, Ark., late today and then escorted by Mississippi county (Ark.) officers across the county line into Poinsett county "to prevent trouble."

Atley Delany, a student of Commonwealth college, Mena, Ark., said he and three companions, Roy Chaplin, Bob Reed, Commonwealth students, and Gene Hayes, a sharecropper, were met by a "mob of planters" as they approached the site for a proposed rally of tenant farmers.

"The mob searched us, demanded to see our union charter, then kicked us and told us to 'get along,'" Delany said. "The officers courteously escorted us away from the scene."

Chief Deputy Sheriff Hale Jackson of Osceola, Ark., said he and three other officers escorted the four men out of the county "because of the possibility of trouble."

Mitchell's telegram to Governor Futrell follows:

"At a duly scheduled and legal meeting of the Southern Tenant Farmers' union near Tyronza Saturday afternoon armed planters and their associates assaulted union speakers and prevented them from addressing the meeting. We protest against this illegal and un-American violation of our fundamental rights of free speech and assemblage. We are a legal organization incorporated under the laws of Arkansas and we petition you as governor of this state to protect the rights of Arkansas citizens. We demand that you take necessary steps for our protection. Upon further violations of our rights we shall petition you for the protection of state militia."

Powers Hapgood of Chicago, "as representative of the American Civil Liberties union," also telegraphed the governor for "immediate protection required to prevent abridging constitutional rights of free speech and loss of life."

Scientist Announces New Electric Voice

The device uses a pocket-size dry battery for a "lung," an electrical circuit for "breath" and a vibrating plate for vocal cords.

It looks like one of the famous upside-down "Dawes" pipes, considerably enlarged and much skewed in stem. The pipe when its stem is placed between the lips in smoker style substitutes for lost vocal cords.

It is the latest step in a non-commercial attempt of the Bell laboratories to restore speech to a thousand or so Americans whose vocal cords have been improved in surgical operations.

CITY MAY GET NIGHT AIRMAIL

Expansion Of Service Being Considered By Postal Department

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Expansion of air mail service in the south to provide two transcontinental schedules a day was under consideration today by the postoffice department.

Harlee Branch, assistant postmaster general in charge of air mail service, said establishment of a night air mail line between Atlanta, Ga., and Dallas, Texas, was contemplated.

At present there is only a day schedule over the route with stops at Birmingham, Ala., Meridian and Jackson, Miss., and Monroe and Shreveport, La. A connection for the west coast is made at Dallas.

In the event the night service is established connection would be provided at Dallas with both transcontinental air mail schedules. Stops on the new line would be made at all points included on the day Atlanta-Dallas schedule, Branch said.

The present Atlanta-Dallas schedule starts at Charleston, S. C., but Branch said it was not contemplated at the present to include Charleston in both schedules because there are no provisions for night flying between Charleston and Atlanta.

"Establishment of the new service would give the south two transcontinental air schedules a day," Branch said. "We are seriously studying the matter and hope it can be worked out but so far there is nothing definite to give out."

GENERAL FREEMAN DIES AT RICHMOND

RICHMOND, Va., Feb. 9.—(AP)—The host of Confederate dead today was joined by General Walker B. Freeman, 92, who held the life title of honorary commander in chief of the United Confederate veterans.

A veteran of the entire period of the war between the states, which he survived despite severe wounds received at the battle of Seven Pines, Dr. Freeman had been engaged in the insurance business for many years and was an active worker until his final illness began last April.

Ouachita River Guage Registers 34.6 Feet

Continuing its steady rise, the Ouachita river guage yesterday stood at 34.6 feet. This reading was only 5.4 feet below the flood stage, which is 40 feet.

The rise in the river during the week preceding yesterday's reading was 2.1 feet.

TORNADIC WINDS CLAIM 12 LIVES IN TEXAS AREAS

More Than Seventy Injured As Storm Strikes Near Grapeland

A driving rain storm, extending into other parts of Texas and accompanied by thunder squalls, was raging last night when a funnel-shaped cloud vented its fury on a negro plantation community in the Trinity river bottoms 15 miles west of Cleveland.

Nine negroes, helpless in their flimsy cabins, lost their lives. Forty others were injured, some so badly they may die. The community is on the Murray plantation in Houston county.

A survey disclosed the winds struck furiously at communities and towns scattered from the gulf coast to Marshall, hundreds of miles north. At Mineveh, a farming town in Leon county, 15 negro tenants were hurt. Orange, on the coast, reported four injured.

Relief agencies swung into action.

It was found that about 50 families were made homeless in the negro community west of Cleveland, where the disturbance took its heaviest toll.

Piles of debris, strewn with demolished furnishings, were all that remained of 31 tenant houses wrecked near there.

MASSACHUSETTS BOY GUARDED BY POLICE

BROOKLINE, Mass., Feb. 9.—(AP)—While police tonight guarded the safety of the grandson of Ernest B. Dane, Sr., fashionable banker and widely known patron of the arts, federal officials in Boston revealed eastern Massachusetts had been flooded by kidnap notes in recent months.

That the boy, Ernest B. Dane, 3d, was under constant guard at the home of his father, Ernest B. Dane, Jr., a graduate student in the Harvard engineering school was established through police sources.

U. S. Attorney Francis J. W. Ford in Boston said his department had not been asked to investigate the case but agents of the department of justice reported a wave of notes threatening kidnaping or demanding ransom had inundated this section of the state in recent months. One such note demanded $1,000,000, they said.

More Monroe Guardsmen Return From Baton Rouge

Nine members of Company G, 156th infantry, Louisiana national guard, of Monroe, returned here by train Saturday from Baton Rouge, where they had been on special duty two weeks. Captain Louis F. Rolleigh, commanding officer of the company, returned here Friday night.

Only 12 men of the company remained at the state capital. They are in charge of Lieutenant Nance, of E company. The latter company's home station is Baton Rouge.

About 45 men of the local company were taken to Baton Rouge two weeks ago. At intervals, detachments were returned to Monroe.

Although no official statement was made concerning the return of the 12 local guardsmen remaining at Baton Rouge, it was learned that they are expected to return within a few days.

HITLER SEEN AS AIMING BLOW AT VERSAILLES PACT

Der Fuehrer Ponders Line Of Action On Anglo-French Accord

HUNTING FOR OPENING

Counter - Proposals On Germany's Part Predicted By Diplomats

BERLIN, Feb. 9.—(AP)—A Nazi effort to turn the Anglo-French accord into the knockout blow they have long wanted to deal the Versailles treaty was foreshadowed today as Adolf Hitler, in hermit-like retreat, mulled over Germany's line of action.

Der Fuehrer was believed hunting for an opening that would enable him to pull the last Versailles thorns out of Germany's side.

With this belief as background, diplomatic quarters predicted counter-proposals to the Anglo-French proposals might issue from Hitler's 10-day seclusion.

On the outcome of the proposals, too, reichswehr circles said the future strength of Germany's standing army, limited to "toy" size by the Versailles treaty, might partly depend. Two other factors bearing on the reich's future military policy, they said, were:

1—The plan of certain French military circles lengthening the French enlistment period.

2—The future course of enigmatic Russia.

Whatever Hitler's success with his counter-proposals, it was agreed an attempt probably would be made to dislodge the proposed air alliance from the inclusive security agreement worked out by the French and British, since airminded Nazis see "several good things" in it.

The London plan, officials say frankly, is unacceptable as it stands, semi-official circles adding that Germany would not join any new general pact unless some of her colonies are returned. Boundary changes urged in Europe are chiefly those cutting Memel and Danzig, two important chapters of the Versailles pact still intact—off from the fatherland.

ROME, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Italy today stepped into line behind Anglo-French proposals for an inclusive western European security agreement to banish the specter of war.

The first government to reply to the proposals drafted at London last week-end, Rome affirmed her adherence in principle to the agreement, although she made an exception of the "special situation of Italy with regard to Great Britain and vice versa."

DUKE IS INVOLVED IN SEA ADVENTURE

King George's Son Is Aboard Ship Hurrying To Aid Of Vessel

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 9.—(AP)—The duke of Gloucester, third son of Britain's King George, was swept into an unscheduled adventure today when the cruiser Australia steamed for a spot 200 miles north of Tahiti, where the radio broadcast schooner Seth Parker was battling a storm and apparently riding it out.

The cruiser—a unit of the Australian navy with the duke as a passenger—turned off her course after Phillips Lord, entertainer and master of the widely publicised schooner sent out a stream of messages saying he believed his vessel was in danger because of heavy seas. The schooner, a four-caster, did not send out SOS calls, however.

At 1:35 p.m. (eastern standard time) the radio of the Seth Parker was heard to say "Everything O. K., now." It added, however, that the "owner" didn't think so. The sender expressed the belief "the (the owner) should go to sleep now. Has been up all night."

An hour later the schooner's wireless reported the situation was the same.

The cruiser, taking the duke to Tahiti from Australia, was about 200 miles from the Seth Parker when she

Simultaneous with the announcement that Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., to whom she is reported engaged, is returning to the United States and Hollywood, the London press carried stories intimating that Gertrude Lawrence (above), pretty young British actress, has managed her finances badly and is in sore financial straits. WILLIAMS RESIGNS JOB AS OUACHITA HEALTH DIRECTOR

Will Leave Position Here To Return To His Native State

Formal announcement of the resignation of Dr. John W. Williams as director of the Ouachita parish health unit was made Saturday afternoon. The announcement was not unexpected, as Dr. Williams stated several days ago he was considering an offer from Asheville, North Carolina, to become director of the public health department of that city. The resignation will become effective the latter part of the month.

Announcement of the resignation was made to Dr. R. W. Todd, of New Orleans, state director of parish health bureaus, who came to Monroe to discuss the matter with Dr. Williams. Dr. Todd expressed deep regret over the resignation and said that the vacancy would be filled at an early date by a physician from the public health department who is fully trained in the work. One of two men, now under consideration for the office, will be chosen, he said.

"Dr. Williams has given up his post in Ouachita parish," said Dr. Todd, "to go back to his native state after

WIDE DISAGREEMENT ON CODES EXPECTED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(AP)—The schism between organized labor and the administration over recovery codes appeared today to be headed toward a wider gulf of disagreement over the $1,850,000,000 work relief bill.

With administration leaders claiming sufficient strength to overturn the senate appropriations committee decision for prevailing wages in whatever communities public works are undertaken, word passed around the capitol that the White House was in for one of its hardest battles when this issue reaches the floor, regardless of what the committee does.

Counter-balancing this was the prediction of one of the shrewdest politicians in the senate that, generally speaking, the Republican independents and the Democrats would join to put the bill through in virtually the same way it passed the house.

HAUPTMANN CASE ENDS EXCEPT FOR LEGAL ARGUMENTS

Summations Expected To Take Up Monday And Part Of Tuesday

MRS. MORROW TALKS

Tells Of Whereabouts Of Violet Sharpe On Kidnap Night

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Feb. 9.—(AP)—The case against Bruno Richard Haupmann for the Lindbergh baby murder was completed today, five weeks and three days after it began.

With Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, the baby's grandmother, as one of the witnesses, the case ended—except for the legal oratory which will last through Monday and part of Tuesday—on a note of sharp contradiction.

The final day's testimony concerned itself not with Hauptmann, the Bronx carpenter accused of horrible crime, but with the memory of two persons dead—the little Isidor Fisch and the Morrow maid servant, Violet Sharpe, who committed suicide.

When it was not seeking to show that neither Fisch nor Miss Sharp had any guilty knowledge of the kidnap murder of March 1, 1932, the state in its last day of rebuttal testimony, ripped at the "lumber" evidence which the defense had presented.

Hauptmann, never demonstrative, sat through the final day of the trial which may mean his life showing little emotion.

In contrast with the defendant were Mrs. Morrow and her daughter, Mrs. Anne Lindbergh, who sat through both sessions today displaying keen interest in all the proceedings. Mrs. Lindbergh, the baby's mother, was making her second appearance in the old Hunterdon county courtroom. She was one of the first witnesses of the state.

Colonel Lindbergh, on the other hand, has been a constant court attendant, sitting behind the state counsel's table in a position from which he could look almost squarely at the witnesses as they paraded, 141 of them, through 29 court days of testimony.

The presentation of evidence came to an abrupt close at 2:30 p.m. when the state announced it had finished its rebuttal evidence and the defense, headed by Edward J. Reilly of New York, announced it would offer no sur-rebuttal.

Justice Thomas W. Trenchard called a recess until Monday when Anthony M. Hauck, Jr., one of the assistants of Attorney General David Wilentz who is conducting the state's case, will make the first summation. Hauck will outline the points which the prosecution has made through the testimony of the 88 witnesses it called to the stand.

Hauck does not expect to require more than an hour and a half.

Reilly, for the defense, will follow. He is expected to require most of the remainder of the day. Wilentz will speak for the state Tuesday, and the case should go to the jury of eight men and four women by mid-afternoon of that day—Lincoln's birthday. The charge to the jury by Justice Trenchard is not expected to require more than 45 minutes.

Mrs. Morrow was the last witness, a tragic touch to a trial that has attracted attention around the world. She testified, however, not as the grandmother of a baby murdered but as the employer of an English servant girl whose name had been repeatedly drawn into the case as having possibly had guilty knowledge of the crime.

Mrs. Morrow, widow of a Morgan partner who also was an American ambassador, testified that the servant, Violet Sharpe, was at the Morrow home in Englewood the night of the kidnaping up to about quarter of eight o'clock, and that she returned to the home about eleven. The kidnaping was from the Lindbergh home at Hopewell, many miles distant.

At the conclusion of Mrs. Morrow's testimony, the defense moved for a directed verdict of acquittal, which Justice Trenchard promptly denied.

Chief Counsel Reilly said: "So that the jury may thoroughly understand this procedure now, I understand that your honor holds (in denying a motion for a directed verdict of acquittal)

GOVERNMENT GIVES PENSION ESTIMATE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(AP)—The administration today sent to the capitol an estimate that less than a million persons would be eligible for old age pensions and that the total cost to the states would be about $111,000,000 annually.

Some congressmen have estimated that the pension plan would cost around $450,000,000 yearly.

The table, drawn up by the economic security committee, was based on the number of persons above 65 who are receiving relief in the states, plus those who are getting old age pensions in states that have pension systems.

For Virginia, where Senator Byrd, Democrat, Virginia, had estimated the cost would be between $12,000,000 and $20,000,000 a year, the committee estimated that $356,000 would be required. This was on the basis of a state contribution of $20 a month, distributed in the same proportion as relief now is in that state.

'Mama' Dionne Comes Near Weeping As She Sees Babes

CHICAGO, Feb. 9.—(AP)—The sight of rows of new-born babes in a hospital nursery today brought "Mama" Dionne to the verge of tears.

Until now the outward stoicism of this 26-year-old Canadian mother of ten children, among them the famous quintuplets, had provoked much comment among those who have watched her adventures in the city.

Mrs. Dionne murmured a few words in French, her usual low voice ending on a tearful note.

"She misses her babies, poor girl," explained Mrs. Joseph Rochon of North Bay, Ont., a relative who is traveling with the Dionnes. "In spite of all the thrill of sightseeing she is lonesome for her children."

Her visit to the huge modern hospital resulted in several of those rare smiles that even the antics of night club entertainers did not provoke.

This was the first time she had seen how babies are cared for in a great urban hospital.

National Defense Program Gets Administration Okeh

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(AP)—A $40,000,000 national defense program, centered in improved army and navy strongholds in the Pacific was revealed today by congressional leaders to have received administration approval.

The money will be shared equally by the army and navy. Chairman of the house military and naval committees said it was part of a $300,000,000 public works fund inserted in the 1936 government budget with the consent of President Roosevelt and the budget bureau.

While the navy was reported as prepared to spend some of its $20,000,000 along the Atlantic, most of it would be used for shipyards, drydocks and bases on the Pacific coast and at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, and Coco Sola, Canal Zone. Details of the apportionment of the money are being withheld but it was learned most of it would be spent in Hawaii and on the west coast.

The army plans to use nearly $11,000,000 to begin constructing an $18,000,000 air base in Hawaii. The remainder would be alloted for coast and harbor defenses, including anti-aircraft guns, and for erection of officers' quarters and barracks at army posts.

The money is to come from the $300,000,000 labelled for normal federal public works in the 1936 budget.

The decision to use most of the money in the Pacific was said to have been influenced by the fact that the fleet has been concentrated in Pacific waters during much of the past two years.

FRENCH HOPES LIFTED BY DISCOVERY OF OIL

PARIS, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Discoveries of new sources of oil in Morocco today raised the hopes of French engineers that France's efforts to obtain independent supplies of the "black gold" may be successful.

Oil was reported found near the town of Petit Jean and while the amount the wells will produce was uncertain, the engineers declared the discovery significant inasmuch as it shows Djebeltselfat and Si Ameur are not the only oil-bearing regions in Morocco.

Just as the world for centuries was hunted far and wide for gold, France, producing an unimportant proportion of her own needs at home, has searched for oil.

With an oil burning navy and almost 2,000,000 motor vehicles on her roads, the problem of oil has worried the French for the past 20 years and is still far from solution.

It is for that reason that France is encouraging research in Algeria and Morocco, and keeps a weather eye on the oil situation in Russia, Rumania and Venezuela.

HIGH COURT WILL NOT GIVE RULING ON GOLD MONDAY

NINE MEMBERS MEET

Cummings, Roosevelt Confer On Move If Verdict Is Adverse

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9. — (AP) — The supreme court's awaited-for-weeks gold decision will not be announced on Monday.

For a second time the high tribunal departed from its usual course to let it be known that its next regular opinion day will pass without the announcement of that tensely awaited verdict.

The nine austere members of the bench met for their customary Saturday consultation. For nearly five hours they were closeted in their closely guarded dicussion room.

Then while his colleagues climbed into waiting automobiles, Chief Justice Hughes repaired to his office and summoned the court's clerk, Charles E. Cropley. Their conference was brief.

Cropley returned to his office, crowded with newspapermen, sensing the suspense which gripped the group, he leisurely seated himself behind his desk, lolled back in his chair with easy informality, and at last said:

"There will be no statement, but I am authorized to say that no opinions will be announced on Monday."

"That means no opinions of any kind?" a newsman asked.

"That's it."

"I said Monday."

Cropley went on to make it plain that he was speaking only of opinions, that "orders" may be handed down, announcing whether other cases will or will not be reviewed by the court.

Just as was the case a week ago, the capitol had become keyed up to the expectation of a Monday decision. A short statement by Chief Justice Hughes last Saturday abruptly provided the anti-climax.

While the court was sitting today, Attorney General Cummings spent two hours with President Roosevelt going over the plans which have been drawn up for immediate action in the event that the decision goes against the government. Informed of the court's further delay, he declined to comment.

The government's plans for action, is necessary, were ready a week ago, the product of many hours consultation between treasury, justice depart-

The writer, whose best known work, "A Circuit Rider's Wife," attracted wide discussion through its interpretation in many quarters as an attack on policies of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, had been ill since January 27.

Suffering a heart attack at her mountain home, "In the Valley," near Rydal, Ga., Mrs. Harris was brought to Emory university hospital for treatment. Earlier this week her condition was reported slightly improved but she suffered a relapse that proved fatal.

Born at Farm Hill, Ga., on St. Patrick's day in 1869, Mrs. Harris was educated by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tinsley R. White, at home in the manner of the south of antebellum days.

Later she attended Elberton academy and Old Salem schoolhouse in Banks county, Ga., where she met Lundy Howard Harris, a student for the ministry, to whom she became engaged at the age of 15. They were married two years later shortly after

MAMA DIONNE FRETS, PAPA FROLICS

Homesickness preyed on Mrs. Elzire Dionne, mother of the famed quintuplets, as she accepted adulation of thousands on her first visit to a metropolis, but she faced the Chicago throngs bravely and here is shown with her husband, Ovila, during a lull in the festivities. Mrs. Dionne, who now weighs more than 200 pounds, is on a rigid diet and finds little enjoyment in the rounds of dinners, night club entertainment and receptions. But her husband is in his glory in the hurly-burly in which he suddenly has been thrust.

TENANT FARMERS MAY ASK FOR AID OF STATE TROOPS

Appeal Sent To Arkansas Governor After Meeting Is Broken Up

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Feb. 9.—(AP)—H. L. Mitchell, secretary of the Southern Tenant Farmers' union, tonight wired Governor J. Marion Futrell of Arkansas that "upon further violations of our rights we shall petition you for the protection of state militia."

The telegram was sent from here, immediately after the arrival of four speakers for the union, who said they were accosted by a "mob" at Birdsong, Ark., late today and then escorted by Mississippi county (Ark.) officers across the county line into Poinsett county "to prevent trouble."

Atley Delany, a student of Commonwealth college, Mena, Ark., said he and three companions, Roy Chaplin, Bob Reed, Commonwealth students, and Gene Hayes, a sharecropper, were met by a "mob of planters" as they approached the site for a proposed rally of tenant farmers.

"The mob searched us, demanded to see our union charter, then kicked us and told us to 'get along,'" Delany said. "The officers courteously escorted us away from the scene."

Chief Deputy Sheriff Hale Jackson of Osceola, Ark., said he and three other officers escorted the four men out of the county "because of the possibility of trouble."

Mitchell's telegram to Governor Futrell follows:

"At a duly scheduled and legal meeting of the Southern Tenant Farmers' union near Tyronza Saturday afternoon armed planters and their associates assaulted union speakers and prevented them from addressing the meeting. We protest against this illegal and un-American violation of our fundamental rights of free speech and assemblage. We are a legal organization incorporated under the laws of Arkansas and we petition you as governor of this state to protect the rights of Arkansas citizens. We demand that you take necessary steps for our protection. Upon further violations of our rights we shall petition you for the protection of state militia."

Powers Hapgood of Chicago, "as representative of the American Civil Liberties union," also telegraphed the governor for "immediate protection required to prevent abridging constitutional rights of free speech and loss of life."

Scientist Announces New Electric Voice

The device uses a pocket-size dry battery for a "lung," an electrical circuit for "breath" and a vibrating plate for vocal cords.

It looks like one of the famous upside-down "Dawes" pipes, considerably enlarged and much skewed in stem. The pipe when its stem is placed between the lips in smoker style substitutes for lost vocal cords.

It is the latest step in a non-commercial attempt of the Bell laboratories to restore speech to a thousand or so Americans whose vocal cords have been improved in surgical operations.

CITY MAY GET NIGHT AIRMAIL

Expansion Of Service Being Considered By Postal Department

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Expansion of air mail service in the south to provide two transcontinental schedules a day was under consideration today by the postoffice department.

Harlee Branch, assistant postmaster general in charge of air mail service, said establishment of a night air mail line between Atlanta, Ga., and Dallas, Texas, was contemplated.

At present there is only a day schedule over the route with stops at Birmingham, Ala., Meridian and Jackson, Miss., and Monroe and Shreveport, La. A connection for the west coast is made at Dallas.

In the event the night service is established connection would be provided at Dallas with both transcontinental air mail schedules. Stops on the new line would be made at all points included on the day Atlanta-Dallas schedule, Branch said.

The present Atlanta-Dallas schedule starts at Charleston, S. C., but Branch said it was not contemplated at the present to include Charleston in both schedules because there are no provisions for night flying between Charleston and Atlanta.

"Establishment of the new service would give the south two transcontinental air schedules a day," Branch said. "We are seriously studying the matter and hope it can be worked out but so far there is nothing definite to give out."

GENERAL FREEMAN DIES AT RICHMOND

RICHMOND, Va., Feb. 9.—(AP)—The host of Confederate dead today was joined by General Walker B. Freeman, 92, who held the life title of honorary commander in chief of the United Confederate veterans.

A veteran of the entire period of the war between the states, which he survived despite severe wounds received at the battle of Seven Pines, Dr. Freeman had been engaged in the insurance business for many years and was an active worker until his final illness began last April.

Ouachita River Guage Registers 34.6 Feet

Continuing its steady rise, the Ouachita river guage yesterday stood at 34.6 feet. This reading was only 5.4 feet below the flood stage, which is 40 feet.

The rise in the river during the week preceding yesterday's reading was 2.1 feet.

A driving rain storm, extending into other parts of Texas and accompanied by thunder squalls, was raging last night when a funnel-shaped cloud vented its fury on a negro plantation community in the Trinity river bottoms 15 miles west of Cleveland.

Nine negroes, helpless in their flimsy cabins, lost their lives. Forty others were injured, some so badly they may die. The community is on the Murray plantation in Houston county.

A survey disclosed the winds struck furiously at communities and towns scattered from the gulf coast to Marshall, hundreds of miles north. At Mineveh, a farming town in Leon county, 15 negro tenants were hurt. Orange, on the coast, reported four injured.

Relief agencies swung into action.

It was found that about 50 families were made homeless in the negro community west of Cleveland, where the disturbance took its heaviest toll.

Piles of debris, strewn with demolished furnishings, were all that remained of 31 tenant houses wrecked near there.

MASSACHUSETTS BOY GUARDED BY POLICE

BROOKLINE, Mass., Feb. 9.—(AP)—While police tonight guarded the safety of the grandson of Ernest B. Dane, Sr., fashionable banker and widely known patron of the arts, federal officials in Boston revealed eastern Massachusetts had been flooded by kidnap notes in recent months.

That the boy, Ernest B. Dane, 3d, was under constant guard at the home of his father, Ernest B. Dane, Jr., a graduate student in the Harvard engineering school was established through police sources.

U. S. Attorney Francis J. W. Ford in Boston said his department had not been asked to investigate the case but agents of the department of justice reported a wave of notes threatening kidnaping or demanding ransom had inundated this section of the state in recent months. One such note demanded $1,000,000, they sad.

More Monroe Guardsmen Return From Baton Rouge

Nine members of Company G, 156th infantry, Louisiana national guard, of Monroe, returned here by train Saturday from Baton Rouge, where they had been on special duty two weeks. Captain Louis F. Rolleigh, commanding officer of the company, returned here Friday night.

Only 12 men of the company remained at the state capital. They are in charge of Lieutenant Nance, of E company. The latter company's home station is Baton Rouge.

About 45 men of the local company were taken to Baton Rouge two weeks ago. At intervals, detachments were returned to Monroe.

Although no official statement was made concerning the return of the 12 local guardsmen remaining at Baton Rouge, it was learned that they are expected to return within a few days.

HITLER SEEN AS AIMING BLOW AT VERSAILLES PACT

Counter - Proposals On Germany's Part Predicted By Diplomats

BERLIN, Feb. 9.—(AP)—A Nazi effort to turn the Anglo-French accord into the knockout blow they have long wanted to deal the Versailles treaty was foreshadowed today as Adolf Hitler, in hermit-like retreat, mulled over Germany's line of action.

Der Fuehrer was believed hunting for an opening that would enable him to pull the last Versailles thorns out of Germany's side.

With this belief as background, diplocatic quarters predicted counter-proposals to the Anglo-French proposals might issue from Hitler's 10-day seclusion.

On the outcome of the proposals, too, reichswehr circles said the future strength of Germany's standing army, limited to "toy" size by the Versailles treaty, might partly depend. Two other factors bearing on the reich's future military policy, they said, were:

1—The plan of certain French military circles lengthening the French enlistment period.

2—The future course of enigmatic Russia.

Whatever Hitler's success with his counter-proposals, it was agreed an attempt probably would be made to dislodge the proposed air alliance from the inclusive security agreement worked out by the French and British, since airminded Nazis see "several good things" in it.

The London plan, officials say frankly, is unacceptable as it stands, semi-official circles adding that Germany would not join any new general pact unless some of her colonies are returned. Boundary changes urged in Europe are chiefly those cutting Memel and Danzig—two important chapters of the Versailles pact still intact—off from the fatherland.

ROME, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Italy today stepped into line behind Anglo-French proposals for an inclusive western European security agreement to banish the spector of war.

The first government to reply to the proposals drafted at London last week-end, Rome affirmed her adherence in principle to the agreement, although she made an exception of the "special situation of Italy with regard to Great Britain and vice versa."

DUKE IS INVOLVED IN SEA ADVENTURE

King George's Son Is Aboard Ship Hurrying To Aid Of Vessel

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 9.—(AP)—The duke of Gloucester, third son of Britain's King George, was swept into an unscheduled adventure today when the cruiser Australia steamed for a spot 300 miles north of Tahiti, where the radio broadcast schooner Seth Parker was battling a storm and apparently riding it out.

The cruiser—a unit of the Australian navy with the duke as a passenger—turned off her course after Phillips Lord, entertainer and master of the widely publicised schooner, sent out a stream of messages saying he believed his vessel was in danger because of heavy seas. The schooner, a four-caster, did not send out SOS calls, however.

At 1:35 p.m. (eastern standard time) the radio of the Seth Parker was heard to say "Everything O. K., now." It added, however, that the "owner" didn't think so. The sender expressthe belief "the (the owner) should go to sleep now. Has been up all night."

An hour later the schooner's wireless reported the situation was the same.

The cruiser, taking the duke to Tahiti from Australia, was about 200 miles from the Seth Parker when she

WILLIAMS RESIGNS JOB AS OUACHITA HEALTH DIRECTOR

Will Leave Position Here To Return To His Native State

Formal announcement of the resignation of Dr. John W. Williams as director of the Ouachita parish health unit was made Saturday afternoon. The announcement was not unexpected, as Dr. Williams stated several days ago he was considering an offer from Asheville, North Carolina, to become director of the public health department of that city. The resignation will become effective the latter part of the month.

Announcement of the resignation was made to Dr. R. W. Todd, of New Orleans, state director of parish health bureaus, who came to Monroe to discuss the matter with Dr. Williams. Dr. Todd expressed deep regret over the resignation and said that the vacancy would be filled at an early date by a physician from the public health department who is fully trained in the work. One of two men, now under consideration for the office, will be chosen, he said.

"Dr. Williams has given up his post in Ouachita parish," said Dr. Todd, "to go back to his native state after

WIDE DISAGREEMENT ON CODES EXPECTED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(AP)—The schism between organized labor and the administration over recovery codes appeared today to be headed toward a wider gulf of disagreement over the $4,880,000,000 work relief bill.

With administration leaders claiming sufficient strength to overturn the senate appropriations committee decision for prevailing wages in whatever communities public works are undertaken, word passed around the capitol that the White House was in for one of its hardest battles when this issue reaches the floor, regardless of what the committee does.

Counter-balancing this was the prediction of one of the shrewdest politicians in the senate that, generally speaking, the Republican independents and the Democrats would join to put the bill through in virtually the same way it passed the house.

HAUPTMANN CASE ENDS EXCEPT FOR LEGAL ARGUMENTS

MRS. MORROW TALKS

Tells Of Whereabouts Of Violet Sharpe On Kidnap Night

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Feb. 9.—(AP)—The case against Bruno Richard Haupmann for the Lindbergh baby murder was completed today, five weeks and three days after it began.

With Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, the baby's grandmother, as one of the witnesses, the case ended—except for the legal oratory which will last through Monday and part of Tuesday—on a note of sharp contradiction.

The final day's testimony concerned itself not with Hauptmann, the Bronx carpenter accused of horrible crime, but with the memory of two persons dead—the little Isidor Fisch and the Morrow maid servant, Violet Sharpe, who committed suicide.

When it was not seeking to show that neither Fisch nor Miss Sharp had any guilty knowledge of the kidnap murder of March 1, 1932, the state in its last day of rebuttal testimony, ripped at the "lumber" evidence which the defense had presented.

Hauptmann, never demonstrative, sat through the final day of the trial which may mean his life showing little emotion.

In contrast with the defendant were Mrs. Morrow and her daughter, Mrs. Anne Lindbergh, who sat through both sessions today displaying keen interest in all the proceedings. Mrs. Lindbergh, the baby's mother, was making her second appearance in the old Hunterdon county courtroom. She was one of the first witnesses of the state.

Colonel Lindbergh, on the other hand, has been a constant court attendant, sitting behind the state counsel's table in a position from which he could look almost squarely at the witnesses as they paraded, 141 of them, through 29 court days of testimony.

The presentation of evidence came to an abrupt close at 2:30 p.m. when the state announced it had finished its rebuttal evidence and the defense, headed by Edward J. Reilly of New York, announced it would offer no sur-rebuttal.

Justice Thomas W. Trenchard called a recess until Monday when Anthony M. Hauck, Jr., one of the assistants of Attorney General David Wilentz who is conducting the state's case, will make the first summation. Hauck will outline the points which the prosecution has made through the testimony of the 88 witnesses it called to the stand.

Hauck does not expect to require more than an hour and a half.

Reilly, for the defense, will follow. He is expected to require most of the remainder of the day. Wilentz will speak for the state Tuesday, and the case should go to the jury of eight men and four women by mid-afternoon of that day—Lincoln's birthday. The charge to the jury by Justice Trenchard is not expected to require more than 45 minutes.

Mrs. Morrow was the last witness, a tragic touch to a trial that has attracted attention around the world. She testified, however, not as the grandmother of a baby murdered but as the employer of an English servant girl whose name had been repeatedly drawn into the case as having possibly had guilty knowledge of the crime.

Mrs. Morrow, widow of a Morgan partner who also was an American ambassador, testified that the servant, Violet Sharpe, was at the Morrow home in Englewood the night of the kidnaping up to about quarter of eight o'clock, and that she returned to the home about eleven. The kidnaping was from the Lindbergh home at Hopewell, many miles distant.

At the conclusion of Mrs. Morrow's testimony, the defense moved for a directed verdict of acquittal, which Justice Trenchard promptly denied.

Chief Counsel Reilly said: "So that the jury may thoroughly understand this procedure now, I understand that your honor holds (in denying a motion for a directed verdict of acquittal)

GOVERNMENT GIVES PENSION ESTIMATE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(AP)—The administration today sent to the capitol an estimate that less than a million persons would be eligible for old age pensions and that the total cost to the states would be about $111,000,000 annually.

Some congressmen have estimated that the pension plan would cost around $450,000,000 yearly.

The table, drawn up by the economic security committee, was based on the number of persons above 65 who are receiving relief in the states, plus those who are getting old age pensions in states that have pension systems.

For Virginia, where Senator Byrd, Democrat, Virginia, had estimated the cost would be between $12,000,000 and $20,000,000 a year, the committee estimated that $356,000 would be required. This was on the basis of a state contribution of $20 a month, distributed in the same proportion as relief now is in that state.

'Mama' Dionne Comes Near Weeping As She Sees Babes

CHICAGO, Feb. 9.—(AP)—The sight of rows of new-born babes in a hospital nursery today brought "Mama" Dionne to the verge of tears.

Until now the outward stoicism of this 26-year-old Canadian mother of ten children, among them the famous quintuplets, had provoked much comment among those who have watched her adventures in the city.

Mrs. Dionne murmured a few words in French, her usual low voice ending on a tearful note.

"She misses her babies, poor girl," explained Mrs. Joseph Rochon of North Bay, Ont., a relative who is traveling with the Dionnes. "In spite of all the thrill of sightseeing she is lonesome for her children."

Her visit to the huge modern hospital resulted in several of those rare smiles that even the antics of night club entertainers did not provoke.

This was the first time she had seen how babies are cared for in a great urban hospital.

National Defense Program Gets Administration Okeh

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(AP)—A $40,000,000 national defense program, centered in improved army and navy strongholds in the Pacific was revealed today by congressional leaders to have received administration approval.

The money will be shared equally by the army and navy. Chairman of the house military and naval committees said it was part of a $300,000,000 public works fund inserted in the 1936 government budget with the consent of President Roosevelt and the budget bureau.

While the navy was reported as prepared to spend some of its $20,000,000 along the Atlantic, most of it would be used for shipyards, drydocks and bases on the Pacific coast and at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, and Coco Sola, Canal Zone. Details of the apportionment of the money are being withheld but it was learned most of it would be spent in Hawaii and on the west coast.

The army plans to use nearly $11,000,000 to begin constructing an $18,000,000 air base in Hawaii. The remainder would be alloted for coast and harbor defenses, including anti-aircraft guns, and for erection of officers' quarters and barracks at army posts.

The money is to come from the $300,000,000 labelled for normal federal public works in the 1936 budget.

The decision to use most of the money in the Pacific was said to have been influenced by the fact that the fleet has been concentrated in Pacific waters during much of the past two years.

MITCHELL HEADS LEGION PROJECT

Monroe Man Is Named Chairman Of Child Welfare Committee

C. M. Mitchell, chairman of the child welfare program of the Louisiana department of the American Legion and member of Leonidas Barkdull Faulk post, has been appointed chairman of a joint child welfare committee representing the American Legion, the organization's auxiliary, the Forty and Eight and the Eight and Forty, of Louisiana.

Under a new arrangement for handling of the state child welfare program of the organizations, all requests for assistance must be sent to the chairman for his recommendation. Upon the chairman's recommendation, the joint committee secretary, Bashie S. Hill, of Alexandria, forwards a check for the case of the underprivileged child to the post commander or unit president in the town or community where child is located.

A follow-up system under the new arrangement provides a check of the needs of the child by the assistant state service commissioners of the district in which the child lives.

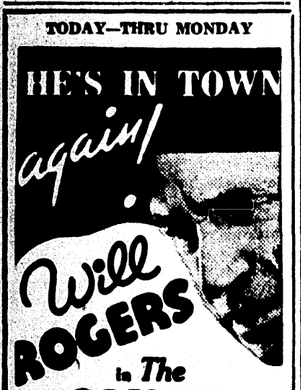

The new system in Louisiana is similar to that inaugurated throughout the nation under a new national arrangement.

The national organization has allocated $103,000 of its five million dollar endowment fund for 1935 to the child welfare program.

A STAMPING CORNER

By W. J. KIRBY

In this column last week we mentioned the report that an imperforate sheet had been promised for the St. Petersburg exhibition. The postoffice department has since definitely announced that there will not be any imperforate for the show. We collectors have had enough of these foisted on us during the past two years, and should all be thankful that there will be no such issue. With the coming of the new presidential series, we will be kept busy with new issues, and the majority of us will have all we can do to secure first day covers and mint copies of this series.

Switzerland has just issued a series of three stamps that will be issued gratis to institutions and societies that do welfare work. The 5 centime stamp shows a Protestant nurse, the 10c shows a Catholic sister of mercy, while the 20c pictures Henry Dunand, famous Swiss philanthropist and founder of the Red Cross. All in all, this is a very attractive series of stamps. No institution is to receive an excess of 2,000 francs, face value.

Australia recently issued a commemorative for the centennial of the founding of the first colony in Australia—Victoria. There are three values in the set—a 2-penny red, a 3-penny blue and a 1-shilling black. The design, which is the same on the entire issue, shows a native gazing across a river at the modern city of Melbourne. This issue is not so beautiful as some of the few commemoratives issued "down under."

A more beautiful stamp from Australia is the "Prosperity Issue," which came out in November. This series, consisting of 2-pence, 3-pence and 9-pense values, pictures a Merino ram, and also commemorates the centenary of the death of Capt. John Macarthur. Captain Macarthur was an officer of one of the first military forces sent to Australia by the British government. After retiring from military service, he established himself as a farmer in New South Wales and returned to England to purchase livestock for his estate. In the royal park he saw the Merino sheep given to his king by the king of Spain and was successful in securing a few head to carry back to Australia with him. The sheep flourished in their new habitat, and many of the large flocks there today are descended from those of Captain Macarthur. It is largely to the woolen industry that Australia owes its recovery from the universal depression, hence this stamp honoring the Merino sheep and the man who introduced it, Captain John Macarthur.

Thus far, thirty nations have indicated that they will send current stamps to the postoffice department for inclusion in the permanent stamp and postal exhibit now being prepared, says Weekly Philatelic Gossip. The Philatelic Museum will have space in the new postoffice on Pennsylvania avenue in Washington.

And now a representative from Missouri has introduced a resolution asking for a stamp to commemorate the birth of Mark Twain (Samuel L. Clemens,) world renowned humorist, who was born at Hannibal Mo., Nov. 30, 1835. Which leads us to ask—Why not an artists and authors set, but not until the new presidential series has passed?

The second regular meeting of the Twin City Stamp club will be held at the recreation room of the city hall Thursday evening at 7:30, when Inspector Hunnicutt will discuss "Precancels." Every collector in Monroe and vicinity is invited—nay, urged—to attend. Efforts are being made to have collectors from out of the city attend, as well as every collector in the Twin Cities.

PACIFIC IS SEEN AS DANGER SPOT

Smuts Says Anglo-American Agreement Would Insure Peace

CAPETOWN, Feb. 9.—(AP)—America and Britain, working together, could keep the lid clamped down on the Pacific, the world's new danger spot, General Jan Smuts said here tonight.

"If Japan knew that treaty or no treaty there existed in fact a policy of practical cooperation between the British and American groups," he told the South African Institute of International Affairs, "that knowledge of itself would in all probability suffice to insure peace in the Pacific."

Asserting Japan's present policy holds within it the possibility that virtually the entire world may become embroiled in the Pacific, the South African soldier and statesman said:

"The dominions desire the closest association possible between Great Britain and the United States in world affairs for their own future security.

"They look partly to the United States," he added, "for they feel sure that what happened in the great war would happen again, and that in any grave crisis of the future and in any hour of danger these two groups would be found side by side, treaty or no treaty."

At the same time, General Smuts declared the "sensitiveness" of Asiatic nations necessitates a "double dose of charity" on the part of Europe and America.

"Japan's situation calls for a large measure of patience, good will and cooperation between the United States and the British commonwealth," he said.

Delegates to the imperial press conference, which closed its Capetown session today, were among the audience which heard General Smuts, who has just recovered from illness.

A practical policy of cooperation between Britain and America in the Pacific, he told his hearers, "for the maintenance of the integrity of China and future peace is the most important step that could be taken in international affairs."

WEST MONROE DRUG CONCERNS ANNOUNCE MERCHANDISING PLAN

A new merchandising policy has been adopted by the drug stores of West Monroe, according to announcement Saturday. Through this policy the drug stores of that city plan to be able to sell standard brands of drugs at materially reduced prices.

The following statement was issued as a part of the announcement:

"The drug stores of West Monroe have inaugurated a brand new policy, effective immediately, of buying their merchandise cooperatively, in order to meet the prices of the cut-rate drug stores, giving the people of West Monroe and community the benefit of the lowest prices on drugs and toilet articles ever quoted in this newspaper.

"These stores will not sacrifice quality for the benefit of price, but will maintain the same high quality and excellent service."

Drug stores which have entered the agreement to buy cooperatively and to give their customers the benefit of savings thus effected, are City Drug company, Inc., Kennedy-Bennett Drug company, Inc., and Calvert's Drug company.

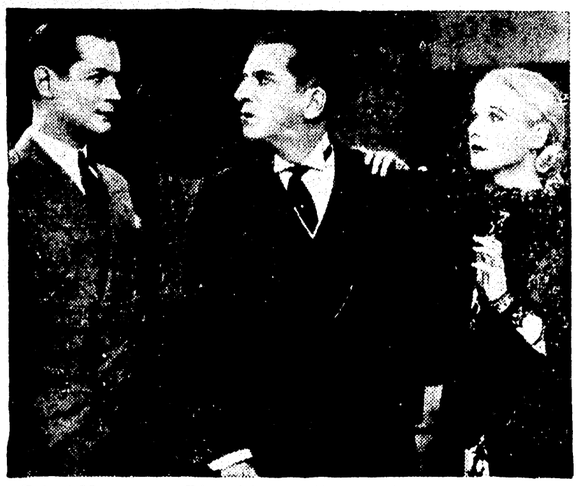

NEW WOMEN'S STORE OPENS HERE FRIDAY

Monroe's newest women's store, the Hollywood Cotton shoppe, opened at 147 DeSiard street Friday morning. That the Twin Cities wanted this kind of shop was "demonstrated by the wonderful response to the opening advertisement carried in the News-Star—World," stated Mrs. Miles.

"The advertisement announcing our opening," said Mrs. Lillian Miles, manager, "created such widespread interest that our store was crowded and jammed both Friday and Saturday. There was also an unusually large number of shoppers from the trade area adjacent to the Twin Cities. Bringing Hollywood styles to Monroe has certainly met with the approval of thousands of women and misses of this section and we want to express our thanks to everyone who contributed to making our inaugural a complete success."

It is going to be the policy of the Hollywood Cotton shoppe to feature a new and special item each week. New shipments are now on the way and should be here for Monday morning, Mrs. Miles said. They contain, continued Mrs. Miles, "gorgeous Hollywood creations patterned in cotton fabrics and also spring hats in the new fashion sports. They should appeal to college misses and the younger set."

PARAMOUNT TUESDAY, WEDNESDAY

Robert Montgomery, Edward Everett Horton and Ann Harding in a scene from the comedy romance, "Biography of a Bachelor Girl," the attraction at the Paramount theater for Tuesday and Wednesday. Edward Arnold and Una Merkel also help in the fun.

AT LOCAL THEATERS

AT THE PARAMOUNT—Will Rogers has played an amazing variety of roles. In the fifteen talking pictures he has made to date, the star has been an oil millionaire, a mid-western farmer, a hobo, a meat packer, a druggist, a Kentucky judge and many other things.

But until now Will has never enacted the role for which he is perhaps best fitted of all—a politician. In real life he is one of the best-informed and keenest students of politics in the entire country, but until he made "The County Chairman," which is playing at the Paramount theater today, he has never had an opportunity to transfer such a character to the screen.

"The County Chairman," produced by Fox Film, is a screen adaptation of the famous stage comedy by George Ade, which once served Maclyn Arbuckle as his best-known starring vehicle. It tells a mirthful, shrewd and dramatic story of small-town politics in a day when American village life was far more colorful and isolated than it is today.

Will, it is said, is seen in a role superbly suited to his talents—that of a fire-eating boss who owns the town, but who gives more than he takes throughout his career. He's a small-town war-horse, with plenty of big town ideas.

In his cast, the star has the support of many well-known players who have appeared with him in earlier successes. Louise Dresser, who has been seen with Rogers in five pictures, has an important role and Evelyn Venable and Kent Taylor, the young lovers of "David Harum," once more take care of the romantic assignment. Other featured players are Berton Churchill, Mickey Rooney and Stepin Fetchit.

The cast likewise includes such tried and trusty actors as Robert McWade, Frank Melton, Charles Middleton, Russell Simpson, Erville Alderson and William V. Mong.

"The County Chairman" was produced by Edward W. Butcher and directed by John Blystone. The screen play was authored by Sam Hellman and Gladys Lehman, from the George Ade original.

AT THE CAPITOL—Described as a thrilling and spectacular story of desperate war in the air, the newest Fox film starring vehicle for Warner Baxter opens today at the Capitol theater.

"Hell in the Heavens" is the title of the new film, and it is said to offer one of the most absorbing and romantic war dramas yet produced in Hollywood. It tells a story of daring men—not afraid of death but afraid of fear; desperate for life, yet each day braving destruction in the skies.

Preview audiences in Hollywood have voted "Hell in the Heavens" the most powerful picture Warner Baxter has had in seasons, and all advance reports indicate that it is a film of unusual dramatic quality.

John Blystone, famous for many a screen success, directed "Hell in the Heavens." It is his sixty-third picture for Fox. He is a director who never fails to deliver a punch production.

Conchita Montenegro, who appeared with Warner Baxter in the memorable Fox film, "The Cisco Kid," is once more his leading woman in "Hell in the Heavens." Other notable members of a large cast are Russell Hardie, young Broadway leading man who recently has chalked up several screen hits in quick succession; Herbert Mundin, Andy Devine, William Stelling and the always dependable Ralph Morgan.

Vince Barnett has an outstanding comedy role, it is said. He and Mundin are seen as a pair of orderlies attached to the American escadrille and quartered at a French chateau. J. Carroll Naish and Johnny Arthur are other well-known screen "names" who have roles in the picture.

Al Rockett is listed as producer. The screen story of "Hell in the Heavens" was fashioned by Byron Morgan and Ted Parsons from the successful London stage drama, "The Ace."

AT THE RIALTO—The sensational yellow press, muck-raking the lives of unfortunates for their daily ration of glaring headlines, is stripped of its glamour and laid bare as the dramatic background of "White Lies," the Columbia picture featuring Walter Connolly, Fay Wray and Victor Jory, which comes to the Rialto theater in West Monroe today.

The film tells the dramatic story of a ruthless publisher whose zealous search for sensational news makes his own daughter a victim of his unscrupulous news editing. Walter Connolly, who scored so effectively in "Whom the Gods Destroy" and "The Captain Hates the Sea," will be seen in the leading role as the newspaper publisher.

Fay Wray plays the attractive young daughter, who in an attempt to help a victim of her father's yellow journalism, is herself involved in a sensational murder case. How Connolly takes the stand at the girl's trial and tries to save her makes for a dramatic climax that is said to be highly effective.

Victor Jory, as the young officer who, although in love with the girl, is forced to arrest her; Leslie Fenton, playing a repentant embezzler; and William Demarest, Irene Hervey, Oscar Apfel and Katherine Clare Ward in supporting holes, compiete the cast.

"White Lies" is an original story by Harold Bulgakov, noted stage director and member of the Moscow Art theater. This is his first screen directorial effort.

Mrs. Kate B. Osborn announces the marriage of her daughter, Kate to Dr. Earl C. Ferguson of Clayton, La. The marriage was quietly celebrated at Sicily Island, La., on January the twenty-ninth. Dr. Ferguson and his bride will tour through the east and will visit Philadelphia, Chicago and New York. On the seventh of February they will sail for Europe, where they expect to remain two months. On their return they will make their home in Clayton. The announcement will be of deepest interest to many friends here and in Clayton, of the bride and groom.

The Catholic Altar society met with Mrs. Harold J. Monnat. This meeting was an important one as there was an election of officers. Mrs. J. D. M. E. Davis secretary and treasurer, Brown was elected president, Mrs. and Mrs. Harold Monnat vice president. Following the election of officers there was a business discussion. When this was concluded a delicious salad course was served. Those members attending the meeting were Mrs. J. D. Brown, Mrs. M. E. Davis, Mrs. Joseph T. Curry, Mrs. Samuel G. Manning, Mrs. John Guice, Mrs. Robert McBride, Mrs. Santo Baragoni and Mrs. Puckett Mason of Newellton, La. Mrs. S. S. Rushing of New Orleans was a guest of the society for the afternoon.

The Episcopal auxiliary met with Mrs. Joseph Whitaker. The meeting was opened as usual with a prayer service. The president, Mrs. John Hughes, presided at the meeting. Minutes from the last meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. Joseph Whitaker. The treasurer, Mrs. George Clinton, gave a report. Important business matters were then discussed.

The meeting was closed by all present joining in a brief prayer service. Besides the hostess, Mrs. Whitaker, the other members present included Mrs. Joseph Curry, Mrs. George Clinton, Mrs. John Hughes, Mrs. Magruder Adams, Mrs. Maraible Harper and Mrs. Albert Bondurant.

The Methodist Missionary society held a meeting on Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. John Lloyd Lee was the hostess. This was a regular meeting and foreign missionary study took place. When the study was concluded, a salad course with tea was served. Those present at the meeting included Mrs. Germain Baker, Mrs. Howard Wortley, Mrs. Everett Smith, Mrs. Edward Smith, Mrs. Marvin Hoon, Mrs. Gasperino Bruno, Mrs. Peter Nevil, Mrs. Steve Smith and the hostess, Mrs. Lee.

MITCHELL HEADS LEGION PROJECT

Monroe Man Is Named Chairman Of Child Welfare Committee

C. M. Mitchell, chairman of the child welfare program of the Louisiana department of the American Legion and member of Leonidas Barkdull Faulk post, has been appointed chairman of a joint child welfare committee representing the American Legion, the organization's auxiliary, the Forty and Eight and the Eight and Forty, of Louisiana.

Under a new arrangement for handling of the state child welfare program of the organizations, all requests for assistance must be sent to the chairman for his recommendation. Upon the chairman's recommendation, the joint committee secretary, Bashie S. Hill, of Alexandria, forwards a check for the case of the underprivileged child to the post commander or unit president in the town or community where child is located.

A follow-up system under the new arrangement provides a check of the needs of the child by the assistant state service commissioners of the district in which the child lives.

The new system in Louisiana is similar to that inaugurated throughout the nation under a new national arrangement.

The national organization has allocated $103,000 of its five million dollar endowment fund for 1935 to the child welfare program.

A STAMPING CORNER

By W. J. KIRBY

In this column last week we mentioned the report that an imperforate sheet had been promised for the St. Petersburg exhibition. The postoffice department has since definitely announced that there will not be any imperforate for the show. We collectors have had enough of these foisted on us during the past two years, and should all be thankful that there will be no such issue. With the coming of the new presidential series, we will be kept busy with new issues, and the majority of us will have all we can do to secure first day covers and mint copies of this series.

Switzerland has just issued a series of three stamps that will be issued gratis to institutions and societies that do welfare work. The 5 centime stamp shows a Protestant nurse, the 10c shows a Catholic sister of mercy, while the 20c pictures Henry Dunand, famous Swiss philanthropist and founder of the Red Cross. All in all, this is a very attractive series of stamps. No institution is to receive an excess of 2,000 francs, face value.

Australia recently issued a commemorative for the centennial of the founding of the first colony in Australia—Victoria. There are three values in the set—a 2-penny red, a 3-penny blue and a 1-shilling black. The design, which is the same on the entire issue, shows a native gazing across a river at the modern city of Melbourne. This issue is not so beautiful as some of the few commemoratives issued "down under."

A more beautiful stamp from Australia is the "Prosperity Issue," which came out in November. This series, consisting of 2-pence, 3-pence and 9-pense values, pictures a Merino ram, and also commemorates the centenary of the death of Capt. John Macarthur. Captain Macarthur was an officer of one of the first military forces sent to Australia by the British government. After retiring from military service, he established himself as a farmer in New South Wales and returned to England to purchase livestock for his estate. In the royal park he saw the Merino sheep given to his king by the king of Spain and was successful in securing a few head to carry back to Australia with him. The sheep flourished in their new habitat, and many of the large flocks there today are descended from those of Captain Macarthur. It is largely to the woolen industry that Australia owes its recovery from the universal depression, hence this stamp honoring the Merino sheep and the man who introduced it, Captain John Macarthur.

Thus far, thirty nations have indicated that they will send current stamps to the postoffice department for inclusion in the permanent stamp and postal exhibit now being prepared, says Weekly Philatelic Gossip. The Philatelic Museum will have space in the new postoffice on Pennsylvania avenue in Washington.

And now a representative from Missouri has introduced a resolution asking for a stamp to commemorate the birth of Mark Twain (Samuel L. Clemens,) world renowned humorist, who was born at Hannibal Mo., Nov. 30, 1835. Which leads us to ask—Why not an artists and authors set, but not until the new presidential series has passed?

The second regular meeting of the Twin City Stamp club will be held at the recreation room of the city hall Thursday evening at 7:30, when Inspector Hunnicutt will discuss "Precancels." Every collector in Monroe and vicinity is invited—nay, urged—to attend. Efforts are being made to have collectors from out of the city attend, as well as every collector in the Twin Cities.

PACIFIC IS SEEN AS DANGER SPOT

Smuts Says Anglo-American Agreement Would Insure Peace

CAPETOWN, Feb. 9.—(AP)—America and Britain, working together, could keep the lid clamped down on the Pacific, the world's new danger spot, General Jan Smuts said here tonight.

"If Japan knew that treaty or no treaty there existed in fact a policy of practical cooperation between the British and American groups," he told the South African Institute of International Affairs, "that knowledge of itself would in all probability suffice to insure peace in the Pacific."

Asserting Japan's present policy holds within it the possibility that virtually the entire world may become embroiled in the Pacific, the South African soldier and statesman said:

"The dominions desire the closest association possible between Great Britain and the United States in world affairs for their own future security.

"They look partly to the United States," he added, "for they feel sure that what happened in the great war would happen again, and that in any grave crisis of the future and in any hour of danger these two groups would be found side by side, treaty or no treaty."

At the same time, General Smuts declared the "sensitiveness" of Asiatic nations necessitates a "double dose of charity" on the part of Europe and America.

"Japan's situation calls for a large measure of patience, good will and cooperation between the United States and the British commonwealth," he said.

Delegates to the imperial press conference, which closed its Capetown session today, were among the audience which heard General Smuts, who has just recovered from illness.

A practical policy of cooperation between Britain and America in the Pacific, he told his hearers, "for the maintenance of the integrity of China and future peace is the most important step that could be taken in international affairs."

WEST MONROE DRUG CONCERNS ANNOUNCE MERCHANDISING PLAN

A new merchandising policy has been adopted by the drug stores of West Monroe, according to announcement Saturday. Through this policy the drug stores of that city plan to be able to sell standard brands of drugs at materially reduced prices.

The following statement was issued as a part of the announcement:

"The drug stores of West Monroe have inaugurated a brand new policy, effective immediately, of buying their merchandise cooperatively, in order to meet the prices of the cut-rate drug stores, giving the people of West Monroe and community the benefit of the lowest prices on drugs and toilet articles ever quoted in this newspaper.

"These stores will not sacrifice quality for the benefit of price, but will maintain the same high quality and excellent service."

Drug stores which have entered the agreement to buy cooperatively and to give their customers the benefit of savings thus effected, are City Drug company, Inc., Kennedy-Bennett Drug company, Inc., and Calvert's Drug company.

NEW WOMEN'S STORE OPENS HERE FRIDAY

Monroe's newest women's store, the Hollywood Cotton shoppe, opened at 147 DeSiard street Friday morning. That the Twin Cities wanted this kind of shop was "demonstrated by the wonderful response to the opening advertisement carried in the News-Star—World," stated Mrs. Miles.

MS RESIGNS OUACHITA H DIRECTOR

"TH ent and faithful serv- decision is one that ire department a great et, because we recognize ble service that he has ren- the public during his term of He goes with the utmost good s of the state department of health and the bureau which s so splendidly served. His place be filled by a man from the public health organization, one perience and training, because recognize that Ouachita parish is of the most important units of public health system. The pub- is assured that the efficiency al- ly established under Dr. Wil- ms will be fully maintained."

ntil a permanent appointment is de, Dr. Todd said. Dr. J. A. Cole- an, field worker of the state health department, will have temporary charge after Dr. Williams relinquishes his office.

Dr. Williams has been head of the parish health unit since 1929, when it was first organized under the joint sponsorship of the United States health department, the state health department, Ouachita parish and the city of Monroe. The health unit has been one of the most important factors in raising the health standards of the parish and in reducing the death rate in rural sections. It has gained national recognition for its achievements.

In going to North Carolina Dr. Williams will be returning to his native state. He is a graduate of the University of North Carolina and the medical school of the University of Maryland. He practiced medicine at Everett, N. C., for some years and later entered public health work. His service in malaria control in North Carolina won for him a scholarship at Johns Hopkins university, where he completed a course in 1926.

He came to Louisiana in 1927 as one of the United States health workers sent to this state to aid in the emergency health unit at Bastrop, where he served a year and a half before coming to Monroe to organize the Ouachita parish health unit. He is a member of the Monroe Rotary club and has been active in all civic movements involving betterment of public health.

Following the announcement of Dr. Williams' resignation, Mayor Arnold Bernstein made public a letter addressed to the mayor and council of Asheville regarding the work of the health director during his term of office here. The letter follows in part:

"Dr. John W. Williams came to this city about six years ago very highly recommended by the surgeons of the U. S. public health service, and since that time has demonstrated the fact to us here in Monroe and Ouachita parish, that the gentlemen of the public health service who so highly recommended him were not mistaken in their man."

"It has been my pleasure to see him shoulder one responsibility after another, such as the housing and watching over the sanitation and welfare of thousands of flood refugees who were quartered in box cars and improvised shelters during very severe overflow periods, all of which was done without the loss of life, or increase in the sick rate.

"In these connections, I have further seen him shoulder the responsibility of distributing food to the drouth sufferers, and do so without criticism or favoritism being shown.

"During these calamitous times mentioned above, and the depression since that time, his work has kept abreast of the things that are necessary to prevent a high death rate, or a sick ratio. When he came to us, the rate was 20.8 per 1,000, and today it is about 8.8 per 1,000. This, together with the defects corrected in school children of the city and parish has disclosed the following figures: 4.1 defect per child reduced to 1.2 per child, which shows the actual work of the department in the schools, together with organized clinics not only from physicians and surgeons but by dentists also. It goes without saying that this work was assisting those children who could not aid themselves, nor could their parents help them.

"In sanitation, he has not hesitated to use legal means when other methods failed. This has been seldom, but when he did, all were treated in the same manner. There was no preference shown to the highest or the least humble.

"He is leaving our city very much against my personal wishes, and I wish it were possible to persuade him to continue with us because I think that those who have been associated with him in the city hall not only love and respect him, but they feel the same toward his fine family and the professional help with which he has surrounded himself.

"Sincerely yours,
(Signed) "ARNOLD BERNSTEIN,
"Mayor."

Miss Edith Hennessey, field representative of the Red Cross in Dallas, left for Grapeland an hour after learning of the disaster. Ambulances carried the injured over muddy roads to hospitals.

De Quincy, La., suffered damage estimated at between $10,000 and $20,000 when a tornado lashed that town. The Kansas City Southern freight warehouse was blown from its foundation.

In the Reynard community of Houston county, the home of Herman Beasley was twisted on its foundation blocks and left facing in another direction.

DE QUINCY, La., Feb. 9.—(AP)—The east Texas tornado of last night which killed 12 persons and injured many others in that state dipped into southeast Louisiana and caused an estimated $10,000 and $20,000 damage at DeQuincy in Calcasieu parish.

Shreveport in northwest Louisiana and other border localities were swept by strong winds and heavy precipitations which temporarily flooded streets and highways and interfered with traffic.

While there were no reports of injuries the property damage in DeQuincy was widespread. Among the buildings which suffered the greatest damage were the Phelan Grocery company, the Kansas City Southern freight warehouse and the Missouri Pacific shops.

he received his license to preach in the Methodist church.

It was as his wife that Mrs. Harris gathered the material for her story of the "Circuit Rider's Wife." Mr. Harris died in 1887 just when his wife was approaching the zenith of her literary career.

Mrs. Harris, author of more than a score of novels and many short stories, first had a work appear in print in the Atlanta Constitution. A little later, in 1899, she began to write for a national magazine, the Independent.

For several years afterward, the writer met success with a series "The Brasstown Valley Stories" which appeared in the American magazine.

Her books included, "Eve's Second Husband," "Recording Angel," "In Search of a Husband," "Co-Citizens," "Making Her His Wife," "Happily Married," "Daughter of Adam," "As a Woman Thinks," "Flapper Anne," "My Book and My Heart" and "Happy Pilgrimage."

She summed up her faith in the magazine "Forum" in 1928 in a debate with Dora Russell, wife of Bertrand Russell, the English philosopher, on the subject of "Are We Happier Than Our Grandmothers." Mrs. Russell answered yes, citing economic equality, with men easy divorce, birth control and modern trends as boons to feminine happiness.

Mrs. Harris countered with a vigorous "no" upholding what she described as the old fashioned thesis that "only the truly good could be happy."

One of Mrs. Harris's most recent projects was the acceptance of the chair in a "course in evil" at Rollins college in Winter Park, Fla. She conducted the course in the winter of 1931 at the request of the president of the school, Dr. Hamilton Holt.

It was unique in educational history. Mrs. Harris believed that evil is one of the oldest classics of human nature and should not be taught as it usually is by people "morally illiterate and mentally corrupt."

Millet, Drouth Crop, Proves Farm Bonanza

WINONA, Minn., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Millet planted as a drouth crop last summer in a desperate effort of Minnesota farmers to provide winter livestock feed is proving a bonanza crop.

Late fall rains in southeastern Minnesota not only improved pastures and provided sufficient hay and fodder for winter feeding but produced one of the best millet crops in state history, yields averaging about $40 an acre.

Sheriff's Department Says Deputies Did Not Shoot 2 Negro Suspects

No statement concerning the shooting of two negroes and arrest of five other negroes in connection with a raid on stills conducted by two federal agents, assisted by deputies of the sheriff's department, Friday afternoon in woods north of Lemleville, had been issued by the federal agents up to last night, but it was announced by the sheriff's department that members of the department who participated in the raid did not shoot the two negroes.

The announcement from the sheriff's department was made after no statement had been forthcoming from the federal agents. It was stated that the announcement was made to set at rest any suppositions which might be made to effect that the deputies fired at the negroes.

One of the negroes arrested in connection with the federal agents' activities, John Marbles, was taken from the city jail yesterday and brought before Allen B. Guthrie United States commissioner, who set Tuesday afternoon as the date for a preliminary hearing of the case against the negro, who is charged with possession of illegal liquor. The commissioner fixed a temporary bond of $2,000 in the negro's case. The bond was not provided and Marbles was placed in the parish jail.

The negroes shot in the raid, William Smith, 36, and Herbert Perry, 32 are patients at the negro ward of St. Francis sanitarium.

The four negroes lodged in the parish jail after the raid was made, Menthe Johnson and Jessie Hamilton, women, and Oliver Wallace and Leonard Carie, remained prisoners in the jail Saturday.

The Prodigal Father

Numerous applications have been made of the familiar Biblical story of the prodigal son. It has been discussed and debated, even to the point made by an old negro preacher who began his sermon with the declaration, "Dere was an old prodigal and he had two sons."

We have heard the prodigal son reprobated. We have heard it argued that his return to the halls of the family home was not so much a matter of repentance as of finding himself in need of going some place and having no other place to go. When he got so hungry that the front of his stomach stuck to his backbone, and so thin from lack of nourishment that he could hardly detect his shadow, he lifted up his eyes to the place where his doting father was, surrounded by plenty, and went there.

We have heard the elder brother characterized as a smug, unforgiving Pharisee, as a hard-boiled skinflint with a nature so cold that you could stick a pin in him and he would bleed ice water; and as one who had in his make-up not one drop of the milk of human kindness, or of compassion for a person who couldn't make the grade, who couldn't handle the levers, who couldn't work the controls and who in consequence was always getting cracked up or getting cracked down on.

But we never hear anyone voice a criticism of the father for his part in the prodigal's luckless adventure into the world and the grief to which he came. The father of the prodigal made the escapade of the prodigal possible. In fact, he encouraged it. What did he do? Why, when the irresponsible youth came to him and demanded in advance of the old man's death the share of the estate which he might expect at his parent's death, the old man handed it over.

And the prodigal, irresponsible, not to be trusted with money or anything else of value, went forth into the world, indulged in riotous living, and wasted every thin dime of the sum his father had so foolishly given him. So it is small wonder that the old man, pondering the situation, realizing that he himself was to blame for the prodigal's sad plight, was deeply remorseful, and on the other hand when the prodigal returned apparently without permanent harm, was highly grateful that nothing worse had occurred. He expressed his relief and joy by throwing a large party.

Many a father has made a prodigal of his son. Rich men's sons used to be nearly all prodigals. It took rich men a long time to learn that they were not being kind to their sons to shower them with wealth and give them free rein. It is only recently that rich fathers have come to realize the danger to their sons in being the sons of rich fathers.

Perhaps the old negro preacher wasn't so far wrong; perhaps it was the father who was the real prodigal; perhaps the story of the prodigal son is intended to carry just as much warning to wealthy fathers as to prodigal sons and to tight-lipped elder brothers.

AUSTERITY BREAKS DOWN

We generally take it for granted that the British parliament is the very home of parliamentary dignity. Other nations, including our own, may send sons of the wild jackass to represent them at their capitol; Britain has an old tradition under which statesmen, not politicians, are elected, and the house of commons does not witness those wild and uncouth scenes which make exciting reading in other seats of government.

This conception, however, is rudely upset by a reading of the recent flurry which took place in the house of commons when a labor member rose to relieve his mind on the subject of Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald. Here are some of the things the man said:

"He is a mountebank. He should be flung and horse-whipped from public life. He would double-cross his own aunt. He attained power on the pennies and half pennies of the people and now he is robbing them. When he dies, he will be cursed by millions."

Undignified and ill-considered as some of our own congressional outbursts may be, it is a long time since any congressman has attacked the head of his government in terms as wild as these.

Now there is a movement to abolish the electoral college. But instead of scrapping the old institution why not hire a high-pressure football coach and try to make it amount to something!

Cattle died of the heat last summer and they are dying, we read, of the cold this winter. What this country may need is hardier, if not tougher, cattle.

More Truth Than Poetry

By JAMES J. MONTAGUE

A WORD OF WARNING

It has been found that mosquitoes can thrive on a wholly vegetable diet.

Time was, when you sped on your way
From place to place, on whining wing,
Forgivingly I used to say:
"Oh, well, she has to eat, poor thing;
She could not flutter here and there
Nor through my bedroom buzz and soar
Unless she made her daily fare
On human gore;
Without that daily food supply
She presently would droop and die."

Full often, in the brooding gloom,
When gloaming faded into night,
From spot to spot I've watched you zoom
The while you voiced your shrill delight.
But why snuff out a poor frail "skeet,"
That lives, at best, a harried life
And has to gain its bread and meat
With gruelling strife?
"Go to it, bug," I said, "you're free
To batten, now and then, on me."

But now I learn you do not need
To glut your maw on man alone;
On many a food stuff you may feed
In every clime and every zone.
If all the human race fell dead
You easily could get along;
You'd still be adequately fed
And going strong.
Hereafter, when you soar and sail,
I'm going to swat you, tooth and nail.

SHINING EXAMPLE

Don't forget that the Saar election was held without a single case of repeating or ballot-box stuffing.

Lost Chances In War

By BRUCE CATTON

Capt. Hart Reveals Mistakes By Leaders On Each Side

Whatever else future generations may say about the World war, it is quite possible that they will look on it as one of the most mismanaged conflicts in all human history.

You get that notion from reading Capt. Liddell Hart's "A History of the World War." Capt. Hart, one of England's foremost military critics, seems to find in the war one long, dreary series of missed opportunities and costly stupidities.

For one thing, he finds the military mind almost hermetically closed to new ideas. Long after it had become horribly obvious that the machine gun dominated all infantry tactics, the British high command was reporting the machine gun "an over-rated weapon."

The soldiers insisted that two guns to a battalion were enough—until Lloyd George finally forced them to multiply that by 16!

That is merely a sample. More serious is the constant fumbling of strategical chances, indulged in repeatedly by both sides.

Germany, says Capt. Hart, lost the Marne battle through her own high command's blunders. France, in turn, had paved the way for German triumph at the Marne by similar blunders.

Falkenhayn missed his chance to finish Russia permanently in 1915. Britain missed its chance to knock out Turkey and save Russia, in the same year.

The Germans fumbled their first gas attack; the British fumbled their first use of tanks. The French let Nivelle wreck their army in 1917; Ludendorff might have made a success of his big push of 1918 if he had kept his head.

And so on and so on . . . a sorry record if there ever was one.

New Deal In Washington

By Rodney Dutcher

WASHINGTON. — Secretary Ickes swore softly as he read the government's brief in its Parker dam injunction suit against the state of Arizona.

Read the brief and you'll see why.

Some years ago a group of progressives in congress, led by Senator Hiram Johnson of California, won a long, grim fight against the "power trust" for government construction of a huge power project on the Colorado river. They always referred to the project as Boulder dam.

Then a secretary of interior named Ray Lyman Wilbur, to their intense disgust, named the thing after a friend of his whom they heartily disliked. Wilbur designated it as "Hoover dam."

Most senators went right on calling it "Boulder" and you could call it one thing or the other for quite a while until a change of administration occurred and Mr. Ickes, not long after he succeeded Wilbur, announced with grim satisfaction that it was going to be "Boulder," not "Hoover."

But recently the governor of Arizona sent the state's army and navy —consisting of one bumboat on the Colorado—to drive federal engineers from their work on Parker dam, a PWA project closely related to the larger development.

And the federal government has just sued before the supreme court to enjoin Arizona from interference. In its brief, signed by Attorney General Cummings and Solicitor General Biggs, Ickes found in the enumeration of Parker dam purposes:

". . . reregulating the water discharged at Hoover (Boulder) dam, in such manner as to enable more effective use of said Boulder dam and for other public purposes." After which, the brief consistently refers to the dam as "Hoover (Boulder) dam." If it had only said "Boulder (Hoover) dam," Ickes wouldn't be quite so sore.

Bouquets and Boots

The old game of rewarding the good little boys and punishing the bad ones still goes on in congress. A couple of stray incidents will tell you how it is:

Senator Sherman Minton of Indiana, a new man, is opposed to the quick cash bonus payoff. He shows every sign of being "regular" for the administration, which hopes he can be especially helpful.

The other day Minton had a telephone call from the White House, asking how he would like to address the Dutchess County association of New York, a high-hat organization of which Roosevelt is a member and which had invited the president to speak. Flattered, Minton said he would.

Soon he had a letter from the association president, saying the White House had designated Minton to speak "for the administration." That sort of thing usually makes a new senator feel good, as Roosevelt and Secretary Louis Howe well know.

On the other hand, there's the case of the three Pennsylvania representatives who voted against the house leadership's "gag rule." They were promptly relegated to unimportant committees and all three—Ellenbogen, Dunn and Moritz—landed on the census committee. They feel a bit silly about this, as they were intended to feel, since each comes from the city of Pittsburgh and there won't be another national census until 1940.

Watch Your Ears, Joe

You have to get used to almost anything—good and bad—in this administration, but plenty of eyebrows are raised at the spectacle of Senator Joe Guffey, political boss of Pennsylvania, giving instructions to house leaders about the favors or lemons he wants handed to Democratic members of his state's house delegation.

Guffey doesn't like Congressman Berlin of Greensburg, Pa. So he had Berlin kept off the powerful house rules committee. And his office telephoned to departmental officials and the Democratic National committee that Berlin shouldn't get any patronage and the appointees he had landed in federal jobs should be fired as soon as convenient.

Pennsylvania and other congressmen were irritated when they observed Guffey, in full view of the house, leaning over Speaker Byrns' desk and whispering to that complacent leader about still another member of the delegation he didn't like.

It's no new revelation here that Guffey is an even cruder political manipulator than Jim Farley himself. But now that he is here as a senator an doperating so openly, it's a fair bet that someone, one of these days, will be knocking his ears down.

Dream On, Jim

Farley, one gathers, still lives wistfully in the hope that something can be done to deprive Senator Bronson Cutting, progressive Republican, of his seat. Few others share this hope except ex-Congressman Dennis Chavez, Farley's friend, who was defeated by Cutting in New Mexico by 1,300 votes and still mutters vaguely of a possible contest.

Asked about this situation the other day, Farley said pontifically:

"If Mr. Cutting has been elected, he should be seated. If Mr. Chavez has been elected, he should be seated. "But you musn't quote me on that!"

Aid Is Asked Here In Finding Missing Man

Assistance in locating a Canadian named J. E. McCoy, who, his family fears, may have met with some mishap or tragedy, was asked of the police department here Saturday in a letter received from O. G. Leary of Anselmo, Alta, Canada. The letter said it was feared McCoy might be dead.

According to information given by Leary, McCoy was in Monroe a little more than a year ago. His occupation was said to be that of a steel worker on high buildings, but when last heard from he was unemployed, "dead broke and bumming meals," according to a letter he wrote to Leary.

Because of the fact that McCoy was without money and appeared to be dependent and nothing has been heard from him since that time, Leary expressed the fear that something might have happened to him and asked that police here lend any assistance possible in tracing him.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

A MIRACULOUS SHOT—In March, 1922, Sergeants Fred Tapscott and James McCarthy of the Chicago police, entered a speakeasy at 31st and Cottage Grove avenue, Chicago, encountering one William Webb, a notorious escaped convict. McCarthy ordered Webb to throw up his hands, but instead the convict whipped out his pistol, trigger cocked, and tried to shoot. But he was not quite quick enough. Sergt. Tapscott blazed away and his bullet found its mark directly in the barrel of Webb's gun, knocking it from his hand. For his quick and effective work Tapscott received numerous awards from the newspapers of Chicago, citizens, and the department, as well as creditable mention on the official police department records.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla.—Meanderings: It's chilly on Broadway's sidewalks, and jobless entertainers need no second invitation to head south. One club manager telegraphed an eccentric dancer: "Wire your lowest salary four weeks here." The Broadwayman's answer bounced in two hours later: "Coming at once."

The Prodigal Father

Numerous applications have been made of the familiar Biblical story of the prodigal son. It has been discussed and debated, even to the point made by an old negro preacher who began his sermon with the declaration, "Dere was an old prodigal and he had two sons."

We have heard the prodigal son reprobated. We have heard it argued that his return to the halls of the family home was not so much a matter of repentance as of finding himself in need of going some place and having no other place to go. When he got so hungry that the front of his stomach stuck to his backbone, and so thin from lack of nourishment that he could hardly detect his shadow, he lifted up his eyes to the place where his doting father was, surrounded by plenty, and went there.

We have heard the elder brother characterized as a smug, unforgiving Pharisee, as a hard-boiled skinflint with a nature so cold that you could stick a pin in him and he would bleed ice water; and as one who had in his make-up not one drop of the milk of human kindness, or of compassion for a person who couldn't make the grade, who couldn't handle the levers, who couldn't work the controls and who in consequence was always getting cracked up or getting cracked down on.

But we never hear anyone voice a criticism of the father for his part in the prodigal's luckless adventure into the world and the grief to which he came. The father of the prodigal made the escapade of the prodigal possible. In fact, he encouraged it. What did he do? Why, when the irresponsible youth came to him and demanded in advance of the old man's death the share of the estate which he might expect at his parent's death, the old man handed it over.

And the prodigal, irresponsible, not to be trusted with money or anything else of value, went forth into the world, indulged in riotous living, and wasted every thin dime of the sum his father had so foolishly given him. So it is small wonder that the old man, pondering the situation, realizing that he himself was to blame for the prodigal's sad plight, was deeply remorseful, and on the other hand when the prodigal returned apparently without permanent harm, was highly grateful that nothing worse had occurred. He expressed his relief and joy by throwing a large party.

Many a father has made a prodigal of his son. Rich men's sons used to be nearly all prodigals. It took rich men a long time to learn that they were not being kind to their sons to shower them with wealth and give them free rein. It is only recently that rich fathers have come to realize the danger to their sons in being the sons of rich fathers.

Perhaps the old negro preacher wasn't so far wrong; perhaps it was the father who was the real prodigal; perhaps the story of the prodigal son is intended to carry just as much warning to wealthy fathers as to prodigal sons and to tight-lipped elder brothers.

AUSTERITY BREAKS DOWN

We generally take it for granted that the British parliament is the very home of parliamentary dignity. Other nations, including our own, may send sons of the wild jackass to represent them at their capitol; Britain has an old tradition under which statesmen, not politicians, are elected, and the house of commons does not witness those wild and uncouth scenes which make exciting reading in other seats of government.

This conception, however, is rudely upset by a reading of the recent flurry which took place in the house of commons when a labor member rose to relieve his mind on the subject of Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald. Here are some of the things the man said:

"He is a mountebank. He should be flung and horse-whipped from public life. He would double-cross his own aunt. He attained power on the pennies and half pennies of the people and now he is robbing them. When he dies, he will be cursed by millions."

Undignified and ill-considered as some of our own congressional outbursts may be, it is a long time since any congressman has attacked the head of his government in terms as wild as these.

Now there is a movement to abolish the electoral college. But instead of scrapping the old institution why not hire a high-pressure football coach and try to make it amount to something!

Cattle died of the heat last summer and they are dying, we read, of the cold this winter. What this country may need is hardier, if not tougher, cattle.

More Truth Than Poetry

By JAMES J. MONTAGUE

A WORD OF WARNING

It has been found that mosquitoes can thrive on a wholly vegetable diet.

Time was, when you sped on your way
From place to place, on whining wing,
Forgivingly I used to say:
"Oh, well, she has to eat, poor thing;
She could not flutter here and there
Nor through my bedroom buzz and soar
Unless she made her daily fare
On human gore;
Without that daily food supply
She presently would droop and die."

Full often, in the brooding gloom,
When gloaming faded into night,
From spot to spot I've watched you zoom
The while you voiced your shrill delight.
But why snuff out a poor frail "skeet,"
That lives, at best, a harried life
And has to gain its bread and meat
With gruelling strife?
"Go to it, bug," I said, "you're free
To batten, now and then, on me."

But now I learn you do not need
To glut your maw on man alone;
On many a food stuff you may feed
In every clime and every zone.
If all the human race fell dead
You easily could get along;
You'd still be adequately fed
And going strong.
Hereafter, when you soar and sail,
I'm going to swat you, tooth and nail.

SHINING EXAMPLE

Don't forget that the Saar election was held without a single case of repeating or ballot-box stuffing.

Lost Chances In War

By BRUCE CATTON

Capt. Hart Reveals Mistakes By Leaders On Each Side

Whatever else future generations may say about the World war, it is quite possible that they will look on it as one of the most mismanaged conflicts in all human history.

You get that notion from reading Capt. Liddell Hart's "A History of the World War." Capt. Hart, one of England's foremost military critics, seems to find in the war one long, dreary series of missed opportunities and costly stupidities.

For one thing, he finds the military mind almost hermetically closed to new ideas. Long after it had become horribly obvious that the machine gun dominated all infantry tactics, the British high command was reporting the machine gun "an over-rated weapon."

The soldiers insisted that two guns to a battalion were enough—until Lloyd George finally forced them to multiply that by 16!

That is merely a sample. More serious is the constant fumbling of strategical chances, indulged in repeatedly by both sides.

Germany, says Capt. Hart, lost the Marne battle through her own high command's blunders. France, in turn, had paved the way for German triumph at the Marne by similar blunders.

Falkenhayn missed his chance to finish Russia permanently in 1915. Britain missed its chance to knock out Turkey and save Russia, in the same year.

The Germans fumbled their first gas attack; the British fumbled their first use of tanks. The French let Nivelle wreck their army in 1917; Ludendorff might have made a success of his big push of 1918 if he had kept his head.

And so on and so on . . . a sorry record if there ever was one.

New Deal In Washington

By Rodney Dutcher

WASHINGTON. — Secretary Ickes swore softly as he read the government's brief in its Parker dam injunction suit against the state of Arizona.

Read the brief and you'll see why.

Some years ago a group of progressives in congress, led by Senator Hiram Johnson of California, won a long, grim fight against the "power trust" for government construction of a huge power project on the Colorado river. They always referred to the project as Boulder dam.

Then a secretary of interior named Ray Lyman Wilbur, to their intense disgust, named the thing after a friend of his whom they heartily disliked. Wilbur designated it as "Hoover dam."

Most senators went right on calling it "Boulder" and you could call it one thing or the other for quite a while until a change of administration occurred and Mr. Ickes, not long after he succeeded Wilbur, announced with grim satisfaction that it was going to be "Boulder," not "Hoover."

But recently the governor of Arizona sent the state's army and navy—consisting of one bumboat on the Colorado—to drive federal engineers from their work on Parker dam, a PWA project closely related to the larger development.

And the federal government has just sued before the supreme court to enjoin Arizona from interference. In its brief, signed by Attorney General Cummings and Solicitor General Biggs, Ickes found in the enumeration of Parker dam purposes:

". . . reregulating the water discharged at Hoover (Boulder) dam, in such manner as to enable more effective use of said Boulder dam and for other public purposes." After which, the brief consistently refers to the dam as "Hoover (Boulder) dam." If it had only said "Boulder (Hoover) dam," Ickes wouldn't be quite so sore.

Bouquets and Boots

The old game of rewarding the good little boys and punishing the bad ones still goes on in congress. A couple of stray incidents will tell you how it is:

Senator Sherman Minton of Indiana, a new man, is opposed to the quick cash bonus payoff. He shows every sign of being "regular" for the administration, which hopes he can be especially helpful.

The other day Minton had a telephone call from the White House, asking how he would like to address the Dutchess County association of New York, a high-hat organization of which Roosevelt is a member and which had invited the president to speak. Flattered, Minton said he would.

Soon he had a letter from the association president, saying the White House had designated Minton to speak "for the administration." That sort of thing usually makes a new senator feel good, as Roosevelt and Secretary Louis Howe well know.

On the other hand, there's the case of the three Pennsylvania representatives who voted against the house leadership's "gag rule." They were promptly relegated to unimportant committees and all three—Ellenbogen, Dunn and Moritz—landed on the census committee. They feel a bit silly about this, as they were intended to feel, since each comes from the city of Pittsburgh and there won'e be another national census until 1940.

You have to get used to almost anything—good and bad—in this administration, but plenty of eyebrows are raised at the spectacle of Senator Joe Guffey, political boss of Pennsylvania, giving instructions to house leaders about the favors or lemons he wants handed to Democratic members of his state's house delegation.

Guffey doesn't like Congressman Berlin of Greensburg, Pa. So he had Berlin kept off the powerful house rules committee. And his office telephoned to departmental officials and the Democratic National committee that Berlin shouldn't get any patronage and the appointees he had landed in federal jobs should be fired as soon as convenient.

Pennsylvania and other congressmen were irritated when they observed Guffey, in full view of the house, leaning over Speaker Byrns' desk and whispering to that complacent leader about still another member of the delegation he didn't like.

It's no new revelation here that Guffey is an even cruder political manipulator than Jim Farley himself. But now that he is here as a senator an doperating so openly, it's a fair bet that someone, one of these days, will be knocking his ears down.

Dream On, Jim

Farley, one gathers, still lives wistfully in the hope that something can be done to deprive Senator Bronson Cutting, progressive Republican, of his seat. Few others share this hope except ex-Congressman Dennis Chavez, Farley's friend, who was defeated by Cutting in New Mexico by 1,300 votes and still mutters vaguely of a possible contest.

Asked about this situation the other day, Farley said pontifically:

"If Mr. Cutting has been elected, he should be seated. If Mr. Chavez has been elected, he should be seated. "But you musn't quote me on that!"

Aid Is Asked Here In Finding Missing Man

Assistance in locating a Canadian named J. E. McCoy, who, his family fears, may have met with some mishap or tragedy, was asked of the police department here Saturday in a letter received from O. G. Leary of Anselmo, Alta, Canada. The letter said it was feared McCoy might be dead.

According to information given by Leary, McCoy was in Monroe a little more than a year ago. His occupation was said to be that of a steel worker on high buildings, but when last heard from he was unemployed, "dead broke and bumming meals," according to a letter he wrote to Leary.

Because of the fact that McCoy was without money and appeared to be despondent and nothing has been heard from him since that time, Leary expressed the fear that something might have happened to him and asked that police here lend any assistance possible in tracing him.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

A MIRACULOUS SHOT—In March, 1922, Sergeants Fred Tapscott and James McCarthy of the Chicago police, entered a speakeasy at 31st and Cottage Grove avenue, Chicago, encountering one William Webb, a notorious escaped convict. McCarthy ordered Webb to throw up his hands, but instead the convict whipped out his pistol, trigger cocked, and tried to shoot. But he was not quite quick enough. Sergt. Tapscott blazed away and his bullet found its mark directly in the barrel of Webb's gun, knocking it from his hand. For his quick and effective work Tapscott received numerous awards from the newspapers of Chicago, citizens, and the department, as well as creditable mention on the official police department records.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla.—Meanderings: It's chilly on Broadway's sidewalks, and jobless entertainers need no second invitation to head south. One club manager telegraphed an eccentric dancer: "Wire your lowest salary four weeks here." The Broadwayman's answer bounced in two hours later: "Coming at once."

AS SOLONS MOVE TO E KINGFISH

"THAT ... State Already ...rough 'Home-Bred Demagogues'

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Feb. 9.—(AP)—An indication that Senator Huey P. Long of Louisiana might make his second political invasion of Arkansas in 1936 occurred in the house of representatives today as that body twice rejected a resolution proposing to invite him to speak on his "share our wealth" program.

The indication was contained both in a statement and a knowing wink to newspapermen by Rep. O. E. Gates of Cleveland county, author of the resolution which first was repected by a viva voce vote and three hours later—after the Kingfish said in Washington that the result "might have been different" on a roll call—by a record vote, 58 to 13.

Gates in a statement explaining his vote said:

"The poor people of Arkansas are not voting on this resolution but Senator Long and I will carry the message of hope to the voters of Arkansas in the next primary."

Questioned for more specific information on any plans of the Louisiana senator to enter Arkansas in 1936 as he did in 1932 to advocate the candidacy of Senator Hattie W. Caraway, Gates smiled and then gave his questioners a wink.

"Just wait and see, boys," he said, smilingly.

After the flurry over the first vote of rejection on the resolution had subsided, Rep. Leo E. Nyberg of Phillips county, youthful liberal leader, said he learned Senator Long had stated in effect "that the Arkansas house is afraid to go on record."

Many members jumped to their feet, shouting: "Let's give him a roll call," and the first vote was reconsidered so as to permit a roll call.

Many members went to the microphone of the loud speaker system to shout their votes of "no" on the resolution, and Rep. Fred McCollum of Mo... county sent t... the desk an explanation of his vote which was: "I think Arkansas has enough home-bred demagogues without bringing him in."

Rep. Hendrix Rowe... of Jefferson county then offered a ... tion expressing ...nfidence "in Sen...ors Joe T. Robinson and Hattie T. Caraway of Arkansas, and should we desire to be addressed on affairs of national importance, that we choose as our speaker one of our own outstanding senators now serving the state in Washington."

There was no debate on this resolution, but Nyberg managed to shout that "here's our chance to complete the political pants-kicking" he said was administered to the Louisiana senator by the house's earlier action.

Girl Makes Unusual Offer In World Want Ad Columns

A red-headed, brown-eyed Monroe girl, attractive and "slightly lazy," is looking for a husband with two principal qualifications—at least six feet of height and money. She says so in a classified advertisement which appears in this issue of The World.

The girl, a pretty waitress, is ambitious to be a singer and to have a career in music and in order to realize this ambition she is willing to take a husband as a "business proposition." Even so, the pretty miss cannot separate the idea of marriage from romance and the man she marries must have some qualifications other than money.

The girl allows considerable latitude in the matter of looks, making it possible for a fairly large proportion of the male population to qualify along this line, as she says the prospective groom may be plain-looking. She is willing to accept a plain-looking man because she believes he is more likely to be permanent, "because other women like good-looking men too well."

Besides being at least six feet tall, future husband must weigh less than 200 pounds, which indicates that the pretty miss prefers men of the Apollo, rather than the Hercules type. One of her reasons for wanting a man six feet tall is that she is five feet and nine inches tall and she wants a husband at least three inches taller than herself.

The girl isn't too sure that she would marry any prospective wooer that might come along, even if he should meet with the above qualifications. It is easy to see that she is making some mental reservations and that there must be at least a little romance mixed up with the "business proposition." Once or twice she said she would marry anybody who could fill the above requirements and then she said:

"No, I wouldn't either. I couldn't do that. I wouldn't marry just anybody."

It isn't necessary for the man she marries to be wealthy, but she wants him either to have enough money or a job good enough to be able to afford to give her a musical education. She believes there is a future for her in music if she can only obtain the necessary training.

The girl is not exaggerating in the ... when she says in her edvertisement that she is attractive, for she is certainly that, with her bewitching smile, flaming hair and comely form.

If no good matrimonial prospect should appear, the girl said she would be willing to accept a good job, as she is ambitious, although "slightly lazy." She wants a job that would be good enough to enable her to take the coveted music lessons and still have enough to live on, as it is necessary for her to make her own living.

The name of the young lady was not disclosed because she feared that if her identity were made known she would be swamped with offers.

Monroe Postoffice Will Receive Commodity Bids

Bids on three public utility commodities for the year ending June 30, 1936, will be received by the Monroe postoffice until 2 o'clock, February 20, according to notices displayed in the postoffice building. These notices, made separately, call for bids on furnishing water, electricity and gas for the postoffice building.

The postoffice here is also receiving bids for beautifying the lawn. Work to be done under this contract will include landscaping and the placing of shrubbery.

"Five Thousand More Since Yesterday"

EVERY working day, more than five thousand New Ford V-8's roll off the assembly line and into the service of Ford owners.

It has been a long time since people have taken to a new car the way they have taken to the New Ford V-8.

Ford production in January was upwards of 100,000 units. For February it is set at 130,000. There haven't been figures like that since 1930.

That means jobs and wages for increasing thousands of automobile workers. Ford employment in the United States is more than 114,000—over 74,000 at Dearborn and 40,000 in Ford plants throughout the country.

This activity reaches out to many hundreds of thousands of men in allied industries. They are busy when Ford is busy.

The story of the Ford V-8 is one of progress. Before it came along the V-8 cylinder engine was always associated with high price. It was beyond the reach of the average motorist.

The Ford Motor Company believed this was "the coming car for the majority of drivers." It set to work to build it at low cost. When you give the people something better there's never any question about sales.

It is interesting to note that more than 1,400,000 Ford V-8 cars and trucks have been built in the last three years. Each year has seen a sharp increase—the V-8 production in 1934 being approximately 103% ahead of 1933.

More important than sales, however, is service to owners. What the car does on the road is what counts. Actual use is the true test of an automobile. It has proved that the Ford V-8 engine has distinct advantages in performance and that it is economical too. Fact is, the Ford V-8 costs less per mile than any other Ford ever built. Cost records of owners show that to be so.

HAUPTMANN CASE ENDS EXCEPT FOR LEGAL ARGUMENTS

Justice Trenchard: "That is it."

Mrs. Morrow, pale and sedate, was dressed in modified mourning for her eldest daughter, Mrs. Elisabeth Morrow Morgan, who died last December.

Attorney General Wilentz questioned Mrs. Morrow in a quiet voice.

Q. Will you tell us about what time the last time you saw Miss Sharpe that evening?

A. She served dinner, which was at about seven o'clock, and I did not see her after a quarter before eight, about. Until I saw her much later in the evening.

Q. And when you saw her some time after eleven and considerably before twelve, it was in the Morrow home, I take it?

A. It was.

Q. Now, was Miss Sharpe in the home all day during the daytime as nearly as you can remember?

A. As nearly as I recall she was there all day.

Q. Was the butler's night off, March 1st?

A. He was in the house that night, but not serving.

Q. How many other maids did you have at that time?

A. We had a cook and housemaid and seamstress, five, there were six other maids in the house.

In addition to Mrs. Morrow, there were witnesses to tell that Violet Sharpe was in their company the night of the crime; that she accompanied two men and another young woman to a speakeasy; that she drank coffee; and that she returned home about 11 p.m.

One of her companions of that night, Ernest Miller, said he met the girl on the road about a week before the murder, and the defense counsel wanted to know from him if that wasn't what is known as "picking up" a girl.

"She was walking along the road and she asked me for a ride," Miller said. "She waved her hand and I stopped. She must have mistaken me for someone else."

Another member of the March 1, 1932, party at the "Peanut Grill" speakeasy where Miller said he and the others went with Miss Sharpe was Catherine Minners, who testified that Violet had ordered coffee.

Elmer Johnson, the fourth member of the speakeasy party, told a similar story to back the state's contention that Miss Sharpe was not near the Lindbergh home in Hopewell on the kidnap night.

During the testimony of this witness there was a wrangle when defense counsel sought to indicate to the jury that Johnson, among others, had been living at Trenton at the expense of the state of New Jersey awaiting his turn to testify.

The expert in wood, Arthur Koehler, whose earlier testimony linked wood from the kidnap ladder to Hauptmann's home, was recalled at the morning session to rebutt testimony of defense witnesses which had contradicted his. Koehler, an efficient and matter of fact witness, reiterated his previous testimony, amplifying it in places.

The thoroughness of the state's effort today to fix Violet Sharpe's presence on the kidnap night was in answer to defense testimony earlier in the week. Mrs. Anna Bonesteel, a restaurant owner of Yonkers, N. Y., testified that she had seen Miss Sharpe the night of the kidnaping waiting in her restaurant, a blanket on her arm, waiting for two men who finally drove up in an automobile and took her away.

ment and reconstruction finance corporation experts. The government, it has been made clear, is ready for any eventuality the opinion may produce.

Although Cropley's half-laughing answer to questions on the possibility o fa verdict on Tuesday, was hardly taken as an indication of what is in prospect, the chance remained that the announcement might come any day next week after Monday.

There is ample precedent for such a course, should the tribunal decide to follow it. Elaborate preparations have already been made for handling an enormous throng of would-be spectators on the day the decision is handed down.

The court will seat less than three hundred. Consequently admission will be by card only. To be adequately prepared for keeping the spectators inside once they have entered, and the unfortunate cardless out, extra locks were fixed today upon the doors.

The court will be in session all next week and will meet on Monday, February 18, to deliver opinions before taking a two weeks recess.

HERB DOCTOR IS GIVEN SENTENCE

Must Serve Life Term For Killing Mississippi Railroad Man

MERIDIAN, Miss., Feb. 9.—(AP)—R. W. Gray, 72-year-old herb doctor and railroad night watchman, was convicted by a jury in Lauderdale county circuit court late today of the murder of Henry Killian, a railroad employe, and was sentenced to life imprisonment.

The elderly man, former poultry dealer of Pittsburgh, Pa., received the verdict and sentence with no show of emotion.

The jury received the case late this afternoon after defense motions for a mistrial had been overruled by Judge Arthur Busby.

Killian was slain in the railroad yards east of Meridian last May 20. Arrested as the suspected slayer, Gray claimed self defense.

Taking the stand in his own defense today, Gray testified that he fired the fatal shot "because I was afraid of him (Killian), and knew that he would hurt me."

"It was on Sunday afternoon, May, 1934, in the yards, where I was watchman, that I saw two heads sticking up from behind a lumber pile," he testified. "I hollered: 'Hey, you fellows get out of there.' Henry Killian stuck his head up and said, 'Go to hell, you old——.' I turned into the shack and got my gun and went out into the yards to run them away, and when Henry kept coming at me I shoved him with the gun. He kept coming. I was afraid of him, and knew he would hurt me and I pulled the trigger. I'm sorry it happened and wouldn't have had that to happen for anything, but I did that to protect myself."

HOTEL OPERATOR DIES AFTER CRASH

SHREVEPORT, La., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Mrs. Eva Steele, 48, hotel operator at Latex, died at 7:30 p.m. Saturday as she was being rushed to a hospital here, after being pulled from the wreckage of two cars on the Bethany road, 21 miles southwest of Shreveport.

She and her family, returning to Latex from Shreveport, had stopped to investigate a wreck which left the trailer of a ditched truck on the opposite side of the pavement.

Alighting with Charles Baird, 17, her adopted son, Mrs. Steele was approaching the trailer when a sedan struck it, hurling the wreckage upon her.

E. Steele, 55, husband of the victim, had remained in the car. The lights of his car blinded the driver of the Shreveport-bound machine, according to state highway police who investigated the accident.

The fatal accident occurred 10 minutes after the truck, driven by a negro, had been forced off the road by another vehicle, according to the officers. The negro and Frank Maranto, 35, in the truck, had received minor injuries.

A Million Buys This Prize, Girls; King Zog Still In Marriage Market

Bride Sought By Albanian Monarch Won't Suffer From Ennui

(By NEA Service)

LONDON, Feb. 9.—Assuming, girls, that you have an income of a million dollars a year, there are a few points you ought to consider before you take ship for Tirana, Albania, to appear for that vacant job as queen.

Zog, the only bachelor king in Europe, wants a wife. Or rather, his subjects have decided he'd better have one, which is much the same thing.

Having had no luck among the tagends of royalty remaining, Zog is willing to wed an American girl with an advanced mind, ability, good looks, and a million a year. Who wouldn't be, you ask?

Never mind, let's just consider what you'll see when you get in that line of applicants which has undoubtedly begun to form.

In the first place, King Zog disputes with Legs Diamond the title of human clay pigeon, and you know what happened to Legs. As King Zog's queen, you'd be almost certain to have never a dull moment. For somebody is always taking a shot at King Zog.

He's Constant Target

In 1924, one of Albania's political enthusiasts really potted King Zog, and he nearly died. A few years ago, when he was leaving a Vienna hospital, his car was riddled in a real Diamond fashion, but he escaped.

Vienna authorities pointedly suggested that he go home to be shot at. Reports from Greece recently had him wounded by a bomb thrown by revolutionaries, but his capital at Tirana issued denials. Still, it gives you an idea.

Albania is a backward mountain country which, in addition to an annual crop of revolutions, produces a continual and luxurious growth of tribal and family feuds of a kind that makes the Kentucky variety look like a church social.

If one man, annoyed, kills another, then the dead man's family does not rest until it has killed the killer. Whereupon it is the other family's move, and it kills the killers of the killer. This goes on and on.

Curse Record Is High

The Albanian feud has improvements that even Kentucky can't match. For instance, if a government agent shoots one of the numerous banditti who infest the hills, all his relatives and friends interpret this as a personal affront by King Zog.

And if they can't spare the time to run down to Tirama, the capital, to say it with squirrel-rifles, they put a curse of death on Zog.

His score on curses now is believed to run about 800 (as of January 1), a record, even in Albania.

The fact that Zog is alive at all as he approaches 40 is the best proof that he is a sort of royal young man on the flying trapeze. For Albania is certainly one of the stormiest countries in Europe or any other continent.

An ancient race with its own language and traditions, the Albanians have been for 30 centuries under foreign rule, by the Byzantine empire, the old Serb empire, and the Turks. Albania became independent in 1912, when the Balkan powers licked the Turks.

William Saves Skin

The great powers gave Albania a ruler in the person of Prince William of Wied. But when the World war came along, Prince William got out of there while the getting was still fairly good, and Albania relapsed into virtual anarchy as armies of both sides campaigned hither and yon across her territory.

One Achmend Zogu, a young and sturdy mountaineer, flitted across the picture, campaigning now with one army, now with another, now against all of them and for Albania. Zogu emerged after the war at 23 as head of the Albanian army.

Italy and Yugo-Slavia both wanted a foothold in Albania, which lies conveniently between the two, and a nice jumping-off place for a war either way.

With Italian help, Achmed Zogu had the national assembly promote him from president to king, and in 1928 he became King Zog. And as such he has steered a neat course down the middle between Yugo-Slavian and Italian wooing.

Princesses Say "No"

To seal those relations with Italy, Zog's solicitous courtiers sought an Italian princess for him, and later the matter was mentioned to Princess Ileana of Rumania, but both matches fell through.

Zog even met trouble when he wooed the Countess Dorothea Ropp, who preferred Kemal Massare, Zog's court marshal. Zog forbade their marriage, and the countess was later found dead on the shores of Phaleron Bay, near Athens, apparently a suicide.

King Zog also was smitten with Bee Jackson, an American dancer appearing in Vienna, and proposed that she try out the Albanian climate with him.

But Miss Jackson's answer, the later averred, was a good, old-fashioned American sock in the nose.

King Zog, in addition to living a life full of romantic incident, is good-looking, likes American jazz, and has a band with him at the royal palace in Tirana most of the time, smokes an unbelievable number of cigarets, and is making an apparently sincere effort to bring something of modern civilization to Albania.

So, girls, if you have a million a year, and are unmarried and a little bored, you can't do better than apply for that vacant job as queen of Albania.

MRS. ROOSEVELT ATTENDS MEETING

Makes Suggestion To Combat Unemployment At Hyde Park

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Calling for a "community effort" to help put the president's home town back on its feet, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt tonight suggested at a town meeting that a non-profit making corporation be formed to help take up the slack in Hyde Park's employment rolls.

"This is a cooperative thing," she said during a discussion of relief needs occasioned by dwindling employment along this picturesque section of the Hudson.

After asserting it had "occurred to me some time ago that it would help if the town would make a community effort to get on its feet," Mrs. Roosevelt said:

"I think we can get advice and information and the resources of the government to help.

"The relief administration lends money for certain specific things.

"It is possible for a community to form a non-profit making corporation and get a private loan from individuals or groups of individuals.

"Such a corporation can remain a non-profit making organization until the loan is paid off."

Hyde Park, with a population of 1,500 has 339 unemployed and 62 families on relief. The closing of many large estates along the Hudson, which formerly furnished employment to the local residents, has contributed in no small measure to the situation.

Mrs. Roosevelt, accompanied by a group of government advisers, attended the meeting in town hall merely to inform her neighbors, she said, what might be done through the federal agencies, and not to impose any program that would not meet with their approval.

HAUPTMANN CASE ENDS EXCEPT FOR LEGAL ARGUMENTS

Justice Trenchard: "That is it."

Mrs. Morrow, pale and sedate, was dressed in modified mourning for her eldest daughter, Mrs. Elisabeth Morrow Morgan, who died last December.

Attorney General Wilentz questioned Mrs. Morrow in a quiet voice.

Q. Will you tell us about what time the last time you saw Miss Sharpe that evening?

A. She served dinner, which was at about seven o'clock, and I did not see her after a quarter before eight, about. Until I saw her much later in the evening.

Q. And when you saw her some time after eleven and considerably before twelve, it was in the Morrow home, I take it?

A. It was.

Q. Now, was Miss Sharpe in the home all day during the daytime as nearly as you can remember?

A. As nearly as I recall she was there all day.

Q. Was the butler's night off, March 1st?

A. He was in the house that night, but not serving.

Q. How many other maids did you have at that time?

A. We had a cook and housemaid and seamstress, five, there were six other maids in the house.

In addition to Mrs. Morrow, there were witnesses to tell that Violet Sharpe was in their company the night of the crime; that she accompanied two men and another young woman to a speakeasy; that she drank coffee; and that she returned home about 11 p.m.

One of her companions of that night, Ernest Miller, said he met the girl on the road about a week before the murder, and the defense counsel wanted to know from him if that wasn't what is known as "picking up" a girl.

"She was walking along the road and she asked me for a ride," Miller said. "She waved her hand and I stopped. She must have mistaken me for someone else."

Another member of the March 1, 1932, party at the "Peanut Grill" speakeasy where Miller said he and the others went with Miss Sharpe was Catherine Minners, who testified that Violet had ordered coffee.

Elmer Johnson, the fourth member of the speakeasy party, told a similar story to back the state's contention that Miss Sharpe was not near the Lindbergh home in Hopewell on the kidnap night.

During the testimony of this witness there was a wrangle when defense counsel sought to indicate to the jury that Johnson, among others, had been living at Trenton at the expense of the state of New Jersey awaiting his turn to testify.

The expert in wood, Arthur Koehler, whose earlier testimony linked wood from the kidnap ladder to Hauptmann's home, was recalled at the morning session to rebutt testimony of defense witnesses which had contradicted his. Koehler, an efficient and matter of fact witness, reiterated his previous testimony, amplifying it in places.

The thoroughness of the state's effort today to fix Violet Sharpe's presence on the kidnap night was in answer to defense testimony earlier in the week. Mrs. Anna Bonesteel, a restaurant owner of Yonkers, N. Y., testified that she had seen Miss Sharpe the night of the kidnaping waiting in her restaurant, a blanket on her arm, waiting for two men who finally drove up in an automobile and took her away.

Although Cropley's half-laughing answer to questions on the possibility o fa verdict on Tuesday, was hardly taken as an indication of what is in prospect, the chance remained that the announcement might come any day next week after Monday.

There is ample precedent for such a course, should the tribunal decide to follow it. Elaborate preparations have already been made for handling an enormous throng of would-be spectators on the day the decision is handed down.

The court will seat less than three hundred. Consequently admission will be by card only. To be adequately prepared for keeping the spectators inside once they have entered, and the unfortunate cardless out, extra locks were fixed today upon the doors.

The court will be in session all next week and will meet on Monday, February 18, to deliver opinions before taking a two weeks recess.

HERB DOCTOR IS GIVEN SENTENCE

Must Serve Life Term For Killing Mississippi Railroad Man

MERIDIAN, Miss., Feb. 9.—(AP)—R. W. Gray, 72-year-old herb doctor and railroad night watchman, was convicted by a jury in Lauderdale county circuit court late today of the murder of Henry Killian, a railroad employe, and was sentenced to life imprisonment.

The elderly man, former poultry dealer of Pittsburgh, Pa., received the verdict and sentence with no show of emotion.

The jury received the case late this afternoon after defense motions for a mistrial had been overruled by Judge Arthur Busby.

Killian was slain in the railroad yards east of Meridian last May 20. Arrested as the suspected slayer, Gray claimed self defense.

Taking the stand in his own defense today, Gray testified that he fired the fatal shot "because I was afraid of him (Killian), and knew that he would hurt me."

"It was on Sunday afternoon, May, 1934, in the yards, where I was watchman, that I saw two heads sticking up from behind a lumber pile," he testified. "I hollered: 'Hey, you fellows get out of there.' Henry Killian stuck his head up and said, 'Go to hell, you old——.' I turned into the shack and got my gun and went out into the yards to run them away, and when Henry kept coming at me I shoved him with the gun. He kept coming. I was afraid of him, and knew he would hurt me and I pulled the trigger. I'm sorry it happened and wouldn't have had that to happen for anything, but I did that to protect myself."

HOTEL OPERATOR DIES AFTER CRASH

SHREVEPORT, La., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Mrs. Eva Steele, 48, hotel operator at Latex, died at 7:30 p.m. Saturday as she was being rushed to a hospital here, after being pulled from the wreckage of two cars on the Bethany road, 21 miles southwest of Shreveport.

She and her family, returning to Latex from Shreveport, had stopped to investigate a wreck which left the trailer of a ditched truck on the opposite side of the pavement.

Alighting with Charles Baird, 17, her adopted son, Mrs. Steele was approaching the trailer when a sedan struck it, hurling the wreckage upon her.

E. Steele, 55, husband of the victim, had remained in the car. The lights of his car blinded the driver of the Shreveport-bound machine, according to state highway police who investigated the accident.

The fatal accident occurred 10 minutes after the truck, driven by a negro, had been forced off the road by another vehicle, according to the officers. The negro and Frank Maranto, 35, in the truck, had received minor injuries.

U.S. WITHDRAWS ALL PUBLIC LAND

Action Taken By Roosevelt Pending Study Of Best Uses

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(AP)—In preparation for a nation-wide conservation program, President Roosevelt today withdrew all remaining public land from use.

His order, completing that of last November, affects about 1,200,000 acres, and puts the final touch on withdrawal from settlement, location, sale or entry of the entire 165,695,000 acres of public domain.

The November order was to make possible segregation of 80,000,000 acres as permanent livestock grazing areas under the Taylor act.

The president said today's withdrawal, applicable to 12 states, was "pending determination of the most useful purposes to which they may be put in furtherance of the land program and conservation and development of natural resources."

He added that this land, not suited to profitable growing of crops, was destined for the conservation and development of forests, soil, and other natural resources, the creation of grazing districts, and the establishment of game preserves and bird refuges.

Although the interior department has not made final selection of the 80,000,000 acres of grazing land, Chairman DeRouen of the house public lands committee has introduced a bill to extend it to the remaining areas suitable for livestock.

Little of the land withdrawn today was grazing acreage, and officials said much of it would be used for forest and game preserves. A legislative program to end further homesteading and set up permanent uses for the acreage was authoritatively reported to have been drafted and is to be submitted to congress soon.

Washington, with 692,751 acres of unsettled public land, was more affected by today's order than any other of the 12 states. Public land in the others named included: Minnesota, 369,451; Arkansas, 175,924; Florida, 32,303; Nebraska, 20,225. Inconsiderable amounts exist in Alabama, Kansas, Louisiana, Michigan, Mississippi, Oklahoma and Wisconsin.

Smiles Around The World

(By Associated Press)

BUENOS AIRES.—(AP)—Carlos Torrens, having completed his grammar school education, plans to continue his studies and eventually enter the medical school of Buenos Aires university.

ENGLAND'S SOUNDEST SLEEPER

CANTERBURY, Eng.—(AP)—Ellen E. Impett, 69, has been acclaimed the champion sleeper in the empire.

Feeling a bit tired she lay down beside the railrad tracks, her head a few inches from the rail. A train thundered past just as the engineer saw the form beside the track. He reported at the next station some one apparently had been killed. A searching party found her, still sleeping. An examination showed her to be in perfect health. She explained she felt tired and needed a little sleep.

NEEDED—A FANCY COOK

WARSAW—(AP)—The Polish army is up in arms over a moving picture film made with the cooperation of a general, wherein a sergeant falls in love and marries a regimental major's cook.

The non-coms were upset and declared only an orderly would marry a cook. So loud was the criticism that the soldiers were forbidden to see the picture.

General Wieniawa Dlugoszewski, who helped to make the picture, explained that the trouble was not caused by the fact a sergeant married a cook, exactly, but because the woman was such a plain cook.

CHINA'S PUBLIC ENEMY NO. 1

PEIPING—(AP)—A special iron cage has been built to hold "Swallow" Li, Peiping's public enemy No. 1.

Known to the poorer classes of the city as a Chinese Robin Hood who steals from the rich and gives to the poor, Li has a way of effecting miraculous escapes from jail. Once free, he usually robs some rich man or official, only to be caught later while distributing his loot.

MATRIMONY EN MASS

NURNBERG, Germany.—(AP)—Nurnberg's largest photographic shop shut down for two days. It was mostly Cupid's fault with some assistance from the state.

The entire firm, 15 of them, decided to accept the government offer of $250 loans for newlyweds. They all married the same day in the same church and set out on a composite honeymoon in a touring car.

SEA MONSTER, 1935 MODEL

SEJRA, Denmark.—(AP)—A most unusual sea monster has been beached here, a fish weighing at least two tons, fully 10 feet long and equally wide with a thickness of about two feet. The eyes are enormous and the mouth unusually large. Danish experts believe it to be an unusual member of the sun-fish species.

NEW USE FOR BIKE TIRES

BERLIN—(AP)—The battle between smugglers and customs officers on the German-Lithuanian frontier is taxing the ingenuity of the people. Butter and eggs are far cheaper in Lithuania than in east Prussia.

So, one Tilsit woman filled her bicycle tires with butter and pedalled into Germany. The trick was discovered by accident. There were five pounds inside the tires.

THE MOST TALKATIVE ONE

LONDON — (AP) — Most talkative member of the house of commons during the past session was George Buchanan who filled out 273 columns of Hansard, the official record of proceedings. He and three other Socialists filled the record with 1,019 columns of type.

Geoffrey Mander of the Liberal party asked 467 questions, and was recorded as the most inquisitive member.

PACTOMANIA

GLASGOW—(AP)—The first vital statistics on what some people have derisively described as an international epidemic of "pactomania" have been issued.

A prominent Scotsman has calculated the number of international pacts inaugurated during the past ten years and figures the grand total at 115.

NO WEDDING BELLS FOR RINGER

NO BEER AFTER 9 P. M.

KIRKCALDY, Scotland.—(AP)—The curfew rings out at 9 p.m., sharp, in this Fifeshire town. Said the magistrate—"He who indulges in a glass of beer and tarries by the way must tread the thorny path." He fined two townsmen five shillings each for lingering 18 minutes too long in a taproom.

The magistrate admitted the early curfew law was passed "in a moment of dubious wisdom," but followed the statute.

There are approximately one to one and a fourth gallons of blood in the human body.

Farmerville

Mr. and Mrs. J. Y. Green entertained with a charming bridge affair at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey G. Fields on Friday night. In the receiving line with Mr. and Mrs. Green were Mrs. Fields and Miss Joye Fields. A delicious spaghetti supper was served at the card tables on wicker trays in which the Valentine motif was attractively portrayed. Following the interesting games of contract, lovely prizes were awarded to Mr. W. W. Porter and Mr. W. B. Miller, while the cut for consolation resulted in the presentation of dainty gifts to Mrs. Brodie Green and Mr. Lazarus Baughman.

Enjoying this delightful hospitality were Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Stancil, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. V. C. Tucker, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Dykes, Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Hartman, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Pagan, Mrs. John W. Taylor, Mrs. Brodie Green, Mrs. Lisable Lusk, Miss Faye Baughman, Miss Olivia Barr, Miss Gussie Fenton, Miss Hilda Fuller and Miss Reita Hartman, Dr. C. C. Francis, Mr. Lazarus Baughman, Mr. W. W. Porter, and Mrs. Armond Rabun.

On Wednesday night, Mrs. Edward Everett, Jr., entertained with a Valentine party. Bridge and "42" were enjoyed and the trophy for high score bridge was captured by Miss Hilda Fuller, while gift for low score fell to Mrs. Mike Smith. In the cut at the "42" table, Mrs. Dewey L. Barr was the fortunate winner.

A delicious luncheon was served on wicker trays centered by baskets of red heart shaped mints, which were cut for and won by Mrs. J. W. Taylor, Mrs. H. G. Fields, Mrs. W. C. Andrews and Mrs. Claudie S. Myers.

The Valentine motif was noted in the appointments and the favors were gay and amusing Valentines. The guests were Mrs. J. W. Taylor, Mrs. H. G. Fields, Mrs. S. L. Hartman, Mrs. Claudie S. Myers, Mrs. W. P. Carey, Mrs. Mike Smith, Mrs. J. R. Dawkins, Mrs. Ben M. Lee, Mrs. Edward Everett, Sr., Mrs. Harry Preaus, Mrs. R. L. Turnage, Mrs. Dewey L. Barr, Mrs. W. C. Andrews, Miss Hilda Fuller, Miss Irene Clark, Miss Gussie Fenton, and Miss Reita Hartman.

Mrs. Everett was assisted in the courtesies by her charming mother, Mrs. E. J. Lee.

Mr. Mert Tugwell of Baton Rouge spent the week end in Farmerville with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Blanchard and little son of Monroe visited Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Dawkins the latter part of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Pearson had as their dinner guests Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Rowland of Monroe, Mr. and Mrs. Rowland Gill and son, Rowland Pearson, Mrs. A. C. Gill and daughter, Miss Mona, Mr. and Mrs. Watson Durdin and son, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Ridgdill of Ruston and Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Rowland, Miss Fahy Rowland and Miss Marta Rowland of El Dorado.

Mrs. W. R. Whitaker, Mrs. J. Q. Long, Mrs. C. E. Baker, and Mrs. W. B. Dykes attended a zone meeting of the Woman's Missionary society of the Methodist church at Minden Friday.

Mr. Duke Selig, Mr. W. W. Porter, Miss Hilda Fuller and Miss Olivia Barr spent Sunday at Alexandria as guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Bolton, Mrs. Duke Selig, who has been visiting at Alexandria, New Orleans and Baton Rouge, accompanied them home.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Dykes and sons spent the week end at Shreveport with Mr. and Mrs. Wallace A. Abat.

Mr. E. J. Lee and Mr. S. T. Howell departed Sunday for New Orleans where they will attend the grand lodge.

Mrs. W. P. Carey and little son, Hugh, have completed a most enjoyable month's visit in Farmerville with her mother, Mrs. R. E. Pace and departed with Mr. Carey Sunday for their home at Tyler, Texas.

NEW USE FOR BIKE TIRES

BERLIN—(AP)—The battle between smugglers and customs officers on the German-Lithuanian frontier is taxing the ingenuity of the people. Butter and eggs are far cheaper in Lithuania than in east Prussia.

So, one Tilsit woman filled her bicycle tires with butter and pedalled into Germany. The trick was discovered by accident. There were five pounds inside the tires.

THE MOST TALKATIVE ONE

LONDON — (AP) — Most talkative member of the house of commons during the past session was George Buchanan who filled out 273 columns of Hansard, the official record of proceedings. He and three other Socialists filled the record with 1,019 columns of type.

Geoffrey Mander of the Liberal party asked 467 questions, and was recorded as the most inquisitive member.

PACTOMANIA

GLASGOW—(AP)—The first vital statistics on what some people have derisively described as an international epidemic of "pactomania" have been issued.

A prominent Scotsman has calculated the number of international pacts inaugurated during the past ten years and figures the grand total at 115.

NO WEDDING BELLS FOR RINGER

NO BEER AFTER 9 P. M.

KIRKCALDY, Scotland.—(AP)—The curfew rings out at 9 p.m., sharp, in this Fifeshire town. Said the magistrate—"He who indulges in a glass of beer and tarries by the way must tread the thorny path." He fined two townsmen five shillings each for lingering 18 minutes too long in a taproom.

The magistrate admitted the early curfew law was passed "in a moment of dubious wisdom," but followed the statute.

There are approximately one to one and a fourth gallons of blood in the human body.

Farmerville

Mr. and Mrs. J. Y. Green entertained with a charming bridge affair at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey G. Fields on Friday night. In the receiving line with Mr. and Mrs. Green were Mrs. Fields and Miss Joye Fields. A delicious spaghetti supper was served at the card tables on wicker trays in which the Valentine motif was attractively portrayed. Following the interesting games of contract, lovely prizes were awarded to Mr. W. W. Porter and Mr. W. B. Miller, while the cut for consolation resulted in the presentation of dainty gifts to Mrs. Brodie Green and Mr. Lazarus Baughman.

Enjoying this delightful hospitality were Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Stancil, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. V. C. Tucker, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Dykes, Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Hartman, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Pagan, Mrs. John W. Taylor, Mrs. Brodie Green, Mrs. Lisable Lusk, Miss Faye Baughman, Miss Olivia Barr, Miss Gussie Fenton, Miss Hilda Fuller and Miss Reita Hartman, Dr. C. C. Francis, Mr. Lazarus Baughman, Mr. W. W. Porter, and Mrs. Armond Rabun.

On Wednesday night, Mrs. Edward Everett, Jr., entertained with a Valentine party. Bridge and "42" were enjoyed and the trophy for high score bridge was captured by Miss Hilda Fuller, while gift for low score fell to Mrs. Mike Smith. In the cut at the "42" table, Mrs. Dewey L. Barr was the fortunate winner.

A delicious luncheon was served on wicker trays centered by baskets of red heart shaped mints, which were cut for and won by Mrs. J. W. Taylor, Mrs. H. G. Fields, Mrs. W. C. Andrews and Mrs. Claudie S. Myers.

The Valentine motif was noted in the appointments and the favors were gay and amusing Valentines. The guests were Mrs. J. W. Taylor, Mrs. H. G. Fields, Mrs. S. L. Hartman, Mrs. Claudie S. Myers, Mrs. W. P. Carey, Mrs. Mike Smith, Mrs. J. R. Dawkins, Mrs. Ben M. Lee, Mrs. Edward Everett, Sr., Mrs. Harry Preaus, Mrs. R. L. Turnage, Mrs. Dewey L. Barr, Mrs. W. C. Andrews, Miss Hilda Fuller, Miss Irene Clark, Miss Gussie Fenton, and Miss Reita Hartman.

Mrs. Everett was assisted in the courtesies by her charming mother, Mrs. E. J. Lee.

Mr. Mert Tugwell of Baton Rouge spent the week end in Farmerville with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Blanchard and little son of Monroe visited Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Dawkins the latter part of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Pearson had as their dinner guests Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Rowland of Monroe, Mr. and Mrs. Rowland Gill and son, Rowland Pearson, Mrs. A. C. Gill and daughter, Miss Mona, Mr. and Mrs. Watson Durdin and son, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Ridgdill of Ruston and Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Rowland, Miss Fahy Rowland and Miss Marta Rowland of El Dorado.

Mrs. W. R. Whitaker, Mrs. J. Q. Long, Mrs. C. E. Baker, and Mrs. W. B. Dykes attended a zone meeting of the Woman's Missionary society of the Methodist church at Minden Friday.

Mr. Duke Selig, Mr. W. W. Porter, Miss Hilda Fuller and Miss Olivia Barr spent Sunday at Alexandria as guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Bolton. Mrs. Duke Selig, who has been visiting at Alexandria, New Orleans and Baton Rouge, accompanied them home.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Dykes and sons spent the week end at Shreveport with Mr. and Mrs. Wallace A. Abat.

Mr. E. J. Lee and Mr. S. T. Howell departed Sunday for New Orleans where they will attend the grand lodge.

Mrs. W. P. Carey and little son, Hugh, have completed a most enjoyable month's visit in Farmerville with her mother, Mrs. R. E. Pace and departed with Mr. Carey Sunday for their home at Tyler, Texas.

Life insurance companies tell us that the gradual breakdown of the human body causes more deaths every year than disease germs

IF your physical let-down is caused by a lowered red-blood-cell and hemo-glo-bin content in the blood—then S.S.S. is waiting to help you... though, if you suspect an organic trouble, you will, of course, want to consult a physician or surgeon.

S.S.S. is not just a so-called tonic. It is a tonic specially designed to stimulate gastric secretions, and also has the mineral elements so very, very necessary in rebuilding the oxygen-carrying hemo-glo-bin of the blood.

This two-fold purpose is important. Digestion is improved... food is better utilized... and thus you are enabled to better "carry on" without exhaustion—as you should naturally.

You should feel and look years younger with life giving and purifying blood surging through your body. You owe this to yourself and friends.

Make S.S.S. your health safeguard and, unless your case is exceptional, you should soon enjoy again the satisfaction of appetizing food... sound sleep... steady nerves... a good complexion... and renewed strength.

Miss Ruth Metcalf (center) of Greenville, Miss., whose glorious voice was heard in the nuptial songs at the wedding of Miss Suzonne Sperry and Mr. Walter Kellogg last Thursday.

Mrs. M. A. Phillips, beautful bride of last week, who before her marriage was Miss Joy Griffing, popular in younger circles and a great favorite in the musical circles. (Right). Portrait by Downing studio.

GOOD MORNING! Life, they tell us, is measured by thought and action, not by time . . . nevertheless we are all marking time until the passing of the disagreeable weather promised us by that wise little fellow, the ground-hog, who scampered and cavorted in the warm sunshine last week . . . However, there have been high moments the past week during which we watched music, trickling like jewels from the fingers of a golden-haired youth, Dalies Frantz . . . Our hats are doffed today to members of the Musical Coterie who were instrumental in bringing to us this young pianist who played Brahms' compositions as we never hope to hear them played again . . . Then of course there was the impressive interlude during which Suzonne Sperry and Walter Kellogg pledged themselves to one another for ever and ever . . . We've been searching for a few misplaced superlatives needed to tell you about this wedding . . . Suzonne with that gorgeous bouquet was practically in a sack blind of orchids, roses and valley lilies . . . Watching those beautiful young things keeping step to Lohengrin we suddenly realized that there are no more Cinderellas in the world—a homely girl is now as obsolete as the horse and buggy . . . looking around at the handsome audience, avid for life's scattered joys with candlelight casting flattering beams on their faces and later at the reception at the Rufin home we became convinced of this fact . . . Filling around in the rose scented atmosphere we saw that lovely looking Georgia Kellogg in a trailing robe of orchid velvet . . . Her gorgeous golden hair is indeed a crowning glory . . . Saw Ruth Gladney, lovely as usual and in bright blue model with her youthful looking mother, Mrs. William Washburn . . . heard Mrs. Joseph Renwick exclaiming over the beauty of the wedding gifts and especially the antique Bohemian crystal with its unmistakable air of Royal street . . . Three little girls, exquisite as royal gems, came in for their share of attention . . . Betty Kellogg, who has inherited her mother's dark brunette beauty, Rhoda Kellogg, with her mother's blonde loveliness and Marguerite Lamkin with waxen skin and the beautiful violet eyes of her mother . . . Mary Stuart Kellogg, one of our favorites, was not unlike one of those little Dresden figurines that adorn our mantles these days . . . She wore a fluff of pink tulle and a spray of blue flowers on her blonde head and on her feet were pink sandals in harmony with the empire frock of pink taffeta . . . Even though she was painfully eager to see her sister come down the aisle, her good breeding came to the rescue and never a backward glance . . . Apropos of good breeding, it was more than we can say of that part of the audience that rushed out of the church ahead of the bride's and the bridegroom's families . . . In fact, so crowded was the vestibule with those who stampeded their way out, one member of the bridal party got to the reception only in the niche of time . . . Let's hope that such an embarrassing situation will never occur again . . . Arthur Dryburgh, who spent a portion of his life in the hotel business, catering to guests has gone rustic . . . You can find him at any time of the day in the garden of his home where he is now planning a sort of retreat where friends can gather of a summer evening and feast on barbecued meats browned to a delicious turn over the glowing coals in the pit he built with his own hands . . . White leghorns stalk the yard in the rear and Arthur, we are told, holds lengthy conversations with his pets . . . So successful are these conversations he has inveigled them into laying a dozen eggs every day . . . He counts the day lost when the number diminishes . . . Driving out to Selman field the other day, hopping a plane and flying over the city, and then back to our desk, all in an hour's time, we realized that we are indeed living in a breathless age, filled with so many magical things we should all be as happy as kings . . . Familiarity with flying breeds forgetfulness of the thrill experienced in the first flight . . . We are reminded of a young six-year-old whose teacher, looking at his large feet and hands, said, "You are going to be a big, fine looking man" . . . Eagerly he inquired if he would grow up to look like Don Dice . . . This youngster took his first flight with that courageous pilot of the sky . . . Elizabeth Carr, nonchalantly boarded a plane this morning for New York, to resume her studies after a brief interlude of play . . . Elizabeth has one of the greatest charms there is, a most beautiful speaking voice, with all the lovely modulations of sincerity and kindness . . . Many charming ensembles swirled around the coffee tables at Lakeside Country club last week where Lida Oliver and Minta Vaughan poured . . . Lib Shlenker in smart black satin model . . . Anna Lou Sandridge in black crepe dinner model . . . Virginia Guerriero in a semi-evening model of black and white velvet . . . The little jacket worn all afternoon, when removed reveals a perfect evening frock . . . Alice Briggs in floor length crimson crepe model with silver cocktail hat . . . Mrs. J. W. McWilliams, always an acquisition to any gathering, was surrounded by friends . . . We will always carry a mental vision of Sarabeth Nutte in hyacinth purple taffeta frock, robe de style with a cluster of Parma violets at her throat . . . Sparkling little gems of thought come trickling in . . . for instance, Joy Phillips (until Friday Joy Griffing) unable to run away from the crowd following the ceremony, was caught up in the arms of her athletic husband and carried to the waiting automobile where they were whirled away before the astonished gaze of those who had plotted against them . . . Walter Kellogg timed the honeymoon so that a moon would be shining on the Caribbean sea when he and Suzonne drifted down to Panama . . . Of course you marveled recently over the beauty of the landscaping skirting the bayou along the northern edge of town . . . We sensed that John Sherrouse, Monroe's most progressive citizen, had something to do with it . . . sure enough, he was the instigator and like magic, trees and shrubbery have sprung up where once was a wilderness of brush and tangled vines . . . When you motor out that way, time your self so that you can see the rays of the setting sun mirrored in the sleepy waters of the bayou.

Impressive Nuptial Event Unites Miss Suzonne Sperry And Mr. Walter W. Kellogg

Multitudinous cathedral tapers cast fantastic shadows along the cloistered walls of Grace church when Miss Suzonne Sperry, lovely young daughter of Mrs. Gladys Sperry, walked down a candlelit aisle to become the bride of Mr. Walter Wood Kellogg, Thursday evening, February the seventh at six-thirty o'clock.

The exquisite beauty of decoration enriched the artistic consciousness of the fashionable throng filling to capacity the generous proportions of the church.

The altar was a quiet sanctuary hedged in with an extravagant mass of southern smilax and white Bride's roses overflowing from white wicker standards entwined with wood fern. Cathedral tapers in seven branched white candelabrum, arranged in tiers, cast a silvery radiance over the glamorous scene. The steps leading to the chancel were banked with white roses and luxuriant palms and fern. A candlelit aisle from the vestibule to the altar was formed by tall white candlesticks tied with clouds of white tulle and supporting tall cathedral tapers. The lighting of the candles by two altar boys in black and white vestments was an impressive ceremony.

The interior of the church resembled a woodland retreat where southern smilax trailed its sinuous length along the grey walls and hung in festoons from the chandeliers.

Miss Joy Griffing Becomes The Bride Of Mr. Phillips At Grace Episcopal Church

A wedding characterized by exquisite simplicity and one in which the sincere and affectionate interest of friends is centered is that of Miss Joy Griffing, beautiful and talented daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Griffing of this city and Mr. M. A. Phillips of Tallulah, La., son of Reverend and Mrs. M. A. Phillips, Sr., of Dallas, Texas, at Grace church, Friday, February the eighth at four o'clock in the afternoon with Dr. E. J. Hayward, rector, officiating.

The chancel was a mass of verdant green for this impressive nuptial event with southern smilax massed in the background where myriad white tapers gleamed in tall white candlesticks. White blossoms lifted their heads from wicker floor standards and were massed against the altar in artistic array.

Professor Roger Frisbie, at the organ rendered a pre-nuptial concert, while the guests were being seated. He also accompanied Miss Nellie Breed, soloist, who sang in beautiful forte-like soprano voice, "O Perfect Love."

The ushers were: Mr. James Wade and Mr. Walter Scott of Tallulah.

The bride who was given in marriage by her father, was unusually lovely in a smart navy blue tailleur with three-quarter length coat edged in silver fox fur. An engaging little hat of navy blue and a corsage of pink bride's blush roses and valley lilies completed the distinctive ensemble.

Mr. Lavell Scott acted in the capacity of best man.

Immediately following the wedding service, Mr. and Mrs. Phillips left by motor on a short honeymoon in southern Louisiana and upon their return will be at home in Tallulah where Mr. Phillips is principal of the high school and athletic coach.

The bride is a charming young girl and a popular member of the younger set. She is much sought after in musical circles in this city where she is a member of the Junior Musical Coterie. She was graduated from the music department of Northeast Center L. S. U. and attended All Saint's Academy in Vicksburg, Miss., and also attended the Virginia Intermont, Bristol, Va.

Personalities

I PARTICULARLY LIKE . . .

To hear church bells at the vesper hour.
To meet strangers and glean new ideas.
To hear of far away places from returned travelers.
The first strawberries.
Breakfast on Sunday morning.
The month of February with its promise of new life.
The fragrance of white roses.

GLEANED HERE AND THERE . . .

Garden club planting pines and magnolias along Riverside drive.
Landscaping along the bayou in Sherrouse addition.

THINGS ENJOYED RECENTLY . . .

ATTRACTIVE YOUNG MATRONS . . .

Mrs. Alymer Montgomery in jaunty white felt hat.
Mrs. Bernice Nichols in biege chiffon.
Mrs. Alice Nelson Briggs in crimson.
Mrs. Henry Guerriero in black and white velvet.

Musical Coterie Meets

The Junior Musical Coterie held its annual business meeting in the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Kenny, Friday afternoon. The following officers for the coming year were elected: President, Neva Worthington; vice president, Alyce Boyd Thompson; secretary, Avonia Gerald; treasurer, Mary Katherine Pennell; reporter, Hazel Heller; librarian, Lela Mae Nelson. During the social hour delicious refreshments were served to Misses Dorothy Calvert, Neva Worthington, Mary Virginia Lea, Gladys Hughes, Avonia Gerald, Alyce Boyd Thompson, Lela Mae Nelson, Hazel Heller, Mary Katherine Pennell, Mary Tanner, Carimena McIntosh and the counsellor, Mrs. Louise Hullum.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Troy are receiving the congratulations of their friends over the arrival of their second son, Ralph Talbot Troy, at St. Frances sanitarium on the fourth of February.

Miss Peggy Bubb was the guest last week at the plantation home of Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Smith.

School Carnival

Mrs. Harry Frazer, chairman of the committee arranging the details for the annual carnival sponsored by the Georgia Tucker P.-T. A., Tuesday night, extends a cordial invitation to mothers and fathers to attend and bring their children, regardless of age. Members of the P.-T. A. are making more elaborate plans than ever before and anticipating one of the largest crowds in the history of the school. A varied program will supply amusement for every one with the concessions along the midway especially interesting. A small entrance fee will be charged.

Mrs. Thompson Stresses The Necessity Of Women's Clubs To Federate With National

Mrs. Addison Thompson of Ruston, state publicity chairman of the fifth district Louisiana Federation of Women's Clubs says:

"An isolated club which is not Federated is like a street waif; able, perhaps, to fend for itself but unable to get the most out of life for it lacks the fine contacts of home and family life. Again, some clubs of highly educated, clever women are sufficient unto themselves for the purpose of continued advancement and growth. But they are like a wealthy family whose money, exquisitely furnished homes, and fine gardens supply them with all the cultural food they need but leave the town where they live to hunger for the beauty which the wealthy family could easily help their neighbors enjoy. The Federation needs clubs which do things and have talent and ideas, clubs which, like the wealthy family, have so much to give, because these clubs can render such greater service to the Federation. If it were not for our civic-minded citizens the finer things of our lives would be lacking to most of us. So, too, without the large, capable clubs the Federation could not exist. To join the Federation is to cast aside the man-made philosophy of "get, get, get" for "give, give, give."

The Federation was begotten by friendship, it was nourished on friendship, and now it offers service through friendship to every club and every woman. It is an institution where cherished hopes and ideals are exchanged, where help is given in solving problems, and where leisure time may be most profitably used.

Federation also means a broadening outlook and sympathies. The world is a small place today and we are a very intimate part of it. Club women keep in touch with the questions of the day, with legislature pending in our states, and nations; with needs of industrial homes, and penal institutions. One woman alone may not be able to do much but thousands of women together can do a great deal to mold public opinion.

Contact with other women, sharing and realizing their joys and sorrows help her to keep her sense of proportion and to cultivate a sense of humor. The work of the Federation, so broad in itself, cannot help but broaden the outlook and sympathies of those who take part in it. Therefore, Federation

A wedding characterized by exquisite simplicity and one in which the sincere and affectionate interest of friends is centered is that of Miss Joy Griffing, beautiful and talented daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Griffing of this city and Mr. M. A. Phillips of Tallulah, La., son of Reverend and Mrs. M. A. Phillips, Sr., of Dallas, Texas, at Grace church, Friday, February the eighth at four o'clock in the afternoon with Dr. E. C. Hayward, rector, officiating.

The chancel was a mass of verdant green for this impressive nuptial event with southern smilax massed against the background where myriad white tapers gleamed in tall white candlesticks. White blossoms lifted their heads from wicker floor standards and were massed against the altar in artistic array.

Professor Roger Frisbie, at the organ rendered a pre-nuptial concert, while the guests were being seated. He also accompanied Miss Nellie Breed, soloist, who sang in beautiful flute-like soprano voice, "O Perfect Love."

The bride who was given in marriage by her father, was unusually lovely in a smart navy blue tailleur with three-quarter length coat edged in silver fox fur. An engaging little hat of navy blue and a corsage of pink bride's blush roses and valley lilies completed the distinctive ensemble.

Mr. Lavell Scott acted in the capacity of best man.

Immediately following the wedding service, Mr. and Mrs. Phillips left by motor on a short honeymoon in southern Louisiana and upon their return will be at home in Tallulah where Mr. Phillips is principal of the high school and athletic coach.

The bride is a charming young girl and a popular member of the younger set. She is much sought after in musical circles in this city where she is a member of the Junior Musical Coterie. She was graduated from the music department of Northeast Center L. S. U. and attended All Saint's Academy in Vicksburg, Miss., and also attended the Virginia Intermont, Bristol, Va.

Miss Peggy Bubb was the guest last week at the plantation home of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Smith.

School Carnival

Mrs. Harry Frazer, chairman of the committee arranging the details for the annual carnival sponsored by the Georgia Tucker P.-T. A., Tuesday night, extends a cordial invitation to mothers and fathers to attend and bring their children, regardless of age. Members of the P.-T. A. are making more elaborate plans than ever before and anticipating one of the largest crowds in the history of the school. A varied program will supply amusement for every one with the concessions along the midway especially interesting. A small entrance fee will be charged.

Mrs. Addison Thompson of Ruston, state publicity chairman of the fifth district Louisiana Federation of Women's Clubs says:

"An isolated club which is not Federated is like a street waif; able, perhaps, to fend for itself but unable to get the most out of life for it lacks the fine contacts of home and family life. Again, some clubs of highly educated, clever women are sufficient unto themselves for the purpose of continued advancement and growth. But they are like a wealthy family whose money, exquisitely furnished homes, and fine gardens supply them with all the cultural food they need but leave the town where they live to hunger for the beauty which the wealthy family could easily help their neighbors enjoy. The Federation needs clubs which do things and have talent and ideas, clubs which, like the wealthy family, have so much to give, because these clubs can render such greater service to the Federation. If it were not for our civic-minded citizens the finer things of our lives would be lacking to most of us. So, too, without the large, capable clubs the Federation could not exist. To join the Federation is to cast aside the man-made philosophy of "get, get, get" for "give, give, give."

The Federation was begotten by friendship, it was nourished on friendship, and now it offers service through friendship to every club and every woman. It is an institution where cherished hopes and ideals are exchanged, where help is given in solving problems, and where leisure time may be most profitably used.

Federation also means a broadening outlook and sympathies. The world is a small place today and we are a very intimate part of it. Club women keep in touch with the questions of the day, with legislature pending in our states, and nations; with needs of industrial homes, and penal institutions. One woman alone may not be able to do much but thousands of women together can do a great deal to mold public opinion.

Contact with other women, sharing and realizing their joys and sorrows help her to keep her sense of proportion and to cultivate a sense of humor. The work of the Federation, so broad in itself, cannot help but broaden the outlook and sympathies of those who take part in it. Therefore, Federate.

Miss Ballard Is Bride Of Mr. Boynton

Cordial and sincere interest is centered in the marriage of Miss Mildred Ballard of Tiller, Ark., and Mr. Wyman Pender Boynton at the Tiller Methodist church on the first of February at high noon with Reverend Burkes, officiating.

The bride wore a smart suit of navy with accessories in a contrasting shade of blue and carried a shower bouquet of Sweetheart roses and lilies of the valley. A magnificent diamond brooch, a gift of Mr. Boynton to his bride, was the only ornament worn by Miss Ballard.

The bride was attended by Miss Charlotte Lewis, who wore a blue becomingly garbed ensemble with light blue accessories. The bridesmaid's bouquet was a sheaf of Talisman roses. Mr. Edwin Boynton of Portsmouth, N. H., was groomsman. Ushers were Messrs. Moorehead, Hutchins, Lansfar and Bickham.

Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. Davidson rendered several vocal solos including "To A Wild Rose," "Until," and "All For You."

Immediately following the ceremony an informal wedding reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Ballard of Tiller, Ark. Mr. and Mrs. Boynton left later in the day for Ann Arbor, Michigan, where they will reside for the immediate present. Mrs. Boynton has for the last several years been connected with the Hodge city schools as a member of the faculty. Mr. Boynton, a former resident of Portsmouth, N. H., is a graduate of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and is at present studying law at the University of Michigan, at Ann Arbor.

Splendid Cast Will Appear In Comedy

The play is a comedy, abounding in thrills and laughter. The story concerns itself with a popular writer of "crime" novels. He and his fiancee are out looking for a quiet house in the country wherein he can compose his next novel. They stumble into a dwelling which proves to be the hideaway of a notorious band of criminals. Porter's tongue becomes loosened under the influence of liquor, and he boasts of his murder plots that simply defy detection.

When the gangsters learn of this, they hit upon the happy idea of having him plot the murder of their arch enemy, the crime commissioner. If he fails, the forfeit will be his own life and that of his betrothed.

The clever plot which this boasting writer conceives and which he promises will leave no clue, is one worth knowing about. We can't let you in on it, but we do urge you to find out for yourself.

Hilda .....Lucyle Godwin
Joe Salvatore.....Jim Nelson
Slim Scanlon.....Richard Schneider
Herman Lefkowitz.D. Armand Breard
Charlie Shaw.....Herman Chapman
Jake Dillon.....Elmer Richards
Benny .....Hall McCord
Wallace Porter.....Frank Breece
Toby Van Buren...Mary Bonita Allen
Police Sergeant.....Rufus Goza

gan, rendered a pre-nuptial concert and accompanied Miss Ruth Metcalf of Greenville, Miss., who sang in superb voice, "O Promise Me" and "Faithful and True."

The Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin announced the arrival of the wedding party. A full vested choir, singing the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin, walked down the white carpeted aisle followed by Dr. E. F. Hayward, rector of Grace church, wearing his robes of office. Preceding the choir were the ushers and groomsmen, Messers. Keith Moore, Vermont Royster of Raleigh, N. C., Laurence Kellogg ot Alexandria, Palmer Kellogg of Hughes, Ark., J. Shell of Bastrop, La., Dr. Prentice Grey, Mr. George Miller and John Blackman in formal evening attire and wearing white bouttonieres of valley lilies.

The five beautiful bridesmaids, Misses Sue Graves, Jean Dryburgh, Elizabeth Carr, Anna Laurie Smith, and Violet Meyer wore picturesque models, robe de style, of pink bride's taffeta, with drop shoulders and tight basques and puffed sleeves caught with garlands of blue for-get-me-nots. The skirts, long and full, swept the floor. Caps of braided pink tulle with flaring veils were worn. The arm bouquets were the very essence of springtime, fashioned of blue and pink larkspur, purple stock, pink roses, daisies, blue delphinium and orchid snapdragon. Each bouquet was tied with an immense bow of pink satin ribbon.

The maid of honor, Miss Sara Snipes of Raleigh, N. C., wore a pastel blue robe de style model and carried a bouquet similar to the bridesmaids.

Two beautiful little girls, Rhoda Kellogg and Betty Kellogg, one a blonde and the other a brunette, wore pink taffeta frocks, exact replicas of the bridesmaids' frocks. Cunning little caps and veils and arm bouquets completed the ensemble.

The incomparable beauty of the wedding gown (a Lanvin model) was a fitting tribute to the lovely bride. It was fashioned of white bride's taffeta with yoke and long sleeves of Alencon lace. The tight-fitting skirt, flaring at the feet, ended in a short train. Fullness below the waistline in the back was reminiscent of a bygone age. A cap of rose point lace with short flaring veil of tulle, lifted during the ceremony, was worn. A veil of vaporous illusion fell in billows into a court train. The superb wedding bouquet fashioned of valley lilies, white Bride's roses and white and purple orchids was carried in her arms, the lengths of wide white satin ribbons falling in a cascade. The bride's only ornaments were a handsome diamond and platinum bracelet and brooch, the gift of the bridegroom.

Mr. Kellogg stood at the altar with his best man, his brother, Mr. Richard Kellogg.

During the nuptial service the choir sang in subdued voices "The Voice That Breathed O'er Eden." The benediction was received on bended knee, the white satin pillow being used by several generations of brides.

The wedding party left the church to the triumphant strains of the Recessional and motored to the home of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Sallie Ruffin, where a brilliant reception was held. The same beauty of decoration that prevailed at the church was noted in the high ceilinged drawing room, hall and dining room. White roses overflowed from classic shaped urns and southern smilax hung from the arches in graceful lengths.

The bride's mother stood in the hall to welcome the guests. She wore a handsome pink lace model with accessories of pink and an exquisite corsage of pink roses. She was assisted by her mother, Mrs. Sallie Ruffin, in black velvet with corsage of orchid sweet peas, and by her sister, Mrs. Wilbur Royster of North Carolina in white satin evening model.

The bride's table in the dining room was developed exclusively in white and silver with the gorgeous wedding cake, a work of art, the piece de resistance. It was a three-tier confection with the top tier a cluster of white roses in bridal bouquet formation. Sprays of crystalized rose buds and valley lilies encircled the cake. At the extreme end of the table a tall silver basket overflowed with beautiful white roses, flanked by silver candlesticks supporting white tapers. White mints embossed in valley lilies and assorted confections in silver compotes were placed at intervals along the table. White ices and individual bride's cakes were served.

The bride changed her wedding raiment for a smart tailleur of navy blue sheerella wool with chic navy blue hat of straw and felt (a Millgrim model) and all accessories of blue.

Before departure she threw her wedding bouquet from the stairway and it fell in the arms of Miss Sara Snipes.

Miss Sperry is a spirited, beautiful girl, a great belle and with much character and individuality. She occupies her own special niche in Monroe society and in Little Theater circles where her distinctive dramatic ability is highly valued. She is a member of a distinguished pioneer family of this parish. Her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Sallie Richardson Ruffin has long been identified with the cultural and civic life of the community. Miss Sperry received her early education in the public schools of Monroe and following graduation attended Stephens college, Columbia, Missouri. Later she was graduated from Arlington Hall, Washington, D. C. It is a source of great satisfaction to members of society generally that Miss Sperry's marriage to Mr. Kellogg will not take her elsewhere to live.

Mr. Kellogg is a prominent young lumberman of this city.

The lavish display of wedding gifts attested to the popularity of this young couple. A complete chest of silver in the King Richard pattern was outstanding, also a collection of antique Bohemian crystal from Royal street, New Orleans. Of sentimental value was the set of silver serving spoons handed down to the bride from four generations on her maternal side. A gorgeous collection of hand-embossed, Wedgewood china, and beautiful platinum-rimmed crystal and gold service plates was noted in addition to handsome linens and bric-a-brac and immense silver platters and serving trays, silver goblets and other odd pieces of silver.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were Mr. C. M. Kellogg of California, Miss Sara Snipes, student at King Smith Studio, Washington, and a former classmate of the bride at Arlington Hall, Washington, Miss Elizabeth Carr of New York City, Mrs. Wilbur Royster and son, Mr. Vermont Royster of Raleigh, N. C., Mr. Laurence Kellogg of Alexandria, Mr. and Mrs. Palmer Kellogg and two daughters of Hughes, Ark., Miss Ruth Metcalf of Greenville, Miss.

HATS GAINSBOROUGH PAINTED INSPIRE CHAPEAUX OF MODERNS

Here is the Louis XVI hat which Madame Agnes has designed as spring headgear for the moderns of 1935. The chapeaux worn by the beautiful ladies whom Gainsborough and Reynolds painted inspired it. It is made of black Milan straw, the shallow crown rimmed with white gardenias and tuberoses. The simple frock of black crepe is trimmed with a collar and pleated frill of white crepe finished with pearl buttons.

Magazine Will Be Published By Garden Club

At the meeting of the executive board of the Louisiana Garden club, held in Baton Rouge, it was voted to sponsor a forthcoming garden magazine to be published by Mr. Perry Young, of New Orleans; to use it as the official journal of the Louisiana Garden club and to recommend to member clubs that they also endorse it and use it as a means of publishing their notices, proceedings and papers whenever desirable.

Mr. Young's plans for the magazine are summed up in the following resume of letters received from him:

To make it of a usefulness which will sufficiently recommend it to the endorsement of garden clubs.

To make it a vehicle for proper printing and permanent preservation of the proceedings of clubs, if they feel the need of such vehicle.

The subscription price to be within the reach of all. If the clubs make it their official medium for publication of their papers and for illustration and description of their successes, there should be a possibility of assuring at that price the subscription of the full membership, either as a body or as individuals, by recommendation of the governing officers.

This will be the only publication in Louisiana devoted to gardening and it is hoped to make it the best garden magazine in the south. It is intended to publish quarterly. If the development of the magazine warrants, it may be changed to a monthly later, but it is better to begin conservatively and become established on a firm basis.

Elizabeth Ann Wood was the charming hostess to the members of the Lucie Love Music club at her home on Park avenue, Thursday afternoon.

Miss Ballard Is Bride Of Mr. Boynton

Cordial and sincere interest is centered in the marriage of Miss Mildred Ballard of Tiller, Ark., and Mr. Wyman Pender Boynton at the Tiller Methodist church on the first of February at high noon with Reverend Burkes, officiating.

The bride wore a smart suit of navy with accessories in a contrasting shade of blue and carried a shower bouquet of Sweetheart roses and lilies of the valley. A magnificent diamond brooch, a gift of Mr. Boynton to his bride, was the only ornament worn by Miss Ballard.

The bride was attended by Miss Charlotte Lewis, who wore a blue becomingly garbed ensemble with light blue accessories. The bridesmaid's bouquet was a sheaf of Talisman roses. Mr. Edwin Boynton of Portsmouth, N. H., was groomsman. Ushers were Messrs. Moorehead, Hutchins, Lansfar and Bickham.

Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. Davidson rendered several vocal solos including "To A Wild Rose," "Until," and "All For You."

Immediately following the ceremony an informal wedding reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Ballard of Tiller, Ark. Mr. and Mrs. Boynton left later in the day for Ann Arbor, Michigan, where they will reside for the immediate present. Mrs. Boynton has for the last several years been connected with the Hodge city schools as a member of the faculty. Mr. Boynton, a former resident of Portsmouth, N. H., is a graduate of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and is at present studying law at the University of Michigan, at Ann Arbor.

Splendid Cast Will Appear In Comedy

The play is a comedy, abounding in thrills and laughter. The story concerns itself with a popular writer of "crime" novels. He and his fiancee are out looking for a quiet house in the country wherein he can compose his next novel. They stumble into a dwelling which proves to be the hideaway of a notorious band of criminals. Porter's tongue becomes loosened under the influence of liquor, and he boasts of his murder plots that simply defy detection.

When the gangsters learn of this, they hit upon the happy idea of having him plot the murder of their arch enemy, the crime commissioner. If he fails, the forfeit will be his own life and that of his betrothed.

The clever plot which this boasting writer conceives and which he promises will leave no clue, is one worth knowing about. We can't let you in on it, but we do urge you to find out for yourself.

Hilda .....Lucyle Godwin
Joe Salvatore.....Jim Nelson
Slim Scanlon.....Richard Schneider
Herman Lefkowitz.D. Armand Breard
Charlie Shaw.....Herman Chapman
Jake Dillon.....Elmer Richards
Benny .....Hall McCord
Wallace Porter.....Frank Breece
Toby Van Buren...Mary Bonita Allen
Police Sergeant.....Rufus Goza

gan, rendered a pre-nuptial concert and accompanied Miss Ruth Metcalf of Greenville, Miss., who sang in superb voice, "O Promise Me" and "Faithful and True."

The Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin announced the arrival of the wedding party. A full vested choir, singing the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin, walked down the white carpeted aisle followed by Dr. E. F. Hayward, rector of Grace church, wearing his robes of office. Preceding the choir were the ushers and groomsmen, Messers. Keith Moore, Vermont Royster of Raleigh, N. C., Laurence Kellogg of Alexandria, Palmer Kellogg of Hughes, Ark., J. Shell of Bastrop, La., Dr. Prentice Grey, Mr. George Miller and John Blackman in formal evening attire and wearing white bouttonieres of valley lilies.

The five beautiful bridesmaids, Misses Sue Graves, Jean Dryburgh, Elizabeth Carr, Anna Laurie Smith, and Violet Meyer wore picturesque models, robe de style, of pink bride's taffeta, with drop shoulders and tight basques and puffed sleeves caught with garlands of blue for-get-me-nots. The skirts, long and full, swept the floor. Caps of braided pink tulle with flaring veils were worn. The arm bouquets were the very essence of springtime, fashioned of blue and pink larkspur, purple stock, pink roses, daisies, blue delphinium and orchid snapdragon. Each bouquet was tied with an immense bow of pink satin ribbon.

The maid of honor, Miss Sara Snipes of Raleigh, N. C., wore a pastel blue robe de style model and carried a bouquet similar to the bridesmaids.

Two beautiful little girls, Rhoda Kellogg and Betty Kellogg, one a blonde and the other a brunette, wore pink taffeta frocks, exact replicas of the bridesmaids' frocks. Cunning little caps and veils and arm bouquets completed the ensemble.

The incomparable beauty of the wedding gown (a Lanvin model) was a fitting tribute to the lovely bride. It was fashioned of white bride's taffeta with yoke and long sleeves of Alencon lace. The tight-fitting skirt, flaring at the feet, ended in a short train. Fullness below the waistline in the back was reminiscent of a bygone age. A cap of rose point lace with short flaring veil of tulle, lifted during the ceremony, was worn. A veil of vaporous illusion fell in billows into a court train. The superb wedding bouquet fashioned of valley lilies, white Bride's roses and white and purple orchids was carried in her arms, the lengths of wide white satin ribbons falling in a cascade. The bride's only ornaments were a handsome diamond and platinum bracelet and brooch, the gift of the bridegroom.

Mr. Kellogg stood at the altar with his best man, his brother, Mr. Richard Kellogg.

During the nuptial service the choir sang in subdued voices "The Voice That Breathed O'er Eden." The benediction was received on bended knee, the white satin pillow being used by several generations of brides.

The wedding party left the church to the triumphant strains of the Recessional and motored to the home of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Sallie Ruffin, where a brilliant reception was held. The same beauty of decoration that prevailed at the church was noted in the high ceilinged drawing room, hall and dining room. White roses overflowed from classic shaped urns and southern smilax hung from the arches in graceful lengths.

The bride's mother stood in the hall to welcome the guests. She wore a handsome pink lace model with accessories of pink and an exquisite corsage of pink roses. She was assisted by her mother, Mrs. Sallie Ruffin, in black velvet with corsage of orchid sweet peas, and by her sister, Mrs. Wilbur Royster of North Carolina in white satin evening model.

The bride's table in the dining room was developed exclusively in white and silver with the gorgeous wedding cake, a work of art, the piece de resistance. It was a three-tier confection with the top tier a cluster of white roses in bridal bouquet formation. Sprays of crystalized rose buds and valley lilies encircled the cake. At the extreme end of the table a tall silver basket overflowed with beautiful white roses, flanked by silver candlesticks supporting white tapers. White mints embossed in valley lilies and assorted confections in silver compotes were placed at intervals along the table. White ices and individual bride's cakes were served.

The bride changed her wedding raiment for a smart tailleur of navy blue sheerella wool with chic navy blue hat of straw and felt (a Millgrim model) and all accessories of blue.

Before departure she threw her wedding bouquet from the stairway and it fell in the arms of Miss Sara Snipes.

Miss Sperry is a spirited, beautiful girl, a great belle and with much character and individuality. She occupies her own special niche in Monroe society and in Little Theater circles where her distinctive dramatic ability is highly valued. She is a member of a distinguished pioneer family of this parish. Her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Sallie Richardson Ruffin has long been identified with the cultural and civic life of the community. Miss Sperry received her early education in the public schools of Monroe and following graduation attended Stephens college, Columbia, Missouri. Later she was graduated from Arlington Hall, Washington, D. C. It is a source of great satisfaction to members of society generally that Miss Sperry's marriage to Mr. Kellogg will not take her elsewhere to live.

Mr. Kellogg is a prominent young lumberman of this city.

The lavish display of wedding gifts attested to the popularity of this young couple. A complete chest of silver in the King Richard pattern was outstanding, also a collection of antique Bohemian crystal from Royal street, New Orleans. Of sentimental value was the set of silver serving spoons handed down to the bride from four generations on her maternal side. A gorgeous collection of hand-embossed, Wedgewood china, and beautiful platinum-rimmed crystal and gold service plates was noted in addition to handsome linens and bric-a-brac and immense silver platters and serving trays, silver goblets and other odd pieces of silver.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were Mr. C. M. Kellogg of California, Miss Sara Snipes, student at King Smith Studio, Washington, and a former classmate of the bride at Arlington Hall, Washington, Miss Elizabeth Carr of New York City, Mrs. Wilbur Royster and son, Mr. Vermont Royster of Raleigh, N. C., Mr. Laurence Kellogg of Alexandria, Mr. and Mrs. Palmer Kellogg and two daughters of Hughes, Ark., Miss Ruth Metcalf of Greenville, Miss.

HATS GAINSBOROUGH PAINTED INSPIRE CHAPEAUX OF MODERNS

Here is the Louis XVI hat which Madame Agnes has designed as spring headgear for the moderns of 1935. The chapeaux worn by the beautiful ladies whom Gainsborough and Reynolds painted inspired it. It is made of black Milan straw, the shallow crown rimmed with white gardenias and tuberoses. The simple frock of black crepe is trimmed with a collar and pleated frill of white crepe finished with pearl buttons.

Magazine Will Be Published By Garden Club

At the meeting of the executive board of the Louisiana Garden club, held in Baton Rouge, it was voted to sponsor a forthcoming garden magazine to be published by Mr. Perry Young, of New Orleans; to use it as the official journal of the Louisiana Garden club and to recommend to member clubs that they also endorse it and use it as a means of publishing their notices, proceedings and papers whenever desirable.

Mr. Young's plans for the magazine are summed up in the following resume of letters received from him:

To make it of a usefulness which will sufficiently recommend it to the endorsement of garden clubs.

To make it a vehicle for proper printing and permanent preservation of the proceedings of clubs, if they feel the need of such vehicle.

The subscription price to be within the reach of all. If the clubs make it their official medium for publication of their papers and for illustration and description of their successes, there should be a possibility of assuring at that price the subscription of the full membership, either as a body or as individuals, by recommendation of the governing officers.

This will be the only publication in Louisiana devoted to gardening and it is hoped to make it the best garden magazine in the south. It is intended to publish quarterly. If the development of the magazine warrants, it may be changed to a monthly later, but it is better to begin conservatively and become established on a firm basis.

Elizabeth Ann Wood was the charming hostess to the members of the Lucie Love Music club at her home on Park avenue, Thursday afternoon.

Deafness Headnoises, Earache Catarrh—QUICKLY RELIEVED

These dreaded afflictions quickly respond to the Ourine method of treatment. Over one-half million people have enjoyed prompt relief. You may be a chronic long time sufferer, you may have tried many things without relief, but do not give up hope before you know what Ourine can do for you.

Dr. Edward Kolar, M. D., said, "Ourine helped cases I had given up as hopeless. A truly remarkable scientific remedy."

Joseph Meredith of Ontario, writes, "I suffered for over 50 years, some times I was stone deaf. I used only a half a bottle of Ourine, the headnoises disappeared and I could hear people talking clearly. I heard the choir in our church and the organ play for the first time in 2 years. I am recommending Ourine to every one."

No matter how stubborn your deafness, headnoises, earache or catarrh trouble are, you should try Ourine. No risk, no chance, no doubt. Ourine must do the work or cost you nothing.

ANNE ADAMS CREATES A NEW NECKLINE PATTERN 2135
By Anne Adams

For pure, unadulterated chic, here is a correct new spring dress. That very pert neckline is as new as the jonquils, and brings out unknown contours of the face. It's an excellent design to use for the new fabrics—it would be snappy in gabardine, which is staging a great comeback for spring, or in anything from a grayed-pastel woolen of sheer quality to the crinkly, irregular surfaced crepes in silk. Of course, the throat may be worn open. Clips or buttons should match the belt buckle and sleeves may be long or short. Whatever your preference, it's a dress for much enjoyable wear.

Pattern 2135 is available in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 30, 32, 34, 36 and 38. Size 16 takes 3 5-8 yards 39-inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred), for each Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly your name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE WANTED.

Club Members Enjoy Paper On Oriental Rugs

"Oriental Rugs" was the subject of a colorful paper, prepared and read by Mrs. George Lofton before members of the Welcome Branch of the Twentieth Century Book club at their regular meeting in the parlors of the Y. W. C. A. A distinctive feature of this program was the dramatic reading, "The Necklace," by Mrs. K. S. Elliott.

The following members were present: Mrs. J. R. White, Mrs. A. R. Bauerfind, Mrs. Fred Bennet, Mrs. L. B. Burris, Mrs. C. C. Calvert, Mrs. Ross Coates, Mrs. J. Norman Coon, Mrs. Dan Dennet, Mrs. K. S. Elliott, Mrs. W. C. Faulk, Mrs. E. C. Gibson, Mrs. V. S. Garnett, Mrs. W. M. Greenwell, Mrs. J. E. Kersh, Mrs. John Leist, Mrs. George Lofton, Mrs. Albin Lassiter, Mrs. Parker McComb, Mrs. George Marsh, Mrs. Howard Martin, Mrs. D. M. Moore, Mrs. Paul Neal, Mrs. P. A. Posg, Mrs. J. D. Petty, Mrs. W. C. Scott, Mrs. Carl Stillman, Mrs. Dudley Stone, Mrs. Charles Swain, Mrs. J. W. Treadwell, Mrs. L. V. Tarver, Mrs. V. W. Von Schildnecht.

The state chairman of press and publicity, Mrs. Addison Thompson, Ruston, will be very grateful to the clubs of the state if they will favor her with a copy of their year books. Aside from being valuable as material for publicity, they afford valuable suggestions to groups of women who are interested in organizing and federating clubs. While it is not the duty of the chairman of press and publicity to do extension work, a direct, personal appeal never goes unheeded. Clubs that are willing to use their year books in this way, really render an unselfish service.

LITTLE THEATER NOTES

Of course you've whistled in the dark when your courage needed a little boost, but we'd like to bet that you've never whistled in the middle of the night with revolvers pointed at you from all avenues of escape, and with the threat of death hanging over you and over the girl you love. But that's what Wallace Porter, the hero of "Whistling In The Dark," did, and you're cordially invited to the Little Theater play on the 21 of February, and see him do it.

The part of Wallace Porter is portrayed by Frank Breece, and he does the most ambitious piece of work in the history of his career. Frank is a great favorite with Little Theater audiences, and this time, he puts on a performance worthy of a real professional. Come and whistle a "bravo" for him.

Miss Faulk To Be Speaker At The Arts Club

The Arts club of Ruston will present a distinguished guest speaker on March the fifteenth in the person of Miss Eleanor N. Faulk of Monroe.

Miss Faulk is a graduate of Sweetbriar college, Cornell university, school of law, Ithica, N. Y., and Tulane university. Immediately upon her graduation, she departed for a world tour, leaving San Francisco and landing in New York fourteen months later. In the fourteen months of travel, Miss Faulk visited every country of the world. She rounded the North Cape, coming down through Finland, entering Russia where she spent three weeks—an unusually long time for a tourist due to the unfavorable living conditions.

When Miss Faulk appears before the Arts club and their guests she will speak on India, her chosen subject. She has a rare collection of costumes, jewelry, Indian gods and pictures, which it is hoped that she will display. She will be accompanied to Ruston by her mother, Mrs. C. E. Faulk, a valued member of the Altrurian club, and other friends. Mrs. Addison Thompson will be hostess and Mrs. Harvey Nelson co-hostess.

Jacket Notes Of New Books For Readers

This week's offering in the literary world of Monroe is most interesting of prominence being "Lost Paradise," by Robert Coffin.

"Lost Paradise," is the story of a boyhood on a Maine coast salf-water farm. That farm had about everything a human being needs to have to grow up with, and grow up right. It had a field where the boy could step out into the world as a man behind his first plow. It had woods that sang like the Odyssey, and a man who told pirate tales in the midst of them. There was a father who was an Elizabethan prince in his time, and brothers and sisters of every make and size. The farm had books and boats, cows that were adventurers, and hired men who were right out of epics. There was a retired sea-captain to make a boy's boats and tell his story of sealing in the Bering sea. There were stories by the hearth, and stories in the air. The farm had the sea around it, and it was a threering circus in full swing all the time. It was the proper place to bring up a poet. And the poet who was brought up there tells here the story of how he began his adventure in finding life full of gusto and full of a beauty that is better than breath.

"Confessions of a Scientist," by Raymond Ditmars.

Dr. Ditmars recounts here the story of the capture in a murky tropical cave of the first vampire bat to be exhibited alive. He tells how he cared for this blood-drinking specimen and discovered by long nights of watching many hitherto unknown habits. There are stories of his work in the scientific labratory at the Zoological park and his experiences and experiments with snake poisons, his movie labratory which was inspired by his desire to prepare a living book of natural history, his experiences making movies of the whip-like green mamba—the most dreaded of the serpents of Africa, the visitors who call on him at the park with strange stories of reptiles and mammals and stranger specimens, from pet monkeys who have bitten the cook to snakes that must be identified.

"Week End," by Phil Stong.

Phil Stong's new novel is distinctly different from his earlier books. It is a story of a week-end in Connecticut, of a house party which swiftly and inevitably turns out to be one of the utterly decisive points in the lives of almost all the guests.

"The Folks," by Ruth Suckow.

The scene covers the entire country from the middle west to the seaboards. The time is contemporary. The book is America.

Recent additions:

"Mr. Colvon Takes a Walk," by Rinehart.

"Attending Marvels," by Simpson.

"Diamond Jim," by Morell.

"While Rome Burns," Woollcott.

"Survey of Contemporary Sociology," by Fairchild.

"Art in America," by Cahill.

"Modern Muse."

"I, James Lewis," Gabriel.

"Rise and Destiny of the German Jew," by Marcus.

"Goosebery Garden," by Lenski.

"Billy," by Nichles.

"Nancy," by Nichols.

"Snipp Snapp Snurr and the Buttered Bread," by Landman.

"The World We Live in," by Hartman.

"Robin on the Mountain," by Simon.

"North After Seals," by Williamson.

"Little Orvie," by Tarkington.

"Strange Search," by Fox.

The Drew congregational missionary society met with Mrs. Clara Gilliland Friday afternoon where the study of the mission book was enjoyed.

Several piano selections were rendered by Mrs. G. H. Dierlamm and songs were sung in unison by the members.

A round-table discussion was led by Mrs. Gilliland and Mrs. Gipsie O'Quinn of West Monroe. The hostess served a delicious chicken salad course, sandwiches and hot chocolate.

CHAPTER XXXI

Coldly Barrett asked, "Why didn't you keep Hutten?"

Elinor flushed; her eyes wavered. She had sent the chauffeur home because she didn't want anyone to know about her going to see Philip. She had murmured something about uncertainty of plans and dismissed Hutten.

"I—I had some shopping to do," she stammered, "and you know how difficult it is to park cars near—"

"I fear I quite understand," he responded levelly, crisply. She raised surprised eyes and, as she saw his face, her color receded.

"I must remind you," Barrett went on inflexibly, "that I told you several weeks ago I would not have you indulging in flirtations."

"Why, Barrett!" she stammered.

"You were with Bobby Telfare all afternoon," he stated.

"But I wasn't!" She was stung by the injustice.

"Did you have a pleasant time with Bessie?" he asked.

"I had a lovely afternoon," she answered, not quite evenly. She would have gone on to tell him that she had gone elsewhere but he looked at his watch, murmured an excuse and left the room.

Alone, she stood with tears brimming in her eyes and teeth set on her lower lip. Such a reception—after the morning!

She drank her tea as gallantly as she could, hoping to hide her emotions from the keen eyes of Higgins. Then she went to her room and let the tears come.

Higgins tapped on her door at six to say that Mr. Barrett was dining out. Would she like her dinner served on a little table near the library fire? He saw her swallow convulsively before she responded.

"That would be very nice," she said, lifting her head.

Obviously, she decided when the door was closed on Higgins and she was alone again, Barrett regretted his softening toward her that morning. She regretted it too. The moment of tenderness had given her such high hopes.

She laughed bitterly at the thought. What a fool she had been to think a kiss from him could mean anything, when once before he had shown how lightly he considered such a caress.

At the end of the stipulated year she would work. She would not take a cent from him! She wished she could be working now. Then she would have less time to think, to imagine what life might have been for her if she had had the power to make him love her and to hold that love.

She did her best to eat. She didn't want the servants to know how utterly Barrett's chill, disapproving eyes had crushed her. In spite of determination she could do no more than dally with her food. It choked and sickened her.

Having eaten, she went to the drawing room, sat down at the piano and played the gayest tunes Higgins, hearing her, guessed something of her mood. "Poor young thing!" he thought. "Another quarrel and her heart is breaking from it."

But Higgins was not worried. The couple had quarreled before and made up that quarrel almost immediately. "Tomorrow," he decided, putting silver away in its canton flannel beds, "they'll be thick as thieves, calling each other 'heart's desire' and the like."

On the morrow the butler concluded the quarrel had been worse than he thought. Barrett and Elinor scarcely spoke at all. The evening meal was the only one they ate together. Elinor looked pitifully unhappy and Barrett's expression was grimly blank. He left the house almost immediately after the meal and she made no attempt to entertain herself. Instead she sat in her dimly-lit sleeping room, staring ahead, realizing she had been a fool again and that love could show the way to agony. "Never again!" she vowed to herself. "Never again!"

Toward the close of a cold and dismal April Doctor Moran ordered Elinor's father to a milder climate. Aiken was chosen and Bentwell Stafford with two nurses and Elinor departed.

To leave New York was a relief to the girl. She had suffered acutely since the afternoon Bobby Telfare had picked her up on a street corner where she waited for a taxicab to take her home.

"Happy?" Bobby had asked hollowly after she had urged him to hurry if he could because she was late.

"Very" Elinor answered with complete sincerity. She had not been happy since. Sometimes she thought wistfully that Bob Telfare who was dull and unexciting had at least been kind and fair. He was not hot and then cold, as Barrett. No, that wasn't quite true. Barrett was no longer warm of heart; he was steadily cold. Their chess games had been abandoned. The last time she had suggested a game he had said brusquely that he hadn't time. He no longer came to the drawing room at the tea hour to talk over events of the day and hear her play. They had not been to the theater together since that miserable afternoon. They had gone once to Bessie Thrope's for a heavy two o'clock Sunday dinner. There Barrett had gone back to masquerading but he had done it so clumsily that even Jim Senior wondered if perhaps something was wrong.

Elinor had tried to fill her days and for the most part had succeeded. She had grown thin and her eyes met Barrett's wistfully when he looked her way, which was rarely. He feared her and what she might do to him. He knew her, he told himself a hundred times a day. There was no excuse for him to be taken in again, only to be haunted by her and dreams of her. She lied so glibly and easily about where she had been and what she had done!

Each time she was out of the house he was sure she was with Bobby Telfare. Marcia had seen them together and spoken of it to Barrett in a casual, light way. It seemed to Elinor that each time she stepped from the door she was sure to meet Bobby somewhere and be obliged to speak a word or two to him. Barrett was certain that she went to lower New York to spend hours with Telfare.

He plunged into work with a zest that was fanatic—writing, arranging new exhibits, appraising them. He helped Flinders with his plans for an expedition, taking over all the dull details such as ordering tin dippers, pickaxes and soap. He found time to write a series of articles. He superintended plans for the gallery of a friend who had long wanted a suitable home for his paintings, bits of jade, predellas and such. And yet he couldn't keep busy enough to forget his heartache.

He thought he would feel some relief with Elinor away. He found, instead, endless worry and conjecture. In the silence of the house which seemed cold no matter what the temperature, he wondered what she might be doing. He wished the year they had agreed their marriage should endure would come to an end. The name of Colvin had always been kept free from scandal. Marcia's affair had been underhanded and cheap but legal enough. She had been married to Lon Moore who had abandoned trysts with her when he found she could not give him the wealth he had supposed was hers. Lon had died before Marcia's and Barrett's father left them his fortune.

Elinor was aware that Aiken was a very pleasant place. The sunshine was warming and the air soft, the hills and valleys green and the view from the house they had taken, charming.

Her father was carried to the terrace and sat there for long afternoons. Elinor sat beside him reading words she did not sense, smiling at him when they paused to chat, wondering what Barrett was doing and whether he missed her at all. She tried to seem normal and light-hearted, hoping the letters Barrett directed to her—for effect—would hold some suggestion that his coldness was thawing. They never did.

"It's beautiful here," said Bentwell one afternoon. "I don't know when I've been so contented—so at peace!"

He was still too weak to think about others or he would have seen his daughter's misery. He was so slow to get well, Elinor thought with deep anxiety. And when she spoke of it to either of the nurses they agreed, avoiding her eyes and murmuring something about "time." Science knows when human batteries are low and waning but science does not always tell.

WOMAN'S SHOP BUYER RETURNS

Miss Gertie Scherck Spends Two Weeks In New York

Miss Gertie Scherck, buyer for the Woman's Shop, last week returned from New York, where she spent two weeks making contacts with the leading style manufacturers of America. She made extensive purchases for the Bella Scherck Davidson establishment of this city. Miss Scherck said on her return that a spirit of optimism pervades the clothes markets of New York, and predictions of a most successful spring and summer business were freely indulged in.

Miss Scherck was accompanied on her buying trip by D. L. Davidson, an associate in the Bella Scherck Davidson store. The buyers bought full stocks of dresses, coats, underwear, hosiery and children's wear for the new season.

"Clothes never were lovelier, delivery on new goods promises to be normal, and new ideas in dresses and coats are everywhere. Not since 1929 have the merchants felt the wave of normalcy that greeted them on their recent buying trips.

"To be specific as to the new clothes, patrons will have a chance to look at them in the Woman's Shop and note the wide quilted or corded revere, the square shouldered taffeta cape over a print, the light jacket over the darker wool dress, the charm of pique and navy, all these are the trends that delight the shopper of today, who will reap the fruits of the wave of optimism that markets boast of," said Miss Scherck.

The memorial shaft to Samuel Champlain is a lighthouse. It is located at Crown Point, N. Y., and is used to save the lives of those who sail the waters of the lake discovered by Champlain.

One of the prettiest parties of the season was that given by Mrs. Bill Dickerson and Miss Maud Atwood in the home of Miss Atwood on Second street on Friday afternoon. Spring flowers were used throughout the living room and dining room.

Bridge was the diversion of the afternoon. A beautiful plate luncheon carrying out the Valentine motif was served. The tallies were also in keeping with the Valentine idea. Misses Mary Evelyn Atwood, Mildred Atwood and Elizabeth Tannehill assisted the hostesses in serving.

Those present were: Mrs. B. T. Gallagher, Mrs. J. W. Carter, Mrs. H. N. Tannehill, Mrs. W. S. Ellard, Mrs. F. J. Southerland, Mrs. Ivey Seals, Mrs. B. B. Lane, Mrs. F. A. ANNE ADAMS CREATES A NEW NECKLINE PATTERN 2135
By Anne Adams

For pure, unadulterated chic, here is a correct new spring dress. That very pert neckline is as new as the jonquils, and brings out unknown contours of the face. It's an excellent design to use for the new fabrics—it would be snappy in gabardine, which is staging a great comeback for spring, or in anything from a grayed-pastel woolen of sheer quality to the crinkly, irregular surfaced crepes in silk. Of course, the throat may be worn open. Clips or buttons should match the belt buckle and sleeves may be long or short. Whatever your preference, it's a dress for much enjoyable wear.

Pattern 2135 is available in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 30, 32, 34, 36 and 38. Size 16 takes 3 5-8 yards 39-inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred), for each Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly your name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE WANTED.

There are stories of his work in the scientific labratory at the Zoological park and his experiences and experiments with snake poisons; his movie labratory which was inspired by his desire to prepare a living book of natural history, his experiences making movies of the whip-like green mamba—the most dreaded of the serpents of Africa; the visitors who call on him at the park with strange stories of reptiles and mammals and stranger specimens, from pet monkeys who have bitten the cook to snakes that must be identified.

"Week End," by Phil Stong.

Phil Stong's new novel is distinctly different from his earlier books. It is a story of a week-end in Connecticut, of a house party which swiftly and inevitably turns out to be one of the utterly dicisive points in the lives of almost all the guests.

CHAPTER XXXI

Coldly Barrett asked, "Why didn't you keep Hutten?"

Elinor flushed; her eyes wavered. She had sent the chauffeur home because she didn't want anyone to know about her going to see Philip. She had murmured something about uncertainty of plans and dismissed Hutten.

"I—I had some shopping to do," she stammered, "and you know how difficult it is to park cars near—"

"I fear I quite understand," he responded levelly, crisply. She raised surprised eyes and, as she saw his face, her color receded.

"I must remind you," Barrett went on inflexibly, "that I told you several weeks ago I would not have you indulging in flirtations."

"Why, Barrett!" she stammered.

"You were with Bobby Telfare all afternoon," he stated.

"But I wasn't!" She was stung by the injustice.

"Did you have a pleasant time with Bessie?" he asked.

"I had a lovely afternoon," she answered, not quite evenly. She would have gone on to tell him that she had gone elsewhere but he looked at his watch, murmured an excuse and left the room.

Alone, she stood with tears brimming in her eyes and teeth set on her lower lip. Such a reception—after the morning!

She drank her tea as gallantly as she could, hoping to hide her emotions from the keen eyes of Higgins. Then she went to her room and let the tears come.

Higgins tapped on her door at six to say that Mr. Barrett was dining out. Would she like her dinner served on a little table near the library fire? He saw her swallow convulsively before she responded.

"That would be very nice," she said, lifting her head.

Obviously, she decided when the door was closed on Higgins and she was alone again, Barrett regretted his softening toward her that morning. She regretted it too. The moment of tenderness had given her such high hopes.

She laughed bitterly at the thought. What a fool she had been to think a kiss from him could mean anything, when once before he had shown how lightly he considered such a caress.

At the end of the stipulated year she would work. She would not take a cent from him! She wished she could be working now. Then she would have less time to think, to imagine what life might have been for her if she had had the power to make him love her and to hold that love.

She did her best to eat. She didn't want the servants to know how utterly Barrett's chill, disapproving eyes had crushed her. In spite of determination she could do no more than dally with her food. It choked and sickened her.

Having eaten, she went to the drawing room, sat down at the piano and played the gayest tunes. Higgins, hearing her, guessed something of her mood. "Poor young thing!" he thought. "Another quarrel and her heart is breaking from it."

But Higgins was not worried. The couple had quarreled before and made up that quarrel almost immediately. "Tomorrow," he decided, putting silver away in its canton flannel beds, "they'll be thick as thieves, calling each other 'heart's desire' and the like."

On the morrow the butler concluded the quarrel had been worse than he thought. Barrett and Elinor scarcely spoke at all. The evening meal was the only one they ate together. Elinor looked pitifully unhappy and Barrett's expression was grimly blank. He left the house almost immediately after the meal and she made no attempt to entertain herself. Instead she sat in her dimly-lit sleeping room, staring ahead, realizing she had been a fool again and that love could show the way to agony. "Never again!" she vowed to herself. "Never again!"

Toward the close of a cold and dismal April Doctor Moran ordered Elinor's father to a milder climate. Aiken was chosen and Bentwell Stafford with two nurses and Elinor departed.

To leave New York was a relief to the girl. She had suffered acutely since the afternoon Bobby Telfare had picked her up on a street corner where she waited for a taxicab to take her home.

"Happy?" Bobby had asked hollowly after she had urged him to hurry if he could because she was late.

"Very" Elinor answered with complete sincerity. She had not been happy since. Sometimes she thought wistfully that Bob Telfare who was dull and unexciting had at least been kind and fair. He was not hot and then cold, as Barrett. No, that wasn't quite true. Barrett was no longer warm of heart; he was steadily cold. Their chess games had been abandoned. The last time she had suggested a game he had said brusquely that he hadn't time. He no longer came to the drawing room at the tea hour to talk over events of the day and hear her play. They had not been to the theater together since that miserable afternoon. They had gone once to Bessie Thrope's for a heavy two o'clock Sunday dinner. There Barrett had gone back to masquerading but he had done it so clumsily that even Jim Senior wondered if perhaps something was wrong.

Elinor had tried to fill her days and for the most part had succeeded. She had grown thin and her eyes met Barrett's wistfully when he looked her way, which was rarely. He feared her and what she might do to him. He knew her, he told himself a hundred times a day. There was no excuse for him to be taken in again, only to be haunted by her and dreams of her. She lied so glibly and easily about where she had been and what she had done!

Each time she was out of the house he was sure she was with Bobby Telfare. Marcia had seen them together and spoken of it to Barrett in a casual, light way. It seemed to Elinor that each time she stepped from the door she was sure to meet Bobby somewhere and be obliged to speak a word or two to him. Barrett was certain that she went to lower New York to spend hours with Telfare.

He plunged into work with a zest that was fanatic—writing, arranging new exhibits, appraising them. He helped Flinders with his plans for an expedition, taking over all the dull details such as ordering tin dippers, pickaxes and soap. He found time to write a series of articles. He superintended plans for the gallery of a friend who had long wanted a suitable home for his paintings, bits of jade, predellas and such. And yet he couldn't keep busy enough to forget his heartache.

He thought he would feel some relief with Elinor away. He found, instead, endless worry and conjecture. In the silence of the house which seemed cold no matter what the temperature, he wondered what she might be doing. He wished the year they had agreed their marriage should endure would come to an end. The name of Colvin had always been kept free from scandal. Marcia's affair had been underhanded and cheap but legal enough. She had been married to Lon Moore who had abandoned trysts with her when he found she could not give him the wealth he had supposed was hers. Lon had died before Marcia's and Barrett's father left them his fortune.

Elinor was aware that Aiken was a very pleasant place. The sunshine was warming and the air soft, the hills and valleys green and the view from the house they had taken, charming.

Her father was carried to the terrace and sat there for long afternoons. Elinor sat beside him reading words she did not sense, smiling at him when they paused to chat, wondering what Barrett was doing and whether he missed her at all. She tried to seem normal and light-hearted, hoping the letters Barrett directed to her—for effect—would hold some suggestion that his coldness was thawing. They never did.

"It's beautiful here," said Bentwell one afternoon. "I don't know when I've been so contented—so at peace!"

He was still too weak to think about others or he would have seen his daughter's misery. He was so slow to get well, Elinor thought with deep anxiety. And when she spoke of it to either of the nurses they agreed, avoiding her eyes and murmuring something about "time." Science knows when human batteries are low and waning but science does not always tell.

WOMAN'S SHOP BUYER RETURNS

Miss Gertie Scherck, buyer for the Woman's Shop, last week returned from New York, where she spent two weeks making contacts with the leading style manufacturers of America. She made extensive purchases for the Bella Scherck Davidson establishment of this city. Miss Scherck said on her return that a spirit of optimism pervades the clothes markets of New York, and predictions of a most successful spring and summer business were freely indulged in.

Miss Scherck was accompanied on her buying trip by D. L. Davidson, an associate in the Bella Scherck Davidson store. The buyers bought full stocks of dresses, coats, underwear, hosiery and children's wear for the new season.

"Clothes never were lovelier, delivery on new goods promises to be normal, and new ideas in dresses and coats are everywhere. Not since 1929 have the merchants felt the wave of normalcy that greeted them on their recent buying trips.

"To be specific as to the new clothes, patrons will have a chance to look at them in the Woman's Shop and note the wide quilted or corded revere the square shouldered taffeta cape over a print, the light jacket over the darker wool dress, the charm of pique and navy, all these are the trends that delight the shopper of today, who will reap the fruits of the wave of optimism that markets boast of," said Miss Scherck.

The memorial shaft to Samuel Champlain is a lighthouse. It is located at Crown Point, N. Y., and is used to save the lives of those who sail the waters of the lake discovered by Champlain.

CUB FANS GET 'NEW DEAL' FROM OWNER WRIG

NEW PRESIDENT TAKES LEAD IN NATIONAL LOOP

By Paul Mickelson
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

CHICAGO, Feb. 9.—Cub fans, who yelled and hooted for action last fall as their highly paid heroes stumbled down the stretch drive of the National league pennant race, are getting it with both barrels from Phil K. Wrigley.

The mild-mannered but aggressive heir to the Wrigley millions had no intentions of taking more than a proprietary interest in the team, but when he discovered he possessed a baseball house divided against itself, he jumped into the breach with an active leadership that already has been felt in major league circles.

It was only last October that Wrigley, his head buzzing with ideas that are bound to improve major league business methods, swung into action. Some of the results of his actions:

He eased William Walker, long one of the team's largest and most powerful stockholders, out of the presidency and took over the job himself.

Met rumors that Charlie Grimm would be deposed as manager with the announcement that Grimm not only had been signed for another year at more money, but had been named vice president with authority to make player deals as he saw fit.

Ran display advertisements for the Cubs in Chicago newspapers during the winter.

Served an ultimatum on National league club owners that the Cubs would do as they pleased about cutting ticket prices for children.

Exploded the theory the Cubs were the biggest money makers in the game by proving they lost $600,000 in the last three seasons.

Decreased, instead of increased, the seating capacity of Wrigley field so as to give ticket holders more comfort. In the box seat section alone, he ordered 2,200 chairs removed.

Ordered a survey to determine the most popular time for the start of games, especially on Saturday. His present plan is to start Saturday's games at 1:30 p.m., to catch office crowds before they get home.

Although Wrigley says he has no intention of slashing salaries, it is doubtful whether any Cub players ever again will come close to the salaries paid by his father, the late William Wrigley, Jr.

"You can't buy pennants and no player is worth money like $25,000 a year in baseball," he says.

The Cubs, although fortified with some excellent looking young prospects, may not win the pennant next season, but you can bet your last pair of garters that they'll be a different club from last year. They'll be hustling all the time or else.

START WORK SOON ON TECH STADIUM

Concrete Structure Seating 3,000 To Be Ready By Next Fall

RUSTON, La., Feb. 9.—(Special)—Within the next few weeks, work will begin on the constructing of the new concrete stadium at Louisiana Tech, President G. W. Bond announced this week. Architects are expected to come to Ruston during the next few days to make final revision of the plans for the new structure.

The stadium will be completed and ready for use with the opening of the football season next fall, President Bond said. State officials have stated that installments of the $25,000 appropriation are forthcoming.

The legislature last summer voted the stadium appropriation as an "emergency measure," since a suitable stadium is seen as one of Louisiana Tech's most urgent needs. This grant was made in addition to Tech's annual appropriation of $224,000, which sum has been the college's maintenance allotment for the last four years.

Erected at the edge of the cinder track on the west side of the football field, the new stadium will seat 3,000 persons. It will be a modern concrete structure, with dressing rooms, showers and other conveniences.

In addition to the west side concrete stands, wooden bleachers will be placed on the east side to accommodate an additional 2,000 persons.

Jean Bauer Rallies To Win Miami Golf Crown

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Ruddy-cheeked Jean Bauer came back from the very portal of defeat here today to win the Miami Biltmore women's amateur golf tournament by conquering Mrs. Joe Bydolek, Buffalo, N. Y., veteran, one up.

Mrs. Art Millea, of Coral Gables, Florida state champion, defeated Miss Marion Gayer, Charleston, S. C., three and two, in the final of the second flight, which was composed of the beaten sixteen of the first division.

Considering the talents of reading and writing too effiminate, a wealthy Moroccan desert chief, who commands 10,000 horsemen, refuses to learn them.

Vanderbilt And Kentucky May Pass Up Cage Tourney

Schools Oppose Method Of Deciding Conference Championship

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Sidestepping controversial subjects by relegating its decisions to an executive committee, the fourth annual convention of the southeastern conference came to a close today without startling developments.

The meeting was featured by two developments—restoration of tournaments in various sports and a favorable stand on post-season football games.

Final approval of these two questions was left in the hands of the executive committee, with indications that permission will be forthcoming for staging the basketball tournament this spring and that consent will be given to southeastern gridiron teams to participate in the Rose Bowl, the Sugar Bowl and other post-season games, if invitations are extended.

A formal invitation was extended by Tennessee for the basketball tournament, but the session took no official action on the bid. Col. Paul P. Parker, athletic director at Tennessee, said he was hopeful that the meet could be held. In the event the tournament is staged this season, the probable dates are March 1, 2 and 4.

Vanderbit and Kentucky opposed reinstatement of the tournaments, the resolution calling also for the meets to be held in track, boxing, tennis, golf and swimming, on the grounds that tournaments were not the logical way in which to select a champion.

Indications were that Vanderbilt and Kentucky, and possibly Alabama, would not enter teams in the basketball tournament, if one is held and the possibility developed that support for the meet would be lacking if these schools declined to participate.

However, Colonel Parker said he was going ahead with his plans to put on the tournament, hopeful that there would be a change of sentiment. The tournament has been held annually since 1922 in Atlanta, but the executive committee abolished it and other events at its fall meeting.

The door was left open for southeastern institutions to engage in post-season games, when the conference referred this question to its executive committee and it was decided that this group should rule regarding participation of its member teams in the Rose Bowl, Sugar Bowl and other games after the regular playing schedule.

In the past approval has been given by the executive committee for these games, but adverse comment was heard after inauguration of the Sugar Bowl game in New Orleans. Warren V. Miller, president of the New Orleans Mid-Winter Sports association, sponsor of the Sugar Bowl game, appealed personally to the conference to continue its present favorable relations.

Sectional and committee meetings today brought to a close the official business and afterward delegates were taken on a sight-seeing tour that included a visit to the Hermitage.

Dr. John J. Tigert, president of the University of Forida, and newly-named head of the conference, succeeding President Frank L. McVey of the University of Kentucky, named the members of various committees during the day.

The conference, among other things, declined to change dates for the start of varsity and freshman football practice, voted to hold its annual meeting in December instead of February, and agreed that the present ruling on recruiting shall be unchanged.

Regarding recruiting, the constitution says that no athletes shall be recruited through "offers or inducements of a financial nature," which means that this angle is left up to the individual schools.

Delegates were pleased over the action taken on junior college transfers, the conference deciding such transfers might continue their athletic careers immediately if they are graduates of a junior college, but if not graduates, they must remain a resident a year before participating in sports.

The next annual meeting will be held in December in Athens, Ga., with the University of Georgia acting as host.

Roman Soldier First Texas Derby Nominee

FORT WORTH, Texas, Feb. 9.—(Special)—Roman Soldier, one of the most highly regarded 3-year-olds now racing, is the first thoroughbred to be nominated for the $15,000 Texas Derby, which will feature the spring meeting at Arlington Downs, March 28 through April 20. The third renewal of the rich Derby will be contested over one and one-eighth miles on the final day of the meeting.

Roman Soldier, black son of Cohort-Miamba, now is carrying the silks of William Sachsenmaier and Phil Reuter at Hialeah park, Fla. The colt has been established as co-favorite with Col. E. R. Bradley's Back Helen for the Florida Derby, and is well thought of in the future books for the Kentucky Derby.

Sachsenmaier and Reuter are bringing Roman Soldier to Arlington Downs in the hope of repeating for the Texas Derby, which they won in 1934 with Flight. Sachsenmaier's Flight outraced Hickory Lad, winner of the Louisiana Derby, and Riskulus, strong favorite and Agua Caliente Derby winner, for his 1934 victory.

CENTENARY FIVE WHIPS WILDCATS

Gents Continue Winning Streak With 48-To-30 Cage Victory

SHREVEPORT, La., Feb. 8.—(AP)—Centenary college basketball team stretched its southern Intercollegiate Athletic association victories to twenty-five in a row here tonight by defeating the Louisiana college Wildcats, 48 to 30.

It was the eighth win for the Gentlemen against conference opponents this year without a defeat.

Led by Howard Hooper, sophomore guard, who scored 15 points, the Gents overcame a small field of their opponents after the first few minutes of play and were never threatened thereafter.

The Gentlemen still have to hurdle Louisiana State Normal in a pair of games to finish the season undefeated.

Sonja Henie Of Norway Retains Skating Crown

CATHOLIC HIGH TEAM TO FIGHT NEVILLE FRIDAY

Tigers Face Another Strong Team In Card At Local School Gym

The boxers of Neville high school, state champions, who have been outpointed before the withering attack of two powerful mitt teams in the last two weeks after taking four engagements straight, appear headed for another tough week-end when they clash with the Catholic high school scrappers of Baton Rouge here Friday night.

The Tigers have already bowed to one Baton Rouge team this year, the Baton Rouge high school squad, and the former state champion Catholic high Bears are reported even stronger.

Evidence of the Bears' strength lies in their victory over the Lutcher boxers, who beat Neville Friday night. A week ago last Friday the Catholic high scrappers defeated the Lutcher team 5 1-2 to 4 1-2. Lutcher's Bulldogs then walloped the locals 5 to 3.

The Bears have four boys on the team that will be hard to beat, according to reports, while several others will bear watching.

Heading the list of Catholic high scrappers, however, are Eddie Mansur, who lost to Neville's George Manteris in the battle for the state title in the 145-pound class last spring; Newton Kershaw, Jimmy Donnellon and Frank McDonald.

Some comparison of the boys whom Neville will meet can be shown in these statistics: Mansur beat Gordon Bourgeois of Lutcher, who won a close decision over Andrew Pappas here Friday. Kershaw, a 112-pounder, beat Johnny LeBlanc of Lutcher, who technically knocked out Ernest Pierce in the second round of a battle Friday. Donnellon, 118, held his own against Leon Rebaldo, state champion of Lutcher, and almost knocked him out in the last round but having lost the first two rounds, lost the decision. But Milo Mattinson, rising luminary, of the Tigers, beat Rebaldo and should be able to do likewise with Donnellon. McDonald beat Irving Rome of Lutcher, who beat Howard Earl of Neville.

Catholic high held the state championship last year and is out to get the title back from the Tigers. The Bears took the title from their namesakes, the Bears of Bolton high school, who were the first to hold the official title as state boxing champions.

LONG SEEKS GRID GAMES WITH TIDE

Alabama Governor Would Like To Give L. S. U. A Few Lessons

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Senator Huey Long challenged Governor Bibb Graves today to a series of football games between the University of Alabama and Louisiana State university, and got the reply "nothing would suit me better than for Alabama to give L. S. U. a few lessons."

The request for the series was made by the "kingfish" via telephone from Washington, and Governor Graves asked Dr. George H. Denny, Alabama president, to confer with Coach Frank Thomas and give him a definite answer within two weeks.

Despite the governor's enthusiasm for the game, football fans saw small chance of the series beginning this year because Alabama's schedule has been completed.

Dr. Denny, in the governor's office shortly after Long's call, would not commit himself on the proposed arrangement, but told the chief executive he would confer with Coach Thomas.

"Nothing would suit me better than for Alabama to give L. S. U. a few lessons in football," the governor told Long. "After we have taught them how to play maybe L. S. U. will be a worthy opponent for other colleges."

What Long's answer was to his comment, Governor Graves would not say.

The tide was undefeated last season, winning nine scheduled games, and then defeating Stanford on New Year's day in the tournament of roses by virtue of a dazzling second quarter attack that netted 22 points.

The Louisiana eleven approached the end of the season undefeated and tied twice, but was defeated twice in the closing contests, losing to Tulane and Tennessee on successive week ends.

Cardinals And Tigers Are Favorites In The Betting

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(AP)—The world champion St. Louis Cardinals, National league titleholders, and the Detroit Tigers, winners in the American league, today were quoted the favorites to repeat in their respective circuits by Jack Doyle, Broadway commissioner.

The Cardinals were quoted at 7 to 5 to win, 2-5 to finish second and 1-8 to wind up third. The Tigers were held at 8-5, 2-5 and 1-5 across the board.

In the National league the New York Giants, who were dethroned last year, were the second choice at 5 to 2 while the Yankees held the same position in the junior circuit at the same odds.

SUNFLOWER WINS FROM INDIANS TO EVEN CAGE SERIES

Weird Officiating Helps Mississippians Beat Center, 30-22

MOORHEAD, Miss., Feb. 9.—(Special)—Aided by some weird officiating, the Sunflower junior college quintet defeated Northeast Center of L. S. U., of Monroe, La., here tonight, 30 to 22. It gave the local club an even break in the two-game series played here, although the Louisiana team has a 3-1 margin in season's play beween the two quintets. The Indians won here Friday night by one point in an overtime game.

The officiating favored Sunflower all the way. They were exactly 20 personal fouls called against the Monroe team and with some of these carrying two shots, the local team got 28 free throws a' the basket. They made good 10 of them. That, however, wasn't as costly as the decisions against Burt Trichel, stellar Monroe forward. Five times Trichel raced under the basket and sank crip shots and five times the referee said he was "running" and disallowed the baskets. At that, Trichel made five field goals and two free throws for 12 points.

The first half was a fairly even battle, with the lead changing several times. With Northeast Center ahead, the Sunflower forwards made two baskets from the middle of the court just before the rest period and their accuracy gave the locals a 14-12 advantage at the half.

The second half found Sunflower forging steadily ahead, with the Indians suffering heavily through fouls. Arnold, first string center, and May, regular guard, went out of the game via four personal fouls.

Duncan, outstanding Sunflower forward, won individual scoring honors with four field goals and five foul shots for 13 points. Trichel was a close second with 12.

GOGGIN GOES INTO LEAD AT CALIENTE

San Francisco Pro Posts 69, Two Under Par, To Pace Field

AGUA CALIENTE, Mex., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Willie Goggin, San Francisco, shot a 69, two under par, to climb in to the lead in the Agua Caliente golf sweepstakes today, with a 54-hole total of 215.

The rugged northern California pro's score was not tops for the round or the tournament to date, for Johnny Revolta, Milwaukee, paraded in through the mud with a 68, three under par, for 216, a stroke back, to tie for second place with Henry Picard, Hershey, Pa., and Ky Laffoon, Chicago.

Harry Cooper, Chicago, with Mortie Dutra, Detroit, and Wiffy Cox, Brooklyn, were tied for fifth at 217. Orville White, St. Louis, and Craig Wood, Deal, N. J., had totals of 218 for an eighth place tie.

Revolta's putter was working in top fashion as he toured the long 6,189-yard, sopping-wet course in 34-34. He was in trouble on only three holes and managed to get a par out of one of them and bogies on the other two as he picked up five birdies along the way to chalk up his fine card.

The sturdy Milwaukee youth dropped a 20-footer on the second for his first birdie, pushed a 12-footer in on the ninth for another, and had a 15-footer on the fifteenth for one of the three collected on the back side.

Goggin needed a par for a 68 on the last hole. His drive caught a trap to the left, however, and he failed to get any distance out of the saturated sand with his spoon. His third was on the green but his putt from the fathermost edge rimmed the cup and he took a bogie five for a 69.

Tech II, L. P. I. Mascot, Is Found Dead Saturday

RUSTON, La., Feb. 9.—(Special)—Tech II, Bullpup mascot of the Louisiana Tech athletic teams, was laid quietly to rest here this afternoon to await time for going on to the "happy hunting grounds."

The bull pup, which was presented to the athletic department several months ago by the senior class of 1935, was found dead this morning in his box from whith he came growling at daybreak each morning. The cause of his death is not known since he was very playful late last night before going into his house.

The first bulldog, the original Tech after which Tech II was named, was presented to the school by "Sonny" and "Cotton" Matthews, of Shreveport, La. P. I. students.

British Ace's Failure In Australia Gives U. S. Hope

England's Team Likely To Suffer With Fred Perry Overworked

By Jimmy Donahue
(NEA Service Sports Writer)

Crawford beats Perry! McGrath beats Perry! Quist beats Perry!

Those reports, coming from Australia, indicate that Fred Perry, world's No. 1 amateur tennis player, is learning the lesson that Ellsworth Vines absorbed during the winter of 1932-33. They also give hope to a patient America that the Davis cup might pull the prodigal son act this year.

It is plain, from his showing in the land down under, that Perry is overtennised. Two solid years of competitive volleying, with hardly time out for tea, have taken a lot from the bounding net-jumping Briton.

Vines and other American luminaries took a long trip shortly after the end of the 1932 season. The boys wound up in Australia, from where reports emanated that Vines, then hailed as one of the greatest players, had dropped tilt after tilt to Jack Crawford and lesser lights.

Echoes of that trip reverberated during the fiasco that occurred in the Davis cup competition of 1933. Vines collapsed in his match with Perry on the red clay of State Roland Garros in France, where America engaged England for the right to meet the tri-color in the challenge round.

With the exception of the victory of George Lott and Johnny Van Ryn in the doubles, the showing of the Yankee squad was rather pathetic.

It was pointed out that the players had overtrained after having been overworked. There was talk of dissension. Other excuses were advanced.

Experts were inclined to discredit most of the reasons for failure, but the flop of Perry in Australia tends to prove the statement of Vines, that the team had played too much tennis before the cup clashes, was correct.

"Nineteen months of tournament tennis is too much."

Perry has had more than that.

Starting with the winning of the U. S. singles title in '33, the English luminary toured Australia, took part in the French championships of 1934, won the Wimbledon singles last year, trained assiduously for the '34 Davis cup battles, repeated his victory in the U. S. singles, campaigned on the west coast, where he lost to Gene Mako—and then went back for more in Australia.

Nearly two years of heavy competition in a game that draws every ounce of energy from a player made him a comparatively easy mark for Crawford, who gave up U. S. singles play last season in favor of returning to his native land to rest.

Perry's apparent over-tennis condition leads not a few veteran observers to predict that the Davis cup is due to leave England this year. Most of them believe that Australia, with Crawford back in the shape that made him world No. 1 man in 1933, will annex the trophy. Australia also has Vivian McGrath and Adrian Quist.

Henri Cochet, former member of the French team, expresses the opinion that Crawford and McGrath will score a clean-cut victory for the Anzacs.

Cochet has been wrong before, however. Last year he predicted that the United States would bring the cup home.

It may be that the Frenchman's prediction of 1934 was intended for 1935. The American array, as full of life as a two-year-old now that the young blood of Frankie Parker, Mako, and Don Budge has been injected, may possibly be able to turn the tables if that awful bogy-man, Perry, isn't himself.

NEVILLE BANQUET WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Letters To Be Awarded Members Of 1934 Grid Team This Week

Neville high school's annual lettermen's banquet will be held Wednesday night and this year the public is invited to attend, Coach Percy Brown announced last night. The banquet will be held in the school cafeteria and the meal will be prepared by the home economics department, under the direction of Miss Sara Bres.

Letters will be awarded members of the 1934 football squad, Coach Brown said. A program which includes talks by several school officials and Tiger supporters will be presented.

Each letterman has been given two tickets to sell, Coach Brown said, and a large crowd is expected to attend the affair. Tickets are being sold at 35 cents each. Persons who wish to make reservations for the banquet may do so by calling Neville high school. All reservations must be in by 3:15 o'clock Monday afternoon.

The annual Neville banquet has attracted a large attendance in the past but with the public invited for the first time this year, an unusually large turnout is expected.

Coach Brown said last night that he would not announce the players to receive letters until the night of the banquet.

DIZZY PRAISES CARD OFFICIALS

Professor Dean Also Includes Himself Among Club's 'Greats'

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Feb. 9.—(AP)—"Professor" Dizzy Dean, arrived in Hot Springs late today, singing the praises of President Sam Breadon, Manager Frankie Frisch and the Cardinals in general, and proclaiming himself as "the Moses who hopes to lead young baseball hopefuls to better things than the bush leagues."

"The Diz" is here to assume his duties as a pitching tutor for a baseball school which will open its third annual term February 15. Other members of the pitching faculty will be Brother Paul and Lon Warneke, the latter of the Chicago Cubs.

With a squad of major leaguers turned golfers waiting for him to join them on the links, the Dizzy, for once was anxious to rid himself of interviewers.

Answering a barrage of questions, he emphatically denied that there was the slightest friction between himself and Breadon, and said the same applied to Frisch. He predicted that the Cardinals would win the National league pennant again this year, and said he saw no reason why he should not win 30 or more games. (He won 30 last year.)

Dean predicted Brother Paul, who preceded him here, would better his last year's record of 19 wins, and added that Paul, who has not yet signed his contract, would have no trouble in coming to terms with the St. Louis club.

Daffy, who lets Jerome do the talking when "The Diz" is around, had previously expresed a similar opinion regarding his salary differences with the Cardinals.

I am not worrying about the baseball season right now," said Dizzy impatiently. "What I am thinking about now is how I can teach these kids in the baseball school to pitch. I haven't forgotten how it was before I got into the big show, and what a tough climb it is to get somewhere in baseball. Me and Paul are going to put out everything we have to encourage these kids and get them started right."

New Bobsled Record Set By Former Yale Athlete

LAKE PLACID, N. Y., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Records for the ice-covered Mt. Vanhoevenberg run fell into the discard today for a second time within a week as Gilbert Colgate, Jr., of New York, former Yale university athlete, piloted his two-man bobsled into the lead in the competition to determine the United States bobsled representatives in the 1936 Olympics in Germany.

In the face of a blinding snowstorm, Colgate sent his sled down the mile and a half icy course to a new record of one minute and 55.94 seconds in the first heat and reeled off the second in one minute and 57.20 seconds, a two-heat total of three minutes and 53.14 seconds.

The first heat broke by four-hundredths of a second the course mark by J. Hubert and F. Paul Stevens of Lake Placid in winning the national A. A. U. title meet last week-end and bettered the 1932 Olympic mark by 1.74 seconds.

The remaining two heats of the two-man sleds will be run tomorrow, followed by the four-man races on Monday and Tuesday.

CUB FANS GET 'NEW DEAL' FROM OWNER WRIG...

NEW PRESIDENT TAKES LEAD IN NATIONAL LOOP

By Paul Mickelson
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

CHICAGO, Feb. 9.—Cub fans, who yelled and hooted for action last fall as their highly paid heroes stumbled down the stretch drive of the National league pennant race, are getting it with both barrels from Phil K. Wrigley.

The mild-mannered but aggressive heir to the Wrigley millions had no intentions of taking more than a proprietary interest in the team, but when he discovered he possessed a baseball house divided against itself, he jumped into the breach with an active leadership that already has been felt in major league circles.

It was only last October that Wrigley, his head buzzing with ideas that are bound to improve major league business methods, swung into action. Some of the results of his actions:

He eased William Walker, long one of the team's largest and most powerful stockholders, out of the presidency and took over the job himself.

Met rumors that Charlie Grimm would be deposed as manager with the announcement that Grimm not only had been signed for another year at more money, but had been named vice president with authority to make player deals as he saw fit.

Ran display advertisements for the Cubs in Chicago newspapers during the winter.

Served an ultimatum on National league club owners that the Cubs would do as they pleased about cutting ticket prices for children.

Exploded the theory the Cubs were the biggest money makers in the game by proving they lost $600,000 in the last three seasons.

Decreased, instead of increased, the seating capacity of Wrigley field so as to give ticket holders more comfort. In the box seat section alone, he ordered 2,200 chairs removed.

Ordered a survey to determine the most popular time for the start of games, especially on Saturday. His present plan is to start Saturday's games at 1:30 p.m., to catch office crowds before they get home.

Although Wrigley says he has no intention of slashing salaries, it is doubtful whether any Cub players ever again will come close to the salaries paid by his father, the late William Wrigley, Jr.

"You can't buy pennants and no player is worth money like $25,000 a year in baseball," he says.

The Cubs, although fortified with some excellent looking young prospects, may not win the pennant next season, but you can bet your last pair of garters that they'll be a different club from last year. They'll be hustling all the time or else.

START WORK SOON ON TECH STADIUM

Concrete Structure Seating 3,000 To Be Ready By Next Fall

RUSTON, La., Feb. 9.—(Special)—Within the next few weeks, work will begin on the constructing of the new concrete stadium at Louisiana Tech, President G. W. Bond announced this week. Architects are expected to come to Ruston during the next few days to make final revision of the plans for the new structure.

The stadium will be completed and ready for use with the opening of the football season next fall, President Bond said. State officials have stated that installments of the $25,000 appropriation are forthcoming.

The legislature last summer voted the stadium appropriation as an "emergency measure," since a suitable stadium is seen as one of Louisiana Tech's most urgent needs. This grant was made in addition to Tech's annual appropriation of $224,000, which sum has been the college's maintenance allotment for the last four years.

Erected at the edge of the cinder track on the west side of the football field, the new stadium will seat 3,000 persons. It will be a modern concrete structure, with dressing rooms, showers and other conveniences.

In addition to the west side concrete stands, wooden bleachers will be placed on the east side to accommodate an additional 2,000 persons.

Jean Bauer Rallies To Win Miami Golf Crown

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Ruddy-cheeked Jean Bauer came back from the very portal of defeat here today to win the Miami Biltmore women's amateur golf tournament by conquering Mrs. Joe Bydolek, Buffalo, N. Y., veteran, one up.

Mrs. Art Millea, of Coral Gables, Florida state champion, defeated Miss Marion Gayer, Charleston, S. C., three and two, in the final of the second flight, which was composed of the beaten sixteen of the first division.

Considering the talents of reading and writing too effiminate, a wealthy Moroccan desert chief, who commands 15,000 horsemen, refuses to learn them.

Vanderbilt And Kentucky May Pass Up Cage Tourney

Schools Oppose Method Of Deciding Conference Championship

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Sidestepping controversial subjects by relegating its decisions to an executive committee, the fourth annual convention of the southeastern conference came to a close today without startling developments.

The meeting was featured by two developments—restoration of tournaments in various sports and a favorable stand on post-season football games.

Final approval of these two questions was left in the hands of the executive committee, with indications that permission will be forthcoming for staging the basketball tournament this spring and that consent will be given to southeastern gridiron teams to participate in the Rose Bowl, the Sugar Bowl and other post-season games, if invitations are extended.

A formal invitation was extended by Tennessee for the basketball tournament, but the session took no official action on the bid. Col. Paul P. Parker, athletic director at Tennessee, said he was hopeful that the meet could be held. In the event the tournament is staged this season, the probable dates are March 1, 2 and 4.

Vanderbit and Kentucky opposed reinstatement of the tournaments, the resolution calling also for the meets to be held in track, boxing, tennis, golf and swimming, on the grounds that tournaments were not the logical way in which to select a champion.

Indications were that Vanderbilt and Kentucky, and possibly Alabama, would not enter teams in the basketball tournament, if one is held and the possibility developed that support for the meet would be lacking if these schools declined to participate.

However, Colonel Parker said he was going ahead with his plans to put on the tournament, hopeful that there would be a change of sentiment. The tournament has been held annually since 1922 in Atlanta, but the executive committee abolished it and other events at its fall meeting.

The door was left open for southeastern institutions to engage in post-season games, when the conference referred this question to its executive committee and it was decided that this group should rule regarding participation of its member teams in the Rose Bowl, Sugar Bowl and other games after the regular playing schedule.

In the past approval has been given by the executive committee for these games, but adverse comment was heard after inauguration of the Sugar Bowl game in New Orleans. Warren V. Miller, president of the New Orleans Mid-Winter Sports association, sponsor of the Sugar Bowl game, appealed personally to the conference to continue its present favorable relations.

Sectional and committee meetings today brought to a close the official business and afterward delegates were taken on a sight-seeing tour that included a visit to the Hermitage.

Dr. John J. Tigert, president of the University of Forida, and newly-named head of the conference, succeeding President Frank L. McVey of the University of Kentucky, named the members of various committees during the day.

The conference, among other things, declined to change dates for the start of varsity and freshman football practice, voted to hold its annual meeting in December instead of February, and agreed that the present ruling on recruiting shall be unchanged.

Regarding recruiting, the constitution says that no athletes shall be recruited through "offers or inducements of a financial nature," which means that this angle is left up to the individual schools.

Delegates were pleased over the action taken on junior college transfers, the conference deciding such transfers might continue their athletic careers immediately if they are graduates of a junior college, but if not graduates, they must remain a resident a year before participating in sports.

The next annual meeting will be held in December in Athens, Ga., with the University of Georgia acting as host.

Roman Soldier First Texas Derby Nominee

FORT WORTH, Texas, Feb. 9.—(Special)—Roman Soldier, one of the most highly regarded 3-year-olds now racing, is the first thoroughbred to be nominated for the $15,000 Texas Derby, which will feature the spring meeting at Arlington Downs, March 28 through April 20. The third renewal of the rich Derby will be contested over one and one-eighth miles on the final day of the meeting.

Roman Soldier, black son of Cohort-Miamba, now is carrying the silks of William Sachsenmaier and Phil Reuter at Hialeah park, Fla. The colt has been established as co-favorite with Col. E. R. Bradley's Back Helen for the Florida Derby, and is well thought of in the future books for the Kentucky Derby.

Sachsenmaier and Reuter are bringing Roman Soldier to Arlington Downs in the hope of repeating for the Texas Derby, which they won in 1934 with Plight. Sachsenmaier's Plight outraced Hickory Lad, winner of the Louisiana Derby, and Riskulus, strong favorite and Agua Caliente Derby winner, for his 1934 victory.

Gents Continue Winning Streak With 48-To-30 Cage Victory

SHREVEPORT, La., Feb. 8.—(AP)—Centenary college basketball team stretched its southern Intercollegiate Athletic association victories to twenty-five in a row here tonight by defeating the Louisiana college Wildcats, 48 to 30.

It was the eighth win for the Gentlemen against conference opponents this year without a defeat.

Led by Howard Hooper, sophomore guard, who scored 15 points, the Gents overcame a small field of their opponents after the first few minutes of play and were never threatened thereafter.

The Gentlemen still have to hurdle Louisiana State Normal in a pair of games to finish the season undefeated.

CATHOLIC HIGH TEAM TO FIGHT NEVILLE FRIDAY

The boxers of Neville high school, state champions, who have been outpointed before the withering attack of two powerful mitt teams in the last two weeks after taking four engagements straight, appear headed for another tough week-end when they clash with the Catholic high school scrappers of Baton Rouge here Friday night.

The Tigers have already bowed to one Baton Rouge team this year, the Baton Rouge high school squad, and the former state champion Catholic high Bears are reported even stronger.

Evidence of the Bears' strength lies in their victory over the Lutcher boxers, who beat Neville Friday night. A week ago last Friday the Catholic high scrappers defeated the Lutcher team 5 1-2 to 4 1-2. Lutcher's Bulldogs then walloped the locals 5 to 3.

The Bears have four boys on the team that will be hard to beat, according to reports, while several others will bear watching.

Heading the list of Catholic high scrappers, however, are Eddie Mansur, who lost to Neville's George Manteris in the battle for the state title in the 145-pound class last spring; Newton Kershaw, Jimmy Donnellon and Frank McDonald.

Some comparison of the boys whom Neville will meet can be shown in these statistics: Mansur beat Gordon Bourgeois of Lutcher, who won a close decision over Andrew Pappas here Friday. Kershaw, a 112-pounder, beat Johnny LeBlanc of Lutcher, who technically knocked out Ernest Pierce in the second round of a battle Friday. Donnellon, 118, held his own against Leon Rebaldo, state champion of Lutcher, and almost knocked him out in the last round but having lost the first two rounds, lost the decision. But Milo Mattinson, rising luminary, of the Tigers, beat Rebaldo and should be able to do likewise with Donnellon. McDonald beat Irving Rome of Lutcher, who beat Howard Earl of Neville.

Catholic high held the state championship last year and is out to get the title back from the Tigers. The Bears took the title from their namesakes, the Bears of Bolton high school, who were the first to hold the official title as state boxing champions.

LONG SEEKS GRID GAMES WITH TIDE

Alabama Governor Would Like To Give L. S. U. A Few Lessons

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Senator Huey Long challenged Governor Bibb Graves today to a series of football games between the University of Alabama and Louisiana State university, and got the reply "nothing would suit me better than for Alabama to give L. S. U. a few lessons."

The request for the series was made by the "kingfish" via telephone from Washington, and Governor Graves asked Dr. George H. Denny, Alabama president, to confer with Coach Frank Thomas and give him a definite answer within two weeks.

Despite the governor's enthusiasm for the game, football fans saw small chance of the series beginning this year because Alabama's schedule has been completed.

Dr. Denny, in the governor's office shortly after Long's call, would not commit himself on the proposed arrangement, but told the chief executive he would confer with Coach Thomas.

"Nothing would suit me better than for Alabama to give L. S. U. a few lessons in football," the governor told Long. "After we have taught them how to play maybe L. S. U. will be a worthy opponent for other colleges."

What Long's answer was to his comment, Governor Graves would not say.

The tide was undefeated last season, winning nine scheduled games, and then defeating Stanford on New Year's day in the tournament of roses by virtue of a dazzling second quarter attack that netted 22 points.

The Louisiana eleven approached the end of the season undefeated and tied twice, but was defeated twice in the closing contests, losing to Tulane and Tennessee on successive week ends.

Cardinals And Tigers Are Favorites In The Betting

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(AP)—The world champion St. Louis Cardinals, National league titleholders, and the Detroit Tigers, winners in the American league, today were quoted the favorites to repeat in their respective circuits by Jack Doyle, Broadway commissioner.

The Cardinals were quoted at 7 to 5 to win, 2-5 to finish second and 1-8 to wind up third. The Tigers were held at 8-5, 2-5 and 1-5 across the board.

In the National league the New York Giants, who were dethroned last year, were the second choice at 5 to 2 while the Yankees held the same position in the junior circuit at the same odds.

SUNFLOWER WINS FROM INDIANS TO EVEN CAGE SERIES

MOORHEAD, Miss., Feb. 9.—(Special)—Aided by some weird officiating, the Sunflower junior college quintet defeated Northeast Center of L. S. U., of Monroe, La., here tonight, 30 to 22. It gave the local club an even break in the two-game series played here, although the Louisiana team has a 3-1 margin in season's play beween the two quintets. The Indians won here Friday night by one point in an overtime game.

The officiating favored Sunflower all the way. They were exactly 20 personal fouls called against the Monroe team and with some of these carrying two shots, the local team got 28 free throws at the basket. They made good 10 of them. That, however, wasn't as costly as the decisions against Burt Trichel, stellar Monroe forward. Five times Trichel raced under the basket and sank crip shots and five times the referee said he was "running" and disallowed the baskets. At that, Trichel made five field goals and two free throws for 12 points.

The first half was a fairly even battle, with the lead changing several times. With Northeast Center ahead, the Sunflower forwards made two baskets from the middle of the court just before the rest period and their accuracy gave the locals a 14-12 advantage at the half.

The second half found Sunflower forging steadily ahead, with the Indians suffering heavily through fouls. Arnold, first string center, and May, regular guard, went out of the game via four personal fouls.

Duncan, outstanding Sunflower forward, won individual scoring honors with four field goals and five foul shots for 13 points. Trichel was a close second with 12.

GOGGIN GOES INTO LEAD AT CALIENTE

San Francisco Pro Posts 69, Two Under Par, To Pace Field

AGUA CALIENTE, Mex., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Willie Goggin, San Francisco, shot a 69, two under par, to climb in to the lead in the Agua Caliente golf sweepstakes today, with a 54-hole total of 215.

The rugged northern California pro's score was not tops for the round or the tournament to date, for Johnny Revolta, Milwaukee, paraded in through the mud with a 68, three under par, for 216, a stroke back, to tie for second place with Henry Picard, Hershey, Pa., and Ky Laffoon, Chicago.

Harry Cooper, Chicago, with Mortie Dutra, Detroit, and Wiffy Cox, Brooklyn, were tied for fifth at 217. Orville White, St. Louis, and Craig Wood, Deal, N. J., had totals of 218 for an eighth place tie.

Revolta's putter was working in top fashion as he toured the long 6,189-yard, sopping-wet course in 34-34. He was in trouble on only three holes and managed to get a par out of one of them and bogies on the other two as he picked up five birdies along the way to chalk up his fine card.

The sturdy Milwaukee youth dropped a 20-footer on the second for his first birdie, pushed a 12-footer in on the ninth for another, and had a 15-footer on the fifteenth for one of the three collected on the back side.

Goggin needed a par for a 68 on the last hole. His drive caught a trap to the left, however, and he failed to get any distance out of the saturated sand with his spoon. His third was on the green but his putt from the fathermost edge rimmed the cup and he took a bogie five for a 69.

Tech II, L. P. I. Mascot, Is Found Dead Saturday

RUSTON, La., Feb. 9.—(Special)—Tech II, Bullpup mascot of the Louisiana Tech athletic teams, was laid quietly to rest here this afternoon to await time for going on to the "happy hunting grounds."

The bull pup, which was presented to the athletic department several months ago by the senior class of 1935, was found dead this morning in his box from whith he came growling at daybreak each morning. The cause of his death is not known since he was very playful late last night before going into his house.

The first bulldog, the original Tech after which Tech II was named, was presented to the school by "Sonny" and "Cotton" Matthews, of Shreveport, La. P. I. students.

British Ace's Failure In Australia Gives U. S. Hope

By Jimmy Donahue

Crawford beats Perry! McGrath beats Perry! Quist beats Perry!

Those reports, coming from Australia, indicate that Fred Perry, world's No. 1 amateur tennis player, is learning the lesson that Ellsworth Vines absorbed during the winter of 1932-33. They also give hope to a patient America that the Davis cup might pull the prodigal son act this year.

It is plain, from his showing in the land down under, that Perry is overtennised. Two solid years of competitive volleying, with hardly time out for tea, have taken a lot from the bounding net-jumping Briton.

Vines and other American luminaries took a long trip shortly after the end of the 1932 season. The boys wound up in Australia, from where reports emanated that Vines, then hailed as one of the greatest players, had dropped tilt after tilt to Jack Crawford and lesser lights.

Echoes of that trip reverberated during the fiasco that occurred in the Davis cup competition of 1933. Vines collapsed in his match with Perry on the red clay of State Roland Garros in France, where America engaged England for the right to meet the tri-color in the challenge round.

With the exception of the victory of George Lott and Johnny Van Ryn in the doubles, the showing of the Yankee squad was rather pathetic.

It was pointed out that the players had overtrained after having been overworked. There was talk of dissension. Other excuses were advanced.

Experts were inclined to discredit most of the reasons for failure, but the flop of Perry in Australia tends to prove the statement of Vines, that the team had played too much tennis before the cup clashes, was correct.

"Nineteen months of tournament tennis is too much."

Perry has had more than that.

Starting with the winning of the U. S. singles title in '33, the English luminary toured Australia, took part in the French championships of 1934, won the Wimbledon singles last year, trained assiduously for the '34 Davis cup battles, repeated his victory in the U. S. singles, campaigned on the west coast, where he lost to Gene Mako—and then went back for more in Australia.

Nearly two years of heavy competition in a game that draws every ounce of energy from a player made him a comparatively easy mark for Crawford, who gave up U. S. singles play last season in favor of returning to his native land to rest.

Perry's apparent over-tennis condition leads not a few veteran observers to predict that the Davis cup is due to leave England this year. Most of them believe that Australia, with Crawford back in the shape that made him world No. 1 man in 1933, will annex the trophy. Australia also has Vivian McGrath and Adrian Quist.

Henri Cochet, former member of the French team, expresses the opinion that Crawford and McGrath will score a clean-cut victory for the Anzacs.

Cochet has been wrong before, however. Last year he predicted that the United States would bring the cup home.

It may be that the Frenchman's prediction of 1934 was intended for 1935. The American array, as full of life as a two-year-old now that the young blood of Frankie Parker, Mako, and Don Budge has been injected, may possibly be able to turn the tables if that awful bogy-man, Perry, isn't himself.

NEVILLE BANQUET WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Letters To Be Awarded Members Of 1934 Grid Team This Week

Neville high school's annual lettermen's banquet will be held Wednesday night and this year the public is invited to attend, Coach Percy Brown announced last night. The banquet will be held in the school cafeteria and the meal will be prepared by the home economics department, under the direction of Miss Sara Bres.

Letters will be awarded members of the 1934 football squad, Coach Brown said. A program which includes talks by several school officials and Tiger supporters will be presented.

Each letterman has been given two tickets to sell, Coach Brown said, and a large crowd is expected to attend the affair. Tickets are being sold at 35 cents each. Persons who wish to make reservations for the banquet may do so by calling Neville high school. All reservations must be in by 3:15 o'clock Monday afternoon.

The annual Neville banquet has attracted a large attendance in the past but with the public invited for the first time this year, an unusually large turnout is expected.

Coach Brown said last night that he would not announce the players to receive letters until the night of the banquet.

DIZZY PRAISES CARD OFFICIALS

Professor Dean Also Includes Himself Among Club's 'Greats'

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Feb. 9.—(AP)—"Professor" Dizzy Dean, arrived in Hot Springs late today, singing the praises of President Sam Breadon, Manager Frankie Frisch and the Cardinals in general, and proclaiming himself as "the Moses who hopes to lead young baseball hopefuls to better things than the bush leagues."

"The Diz" is here to assume his duties as a pitching tutor for a baseball school which will open its third annual term February 15. Other members of the pitching faculty will be Brother Paul and Lon Warneke, the latter of the Chicago Cubs.

With a squad of major leaguers turned golfers waiting for him to join them on the links, the Dizzy, for once was anxious to rid himself of interviewers.

Answering a barrage of questions, he emphatically denied that there was the slightest friction between himself and Breadon, and said the same applied to Frisch. He predicted that the Cardinals would win the National league pennant again this year, and said he saw no reason why he should not win 30 or more games. (He won 30 last year.)

Dean predicted Brother Paul, who preceded him here, would better his last year's record of 19 wins, and added that Paul, who has not yet signed his contract, would have no trouble in coming to terms with the St. Louis club.

Daffy, who lets Jerome do the talking when "The Diz" is around, had previously expresed a similar opinion regarding his salary differences with the Cardinals.

I am not worrying about the baseball season right now," said Dizzy impatiently. "What I am thinking about now is how I can teach these kids in the baseball school to pitch. I haven't forgotten how it was before I got into the big show, and what a tough climb it is to get somewhere in baseball. Me and Paul are going to put out everything we have to encourage these kids and get them started right."

New Bobsled Record Set By Former Yale Athlete

LAKE PLACID, N. Y., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Records for the ice-covered Mt. Vanhoevenberg run fell into the discard today for a second time within a week as Gilbert Colgate, Jr., of New York, former Yale university athlete, piloted his two-man bobsled into the lead in the competition to determine the United States bobsled representatives in the 1936 Olympics in Germany.

In the face of a blinding snowstorm, Colgate sent his sled down the mile and a half icy course to a new record of one minute and 55.94 seconds in the first heat and reeled off the second in one minute and 57.20 seconds, a two-heat total of three minutes and 53.14 seconds.

The first heat broke by four-hundredths of a second the course mark by J. Hubert and F. Paul Stevens of Lake Placid in winning the national A. A. U. title meet last week-end and bettered the 1932 Olympic mark by 1.74 seconds.

The remaining two heats of the two-man sleds will be run tomorrow, followed by the four-man races on Monday and Tuesday.

UBLE MAIN EVENT BOOKED FOR STADIUM SHOW

CKLES "THAT CARD'S RE MATCH

Kibbons Meets O'Dell In Other ut On Program

l-star card, with a "double ent," has been booked for the weekly wrestling show at elt stadium Wednesday night, er Charlie Bruscato announced ight. Each bout will go two if necessary, instead of the final having a one-hour time one of the features, Nick Elitch, rugged Greek, will get a real test ainst Frenchie LaRue, 210 pound kansan who is said to be one of e most colorful heavyweights in the siness. The other match features erett Kibbons, former collegiate avyweight champion, of Oklahoma, d Jack O'Dell, 220 pounder of Colado.

LaRue and O'Dell are newcomers to e stadium. Both have been highly commended to Bruscato, the prooter said, and he expects each to ck plenty of action in his work.

LaRue, called the "Man Mauler" beuse he socks like Jack Dempsey, is d to be one of the hardest hitters the game. Packing a load of dynaite in each fist, the Frenchman is st m an enough to use those dukes the best advantage. He is fast and rough customer, Bruscato said.

"I saw LaRue wrestle a couple of eeks ago," Bruscato said yesterday, nd he packs more color into the ring an any heavyweight I've seen in a ng time. He believes in giving a ough and tumble exhibition and I now the local fans will go for him in big way."

LaRue wrestled a two-hour draw ith Karl Davis in Houston last Friay night and newspaper reports said at it was one of the best matches aged there in a long time. The enchman is built along the lines of litch and the two are said to be well atched.

Elitch also wrestled a long draw last eek, holding Ernest Kelly on even rms for two hours at the stadium ednesday night. Their match was thriller, with plenty of scientific restling thrown in. Nick knows all e holds and he can show as much al wrestling as the next one when wants to. He also can use the ugh stuff to good advantage and ere's every indication that his bout ith LaRue will be a real slugging atch.

Kibbons has shown here twice beore. The former Oklahoma A. and grappling champion is a clean-cut ungster who knows plenty about restling. With a few years more exrience, his backers claim he will be logical contender for the heavyeight championship.

O'Dell, who hails from Colorado, as been going great in Texas mat rcles and he's moving east in search more laurels. Both he and Kibons weigh 220 pounds.

Babe Ruth Proves He's A Slugger In Any Game

Bambino Tries His Hand At Cricket And Breaks Bat Into Bits

By Gayle Talbot
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

LONDON, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Babe Ruth tried his hand at cricket today and then stirred up a controversy over the respective speed of baseball pitchers and cricket bowlers that is likely to keep the Bambino in hot water during the remainder of his first visit to London.

As the result of Ruth's dogmatic statement that it is "blame foolishness" to say a bowler with a stiff over-hand motion can toss the ball faster than a baseball pitcher, British sportsmen are going to try to make him eat his words.

They intend to induce Speed-baller Harold Larwood to come down from his Nottingham home and have him blaze a few fast ones at Ruth and then get the big American's reaction. Ruth indicated he favored a more scientific test with speed-recording instruments but he probably will be game enough to face Larwood's shots if he is cornered.

It all began when Ruth learned all about England's national game in an hour's lesson with Alan Fairfax, former Australian star, in a subterranean school beneath the Thames this morning. Ruth lathered the offerings of two fast bowlers and when the session was over his bat was splintered, so lustily did he swat the sphere.

"I wish I could have him for a fortnight," Fairfax said enthusiastically. "I could make one of the world's greatest batsmen out of him." Ruth beamed at Fairfax's praise, but upon learning that top salary for a cricket player is $40 a week said he'd rather be a club owner.

After the lesson Ruth examined the bat and then meditated a bit.

"I wish they'd let me use a bat as wide as this in baseball," he said. "I'd be good for at least five more years and top Colonel Ruppert's payroll.

Ruth wasn't a sensation when it came to bowling, however. For 15 minutes he blazed at Fairfax but never succeeded in knocking down his teacher's wicket.

"Anybody who thinks this Larwood fellow throws a faster ball than Walter Johnson used to throw past me can have my money," Ruth said. The Babe was also skeptical of cricketeers statements they can knock a ball over 600 feet on the fly.

Strong Teams Expected To Enter Meet At Louisiana College

PINEVILLE, La., Feb. 9.—(Special)—The fourteenth annual Louisiana high school basketball tournament for the high schools of central Louisiana will be held at Louisiana college, February 22 and 23. The tournament will include contests for boys and girls, with the three leading teams to represent central Louisiana at Baton Rouge in the state tournament.

The winning teams will receive silver loving cups, emblematic of the central Louisiana high school championships. The individual players will receive gold basketballs for first place, silver basketballs for second place and bronze for third. No fee will be required for basketball players. Teams will be divided into groups, boys and girls, and play will be held in Louisiana college gym and Bolton high school gym.

The tournament in the past has attracted a large number of excellent teams with winners ranking high each year in the state tournament at Baton Rouge. In boys division, LeCompte, Urania, Poland, Bolton and Manifest have shown the way to the other teams. In all probability, LeCompte, a team that has been consistently high in the tournament standing, rates well, while Urania also has a commanding position. In the final round-up many of the good teams are always developed for this meet. In girls division, Poland, Castor, Dry Prong and Sicily Island have reported strong teams. The winners last year in boys basketball were Poland, Methvine, LeCompte and West Lake in order mentioned. In girls basketball, Castor was first, Poland, second, Dry Prong, third, and Jonesville, fourth.

RUNYAN PICKS DUTRA TO WIN NATIONAL OPEN

Miami Pro Rates Five Players As Having Best Chance To Cop

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 9.—(Special)—If the little Arkansas bantam, Paul Runyan, national P. G. A. champion, is going to rate five players ahead of himself as best bets for the National Open championship this year at Oakmont Country club, Pittsburgh, Pa., then it's an odds-on wager that the title winner will emerge from his list of prognostications.

That is what he has done, nevertheless, and on top of his list of predictions he has set Olin Dutra, present National Open title-holder, and Gene Sarazen as co-favorites, because they are exponents of the forceful long game, and delicate putting.

Runyan, who has returned from Australia where he competed with the contingent of American stars in matches "Down Under," has taken up his duties here as head of the staff of professionals retained by Col. Henry L. Doherty for the Miami Biltmore Country club. The staff includes such nationally known players as Dutra, open golf king and winner of the $12,500 Miami Biltmore open, Louis Costello, Mike Brady and Ned Everhart.

One by one the ruddy faced little Arkansan has taken apart the games of five leading players and marked them down in his "winter book" as choices for the open. Though he makes co-favorites of Dutra and Sarazen, he leans slightly toward the California-born Castilian.

"Dutra likes fast greens," Runyan said, "and that's what we'll find at Oakmont. But it will take power, the kind that he has, a long, accurate game to win at Oakmont.

"Sarazen has a similar game. He likes the fast greens, too, and he is in a class by himself on those shots out of the bunkers.

"Behind these two I think Johnny Revolta, Harry (Lighthorse) Cooper and Harold (Jug) McSpaden stand almost together. You can depend on Cooper to be at his best in the open. He has a dependable game and is a great all-around shotmaker. McSpaden is coming on fast and has the ability to turn the trick. If it is going to take sticking power or stamina to win at Oakmont I'd say that Revolta is going to be a strong bet. Revolta has power, too. He has the biggest hands in the game and keeps a standard swing throughout a tournament.

"Revolta should play good golf in the open and if he has a 73 or thereabouts to make on the final round, you can bank on it that he'll win the tournament."

Southwestern Louisiana Five Noses Out Teachers

LAFAYETTE, La., Feb. 9.—(AP)—The Southwestern Louisiana institute Bulldog rogers scored a 27 to 26 victory over the Mississippi State Teachers quintet here tonight. The Bulldogs held a 20 to 8 lead at the half. Lindsay of S. L. I. with 10 points, was high scorer, while Stonestreet and Stribling of the Teachers each registered 8 points.

Tulsa Youths Capture Outboard Racing Honors

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Feb. 9.—(AP)—A couple of boys from Tulsa, Okla., stole the show the first day of the annual southeastern championship outboard motorboat regatta today, and one of them, H. H. Turk set up a new world record for class C motors.

Turk sent his 0-30 roaring around the Trout river course at 50.223 miles an hour to better the old world record of 49.45 held by C. M. Scull of Washington.

But in the class F race, feature of the opening program, Frank Vincent, also of Tulsa, nosed out Turk by less than a boat length to win each of the five mile heats. The first heat was at 49.234 miles an hour, the second 49.369.

S'EASTERN LOOP REORGANIZED AS 8-CLUB CIRCUIT

Seven Clubs Definitely Ready To Start, Eighth Thought Sure

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Reorganization of the Southeastern Baseball league into an eight-club circuit was described as "an apparent certainty" tonight by Roy Williams of Macon, who was elected president of the organization at a meeting here today.

"Seven clubs are definitely ready to go," said Williams, "and we have every belief that support for a Columbus, Ga., entrant will be forthcoming before we meet next week to clean up organization, adopt a constitution and schedule."

The seven clubs described as certain entrants in the class B loop are: Macon, Ga., Montgomery, Selma, Mobile, Gadsden and Anniston, Ala., and Pensacola, Fla.

Both Montgomery and Anniston were in doubt as today's meeting started, but as Z. C. Lewis, reported "Montgomery is sure to work out its difference with Branch Rickey (business manager of the St. Louis Cardinals) over the week-end or the first of next week—you can count on us."

Confirmation of Anniston's entrance was given by Maurice Bloch of Selma, league vice-president, who said interests there had wired him today.

Clubs, under a tentative agreement reached today, will carry six "class" players, six "non-class" and two "sinon pure" rookies. An official ball was adopted.

Williams was designated to act as secretary-treasurer in addition to president, and the former Southeastern president and Georgia druggist said the final organization meeting possibly would be held in Montgomery Thursday.

A schedule committee and a constitution revision group will be named soon to report to the next meeting, which will be the deadline for posting the $2,000 contract guarantee.

Some argument developed over a maximum salary. Bloch and John Morris of Macon arguing that the $1,600 tentatively agreed upon previously was too low. Milton Stock, Mobile president, suggested this could be worked out at the final meeting.

Stock made Mobile's entrance "tentative," stating he was "ready with the money and the club," but possibly would have to pull out unless Commissioner K. M. Landis changed his recent decision affecting the Cincinnati Reds, with whom Stock has a working agreement.

Other opposition was voiced to the Landis ruling and finally a resolution was passed in protest, asking the commissioner to amplify his ruling that major clubs could not hold strings to players and shift them from one farm to another without actually owning the clubs or players.

Major league and Southern association clubs have promised or have working agreements with the seven pledged entrants, and Joe Engle, president of the Chattanooga club, was asked to seek aid for Columbus.

Earl Mann, representing Atlanta, said the Crackers and Macon had reached a "working agreement" basis, but denied Atlanta actually would finance the Macon entry.

Other "supporters" of the league include Nashville working with Anniston; Birmingham working with Gadsden; Chattanooga with Selma; Cincinnati with Mobile; Louisville (AA) with Pensacola, and possibly St. Louis with Montgomery.

Weston And Quitman Win Cage Tourney At Ruston

RUSTON, La., Feb. 9.—(Special)—In a special tournament held here this afternoon, Weston and Quitman high schools were selected to represent Jackson parish in the basketball tournament to be held here February 22 and 23 as a part of the annual north Louisiana high school rally sponsored by Louisiana Tech each year.

In the first game, Quitman, after trailing the entire first half, pulled out a three-point victory of 25 to 22 over Beech Springs in the closing minutes of play. In the second contest, Chatham nosed out Ansley, 27 to 24 in an extra period battle.

In the finals, Quitman drew a bye, automatically becoming eligible to enter the rally playoff; Weston downed Chatham, 34 to 32, to win a place in the tournament. Beech Springs won third place on a forfeit from Chatham.

Outstanding performers of the tournament were: Swanner, Beech Springs; H. Woods, Ansley; Anderson, Chatham; Straint; Weston; Bryant, Quitman.

Spitz Advances To Tie In Amateur Billiards

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Edward Spitz, 52-year-old Boston contender, easily defeated Arthur Horwitz of Minneapolis 50 to 35 in 84 innings to go into a three-way tie for the lead in the national amateur three cushion billiard tournament tonight.

It was Spitz's fourth victory in five matches, putting him on even terms with Edward Lee of New York, the defending champion, and Gene Deardorff of St. Louis.

Deardoff, rated as one of the favorites, won his fourth match this afternoon, turning back Albert Primeau of Detroit 50-42 in 97 innings. John Davenport of Philadelphia won the other afternoon contest, beating Leon Radler of New York, 50-26 in 57 innings.

Davenport evened his score with three victories and three defeats while Horwitz and Radler dropped to the bottom, each with one match won and five lost.

Al Milnar

MILNAR MAY BE ANSWER TO INDIANS' PRAYER FOR SOUTHPAW

Milnar, a southpaw on the mound and at the plate, was farmed out to New Orleans last season. He won 22 and lost 13 games, fanning 130 of the Southern association's sluggers.

The 22-year-old rookie is a big fellow, standing 6 feet 2 inches, and weighing 195.

The Indians long have needed a southpaw. Last season they labored along with Lloyd Brown and Bob Weiland, both veterans acquired in trades, and in 1933 finished the season without a single portside flinger.

Bulldogs Stage Late Scoring Spree To Win From Millsaps, 42-37

RUSTON, La., Feb. 9.—(Special)—Fighting a courageous uphill battle the Louisiana Tech cagers won their ninth association victory tonight when they defeated the Millsaps college Majors, 42 to 37, in a thrilling contest.

Millsaps took an early lead and it seemed that the Jackson quintet was about to snap the Bulldogs' winning streak. Midway in the second half, however, Coach Eddie McLane shifted his lineup, sending Brooks to forward and Lowrey to center, and from then on, the Techmen started to click like a well-oiled machine.

Millsaps held a 20-15 advantage at the rest period, but with eight minutes to go in the second half, Waters shot a field goal that gave Tech its first lead, 32-31. The Bulldogs continued their accurate shooting and finally pulled away from their rival.

Waters and McDonnell, Millsaps forward were tied for high point honors with 12 points each. Brooks was a close second with 11. Waters, Brooks and Lowrey were the outstanding players for the Bulldogs. McDonnell played great ball for Millsaps, many of his shots coming from a difficult angle. Baxter also was outstanding for the visitors.

In a preliminary game, the Tech freshman squad swamped Coushatta high school 62 to 42. Wood made 21 points for the Bullpups and Smith tallied 18. Webb led the Coushatta attack, making 12 points.

Irish Lady Hockeyists Refuse Red Stockings

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Red stockings on the legs of Irish ladies?

"Never!" cried the fair members of the Ulster ladies' hockey eleven. "Green for Ireland, yes. But the red of England—no!"

They tried to compromise on black, another club already having green. But red is the register color of the Ulster ladies, and after being warned two months ago that they must stick to it, now they have been indefinitely suspended by the hockey union.

TRACK ACES FAIL TO BREAK RECORD IN BOSTON GAMES

Hornbostel, Venzke Have Little Opposition In Their Races

BOSTON, Feb. 9.—The illness of Elton Brown of Kansas City, probably prevented Indiana's great Charlie Hornbostel from breaking his second world's record in as many weeks in the Boston A. A. games' 1,000-yard run tonight at the Boston Garden. With no one capable of pushing him, Hornbostel broke the tape in 2:14 1-5, two and a fifth seconds behind the mark set by Hal "Flying Parson" Cutbill 13 years ago.

The mid-western speedster, who pulled away from his field with a mighty spurt at the halfway mark, led Glen Dawson of Tulsa, Okla., by 15 yards when he finished. At no time did he punish himself. Dawson had a yard on the third-place winner, Waldo Sweet of the New York A. C.

Brown was stricken with grippe and was unable to leave New York. Hornbostel's 2:14 1-5 was the best time ever made in the B. A. A. event which dates back 46 years.

Gene Venzke's victory in the silver anniversary Hunter mile was an even greater disappointment to the expectant crowd of 10,000. The Pennsylvania undergraduate dominated this classic from start to finish and, because he set his own pace, broke the tape in 4:17 3-5, slow when compared to the amazing performances of the absent Glenn Cunningham.

Venzke led from start to finish but, for 11 of the 12 laps had Eric Ny of Sweden at his heels.

The victor cut loose with the bell and beat Ny to the tape by 20 yards. Brendon Moynahan of the B. A. A., the third man, was a half-lap behind and the laboring Frank Crowley of the New York A. C. was fourth.

Joe McCluskey of the New York A. C. turned back two thrilling challenges by Johnny Follows, his teammate and last year's winner, to register a 20-yard victory in 9:14 1-5 in the Williams two-mile run.

Ivan Fuqua, of Indiana, won an easy two-yard victory over Timmy Ring of Holy Cross, by reeling off the 600 in 1:14 4-5, leading from start to finish. Harry Hoffman of the N. Y. curb exchange came up fast on the last lap to nose Doug Raymond, Boston university, out of the show position.

Keith Brown, Yale's indoor record-holder, gained the pole-vault victory by soaring 13 feet, 9 inches. The high jump was a keen duel between Cortes Johnson, the Californian negro, and George Spitz of New York. Johnson won by clearing 6 feet, 6 1-4, an inch higher than the New Yorker.

Milton Green, Harvard's premier hurdler, captured the 45-yard lumber event from Ray McLaughlin of the B. A. A., who equalled the world record of 5 4-5 seconds in his trial, and the fleetest in the Briggs' 50-yard dash field was Normen Woolford of Abington, Mass.

Holy Cross and Northeastern shared the mile relay honors, the Purple defeating the Boston college four in 3:27 2-5 and the Wildcats turned in that same time in their dual engagement with New York university. The Harvard four defeated Yale and Cornell won a three-team affair from Princeton and M. I. T. in the second fastest time, 3:31 2-5.

U. S. L. T. A. OKEHS EIGHT-WEEK RULE

Tennis Association Approves Regulation Of Barnstormers

CINCINNATI, Feb. 9.—(AP)—The United States Lawn Tennis association today ratified allegiance to the controversial eight-week rule, and adopted a means by which the rule may be waived.

It accepted the rule, promulgated by the International Tennis Federation, as its executive committee urged.

The rule says amateur players may not accept expenses for more than eight weeks in any one year, including time spent traveling from one tournament to another. The "clarifying rider" exempts participants in national and sectional tournaments if they are certified by their sectional associations as "official representatives" of such sections. In such cases traveling time does not count.

The association decided to put on a "Wimbledon" basis the national singles for both men and women. Both tournaments were awarded to the West Side Tennis club of Forest Hills, Long Island, for the period August 29 to September 6.

It will be the first time the events have been held together.

It backed its president, W. Merrill Hall of New York, in rejecting a suggestion of Czechoslovakia that amateurs be permitted to accept money for appearing in tennis action-films. Great Britain had supported the proposal. Hall turned the suggestion down, declaring it an "encroachment upon the amateur spirit, which "would only be the first of a series" of similar demands.

It awarded the intercollegiate championships to Northwestern university for June 24-29; the national clay courts to Chicago, June 17-22; the public parks championships to New Orleans, August 19-24; the men and women's doubles championships to the Longwood Tennis club, Boston, August 17-19; the junior and boys' singles and doubles to Culver, Ind., August 12-17; and the girls' championships to the Merion C. C., Philadelphia, opening September 2.

Head Play, An Outsider, Wins San Antonio Stake

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Head Play, a long shot, recorded a sensational upset victory today to win the $7,500 added San Antonio handicap over a mile and one eighth in 1:52.2. Fleam, another long shot, was second, and Azucar, the favorite, placed third.

The winner, owned by Mrs. Silas B. Mason, paid $35.20, $15.40 and $6.40. Fleam paid $9.80 and $4.20 and Azucar was good for $3.20.

Gallant Sir, another favorite, finished fourth.

SOUTHERN LOOP TO MEET TODAY

Little Of Importance Is Slated At Conference At New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Directors of the Southern League Baseball association, assembling here Monday for their annual meeting, are expected to have a comparatively quiet session, with little more than routine matters carded for consideration.

Adoption of the 1935 playing schedule will likely be the most important item of business, the directors having already disposed of the controversial question of a split season by voting against the divided schedule.

Two tentative schedules have already been submitted to the league directors for study, and it is not expected that the adoption and formal approval of playing dates will provoke debate.

Larry Gilbert, manager and director of the New Orleans club, said today that "it has already been pretty well agreed that the playing season will begin April 16 and end about the middle of September."

Gilbert said he knew of no other topics to come up for discussion at the meeting tomorrow, "except routine stuff." Managers of the various clubs have already been selected, Gilbert said, adding that as far as he knew, all the clubs were ready to go to the post.

Asked if he anticipated any player trades, Gilbert said "there might be a few," but knew of no specific instances.

"The question of the split season has already been settled, the league directors have voted to play 154 consecutive games."

All the clubs, New Orleans, Atlanta, Chattanooga, Memphis, Little Rock, Knoxville, Nashville and Birmingham, will be represented, Gilbert said, with the league president, John D. Martin of Memphis, presiding.

The meeting is not expected to be in session beyond Monday night.

Approximately 20 per cent of all school children under the age of 20 have defective sight.

44 PLAYERS ARE WORKING OUT ON TECH GRID SQUAD

McLane And Davis To Start Heavy Football Work This Week

RUSTON, La., Feb. 9.—(Special)—Spring football training is gradually becoming a daily routine for 44 Louisiana Tech men who have answered the call of Coaches Eddie McLane and Ray E. Davis for grid material.

Four complete teams reported to the Tech mentors a couple of weeks ago for limbering up exercises and light drills preceeding the heavy work scheduled to start here next week. The Bulldogs have been handicapped in their training the past week by sickness and injuries; however real work is on the slate for the remainder of the six week period set aside for spring training.

Although the 1935 edition of the Tech grid team will be composed mostly of sophomores, the Bulldogs are looking forward to their nine-game schedule with enthusiasm. Eight of the nine contests are against S. I. A. A. foes. No less than 28 of the 44 players who reported for spring practice are grads of the 1934 Bullpup squad.

Madison Brooks of Rinehart, who will captain the Tech gridders next fall, is out for basketball and will not be able to report until the cage schedule ends the first of March. Other cagers who will probably enter training with Captain Brooks are Cotton, Mitchell and Thigpen.

In addition to the large group of sophomores, the L. P. I. mentors will have a dozen lettermen on their grid squad. "T" men that will be eligible for football next fall are Brooks, Beckett, Cotton, Deas, Dunnaway, Johnston, Johnson, Mitchell, Phillips, Ruple, Thigpen and Turner. "Muddy" Waters, Tioga; "Ike" Lowery, Winnfield; and Henry Poulan of Monroe are the losses from the 1934 team by graduation.

Coach McLane told his gridders before spring training started that their work on the football field the coming six weeks would make than likely decide whether or not they remained on the team next fall. McLane stated that he intended to give his boys plenty of scrimmage during the spring practice so that they would not have to work so hard when the regular season comes around.

Those who reported for practice are: Adkins, Beaumont, Beckett, Boland, Causey, Chronister, Carroll, Deas, Dunnaway, Darling, Dukes, Funderburk, Giddens, Gardner, Hollis, Hinton, Hilburn, Hill, Hasha, Hoover, Hanna, Hewitt, Hinkie, Johnston, Johnson, Kidd, Lewis, Mize, Milam, Massey, Neal, Phillips, Ruple, Reagan, Roach, Stamps, Sawyer, Turner, Wells, Wyss, Wood, Woodard, and Wiley.

By Gayle Talbot
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

LONDON, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Babe Ruth tried his hand at cricket today and then stirred up a controversy over the respective speed of baseball pitchers and cricket bowlers that is likely to keep the Bambino in hot water during the remainder of his first visit to London.

As the result of Ruth's dogmatic statement that it is "blame foolishness" to say a bowler with a stiff over-hand motion can toss the ball faster than a baseball pitcher, British sportsmen are going to try to make him eat his words.

They intend to induce Speed-baller Harold Larwood to come down from his Nottingham home and have him blaze a few fast ones at Ruth and then get the big American's reaction. Ruth indicated he favored a more scientific test with speed-recording instruments but he probably will be game enough to face Larwood's shots if he is cornered.

It all began when Ruth learned all about England's national game in an hour's lesson with Alan Fairfax, former Australian star, in a subterranean school beneath the Thames this morning. Ruth lathered the offerings of two fast bowlers and when the session was over his bat was splintered, so lustitly did he swat the sphere.

"I wish I could have him for a fortnight," Fairfax said enthusiastically. "I could make one of the world's greatest batsmen out of him." Ruth beamed at Fairfax's praise, but upon learning that top salary for a cricket player is $40 a week said he'd rather be a club owner.

After the lesson Ruth examined the bat and then meditated a bit.

"I wish they'd let me use a bat as wide as this in baseball," he said. "I'd be good for at least five more years and top Colonel Ruppert's payroll.

Ruth wasn't a sensation when it came to bowling, however. For 15 minutes he blazed at Fairfax but never succeeded in knocking down his teacher's wicket.

"Anybody who thinks this Larwood fellow throws a faster ball than Walter Johnson used to throw past me can have my money," Ruth said. The Babe was also skeptical of cricketeers statements they can knock a ball over 600 feet on the fly.

Strong Teams Expected To Enter Meet At Louisiana College

PINEVILLE, La., Feb. 9.—(Special.)—The fourteenth annual Louisiana high school basketball tournament for the high schools of central Louisiana will be held at Louisiana college, February 22 and 23. The tournament will include contests for boys and girls, with the three leading teams to represent central Louisiana at Baton Rouge in the state tournament.

The winning teams will receive silver loving cups, emblematic of the central Louisiana high school championships. The individual players will receive gold basketballs for first place, silver basketballs for second place and bronze for third. No fee will be required for basketball players. Teams will be divided into groups, boys and girls, and play will be held in Louisiana college gym and Bolton high school gym.

The tournament in the past has attracted a large number of excellent teams with winners ranking high each year in the state tournament at Baton Rouge. In boys division, LeCompte, Urania, Poland, Bolton and Manifest have shown the way to the other teams. In all probability, LeCompte, a team that has been consistently high in the tournament standing, rates well, while Urania also has a commanding position. In the final round-up many of the good teams are always developed for this meet. In girls division, Poland, Castor, Dry Prong and Sicily Island have reported strong teams. The winners last year in boys basketball were Poland, Methvine, LeCompte and West Lake in order mentioned. In girls basketball, Castor was first, Poland, second, Dry Prong, third, and Jonesville, fourth.

RUNYAN PICKS DUTRA TO WIN NATIONAL OPEN

Miami Pro Rates Five Players As Having Best Chance To Cop

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 9.—(Special)—If the little Arkansas bantam, Paul Runyan, national P. G. A. champion, is going to rate five players ahead of himself as best bets for the National Open championship this year at Oakmont Country club, Pittsburgh, Pa., then it's an odds-on wager that the title winner will emerge from his list of prognostications.

That is what he has done, nevertheless, and on top of his list of predictions he has set Olin Dutra, present National Open title-holder, and Gene Sarazen as co-favorites, because they are exponents of the forceful long game, and delicate putting.

Runyan, who has returned from Australia where he competed with the contingent of American stars in matches "Down Under," has taken up his duties here as head of the staff of professionals retained by Col. Henry L. Doherty for the Miami Biltmore Country club. The staff includes such nationally known players as Dutra, open golf king and winner of the $12,500 Miami Biltmore open, Louis Costello, Mike Brady and Ned Everhart.

One by one the ruddy faced little Arkansan has taken apart the games of five leading players and marked them down in his "winter book" as choices for the open. Though he makes co-favorites of Dutra and Sarazen, he leans slightly toward the California-born Castilian.

"Dutra likes fast greens," Runyan said, "and that's what we'll find at Oakmont. But it will take power, the kind that he has, a long, accurate game to win at Oakmont.

"Sarazen has a similar game. He likes the fast greens, too, and he is in a class by himself on those shots out of the bunkers.

"Behind these two I think Johnny Revolta, Harry (Lighthorse) Cooper and Harold (Jug) McSpaden stand almost together. You can depend on Cooper to be at his best in the open. He has a dependable game and is a great all-around shotmaker. McSpaden is coming on fast and has the ability to turn the trick. If it is going to take sticking power or stamina to win at Oakmont I'd say that Revolta is going to be a strong bet. Revolta has power, too. He has the biggest hands in the game and keeps a standard swing throughout a tournament.

"Revolta should play good golf in the open and if he has a 73 or thereabouts to make on the final round, you can bank on it that he'll win the tournament."

Southwestern Louisiana Five Noses Out Teachers

LAFAYETTE, La., Feb. 9.—(AP)—The Southwestern Louisiana institute Bulldog cagers scored a 27 to 26 victory over the Mississippi State Teachers quintet here tonight. The Bulldogs held a 20 to 8 lead at the half. Lindsay of S. L. I., with 10 points, was high scorer, while Stonestreet and Stribling of the Teachers each registered 8 points.

Tulsa Youths Capture Outboard Racing Honors

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Feb. 9.—(AP)—A couple of boys from Tulsa, Okla., stole the show the first day of the annual southeastern championship outboard motorboat regatta today, and one of them, H. H. Turk set up a new world record for class C motors.

Turk sent his 0-30 roaring around the Trout river course at 50.223 miles an hour to better the old world record of 49.45 held by C. M. Scull of Washington.

But in the class F race, feature of the opening program, Frank Vincent, also of Tulsa, nosed out Turk by less than a boat length to win each of the five mile heats. The first heat was at 49.234 miles an hour, the second 49.369.

S'EASTERN LOOP REORGANIZED AS 8-CLUB CIRCUIT

Seven Clubs Definitely Ready To Start, Eighth Thought Sure

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Reorganization of the Southeastern Baseball league into an eight-club circuit was described as "an apparent certainty" tonight by Roy Williams of Macon, who was elected president of the organization at a meeting here today.

"Seven clubs are definitely ready to go," said Williams, "and we have every belief that support for a Columbus, Ga., entrant will be forthcoming before we meet next week to clean up organization, adopt a constitution and schedule."

The seven clubs described as certain entrants in the class B loop are: Macon, Ga., Montgomery, Selma, Mobile, Gadsden and Anniston, Ala., and Pensacola, Fla.

Both Montgomery and Anniston were in doubt as today's meeting started, but as Z. C. Lewis, reported "Montgomery is sure to work out its difference with Branch Rickey (business manager of the St. Louis Cardinals) over the week-end or the first of next week—you can count on us."

Confirmation of Anniston's entrance was given by Maurice Bloch of Selma, league vice-president, who said interests there had wired him today.

Clubs, under a tentative agreement reached today, will carry six "class" players, six "non-class" and two "simon pure" rookies. An official ball was adopted.

Williams was designated to act as secretary-treasurer in addition to president, and the former Southeastern president and Georgia druggist said the final organization meeting possibly would be held in Montgomery Thursday.

A schedule committee and a constitution revision group will be named soon to report to the next meeting, which will be the deadline for posting the $2,000 contract guarantee.

Some argument developed over a maximum salary, Bloch and John Morris of Macon arguing that the $1,600 tentatively agreed upon previously was too low. Milton Stock, Mobile president, suggested this could be worked out at the final meeting.

Stock made Mobile's entrance "tentative," stating he was "ready with the money and the club," but possibly would have to pull out unless Commissioner K. M. Landis changed his recent decision affecting the Cincinnati Reds, with whom Stock has a working agreement.

Other opposition was voiced to the Landis ruling and finally a resolution was passed in protest, asking the commissioner to amplify his ruling that major clubs could not hold strings to players and shift them from one farm to another without actually owning the clubs or players.

Major league and Southern association clubs have promised or have working agreements with the seven pledged entrants, and Joe Engle, president of the Chattanooga club, was asked to seek aid for Columbus.

Earl Mann, representing Atlanta, said the Crackers and Macon had reached a "working agreement" basis, but denied Atlanta actually would finance the Macon entry.

Other "supporters" of the league include Nashville working with Anniston; Birmingham working with Gadsden; Chattanooga with Selma; Cincinnati with Mobile; Louisville (AA) with Pensacola, and possibly St. Louis with Montgomery.

Weston And Quitman Win Cage Tourney At Ruston

RUSTON, La., Feb. 9.—(Special)—In a special tournament held here this afternoon, Weston and Quitman high schools were selected to represent Jackson parish in the basketball tournament to be held here February 22 and 23 as a part of the annual north Louisiana high school rally, sponsored by Louisiana Tech each year.

In the first game, Quitman, after trailing the entire first half, pulled out a three-point victory of 25 to 22 over Beech Springs in the closing minutes of play. In the second contest, Chatham nosed out Ansley, 27 to 24, in an extra period battle.

In the finals, Quitman drew a bye, automatically becoming eligible to enter the rally playoff; Weston downed Chatham, 34 to 32, to win a place in the tournament. Beech Springs won third place on a forfeit from Chatham.

Outstanding performers of the tournament were: Swanner, Beech Springs; H. Woods, Ansley; Anderson, Chatham; Straint; Weston; Bryant, Quitman.

Spitz Advances To Tie In Amateur Billiards

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Edward Spitz, 52-year-old Boston contender, easily defeated Arthur Horwitz of Minneapolis 50 to 35 in 84 innings to go into a three-way tie for the lead in the national amateur three cushion billiard tournament tonight.

It was Spitz's fourth victory in five matches, putting him on even terms with Edward Lee of New York, the defending champion, and Gene Deardorff of St. Louis.

Deardoff, rated as one of the favorites, won his fourth match this afternoon, turning back Albert Primeau of Detroit 50-42 in 97 innings. John Davenport of Philadelphia won the other afternoon contest, beating Leon Radler of New York, 50-26 in 57 innings.

Davenport evened his score with three victories and three defeats while Horwitz and Radler dropped to the bottom, each with one match won and five lost.

ROOKIE ROUNDUP

Al Milnar

MILNAR MAY BE ANSWER TO INDIANS' PRAYER FOR SOUTHPAW

Milnar, a southpaw on the mound and at the plate, was farmed out to New Orleans last season. He won 22 and lost 13 games, fanning 130 of the Southern association's sluggers.

The 22-year-old rookie is a big fellow, standing 6 feet 2 inches, and weighing 195.

The Indians long have needed a southpaw. Last season they labored along with Lloyd Brown and Bob Weiland, both veterans acquired in trades, and in 1933 finished the season without a single portside flinger.

Bulldogs Stage Late Scoring Spree To Win From Millsaps, 42-37

RUSTON, La., Feb. 9.—(Special)—Fighting a courageous uphill battle, the Louisiana Tech cagers won their ninth association victory tonight when they defeated the Millsaps college Majors, 42 to 37, in a thrilling contest.

Millsaps took an early lead and it seemed that the Jackson quintet was about to snap the Bulldogs' winning streak. Midway in the second half, however, Coach Eddie McLane shifted his lineup, sending Brooks to forward and Lowrey to center, and from then on, the Techmen started to click like a well-oiled machine.

Millsaps held a 20-15 advantage at the rest period, but with eight minutes to go in the second half, Waters shot a field goal that gave Tech its first lead, 32-31. The Bulldogs continued their accurate shooting and finally pulled away from their rivals.

Waters and McDonnell, Millsaps forward, were tied for high point honors with 12 points each. Brooks was a close second with 11. Waters, Brooks and Lowrey were the outstanding players for the Bulldogs. McDonnell played great ball for Millsaps, many of his shots coming from a difficult angle. Baxter also was outstanding for the visitors.

In a preliminary game, the Tech freshman squad swamped Coushatta high school, 62 to 48. Wood made 21 points for the Bullpups and Smith tallied 18. Webb led the Coushatta attack, making 12 points.

Irish Lady Hockeyists Refuse Red Stockings

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Red stockings on the legs of Irish ladies?

"Never!" cried the fair members of the Ulster ladies' hockey eleven. "Green for Ireland, yes. But the red of England—no!"

They tried to compromise on black, another club already having green. But red is the register color of the Ulster ladies, and after being warned two months ago that they must stick to it, now they have been indefinitely suspended by the hockey union.

Great Britain holds 1,450 tons of fine gold and ranks third among nations of the world in this respect. Spain ranks fourth with 655 tons, Belgium fifth with 555 tons, and Italy sixth with 500 tons.

BOSTON, Feb. 9.—The illness of Elton Brown of Kansas City, probably prevented Indiana's great Charlie Hornbostel from breaking his second world's record in as many weeks in the Boston A. A. games' 1,000-yard run tonight at the Boston Garden. With no one capable of pushing him, Hornbostel broke the tape in 2:14 1-5, two and a fifth seconds behind the mark set by Hal "Flying Parson" Cutbill 13 years ago.

The mid-western speedster, who pulled away from his field with a mighty spurt at the halfway mark, led Glen Dawson of Tulsa, Okla., by 15 yards when he finished. At no time did he punish himself. Dawson had a yard on the third-place winner, Waldo Sweet of the New York A. C.

Brown was stricken with grippe and was unable to leave New York. Hornbostel's 2:14 1-5 was the best time ever made in the B. A. A. event which dates back 46 years.

Gene Venzke's victory in the silver anniversary Hunter mile was an even greater disappointment to the expectant crowd of 10,000. The Pennsylvania undergraduate dominated this classic from start to finish and, because he set his own pace, broke the tape in 4:17 3-5, slow when compared to the amazing performances of the absent Glenn Cunningham.

Venzke led from start to finish but, for 11 of the 12 laps had Eric Ny of Sweden at his heels.

The victor cut loose with the bell and beat Ny to the tape by 20 yards. Brendon Moynahan of the B. A. A., the third man, was a half-lap behind, and the laboring Frank Crowley of the New York A. C. was fourth.

Joe McCluskey of the New York A. C., turned back two thrilling challenges by Johnny Follows, his teammate and last year's winner, to register a 20-yard victory in 9:14 1-5 in the Williams two-mile run.

Ivan Fuqua, of Indiana, won an easy two-yard victory over Timmy Ring of Holy Cross, by reeling off the "600" in 1:14 4-5, leading from start to finish. Harry Hoffman of the N. Y. curb exchange came up fast on the last lap to nose Doug Raymond, Boston university, out of the show position.

Keith Brown, Yale's indoor record-holder, gained the pole-vault victory by soaring 13 feet, 9 inches. The high jump was a keen duel between Conny Johnson, the Californian negro, and George Spitz of New York. Johnson won by clearing 6 feet, 6 1-4, an inch higher than the New Yorker.

Milton Green, Harvard's premier hurdler, captured the 45-yard timber event from Ray McLaughlin of the B. A. A., who equalled the world record of 5 4-5 seconds in his trial, and the fleetest in the Briggs' 50-yard dash field was Norman Woolford of Abington, Mass.

Holy Cross and Northeastern shared the mile relay honors, the Purple defeating the Boston college four in 3:27 2-5 and the Wildcats turned in that same time in their dual engagement with New York university. The Harvard four defeataed Yale and Cornell won a three-team affair from Princeton and M. I. T. in the second fastest time, 3:31 2-5.

U. S. L. T. A. OKEHS EIGHT-WEEK RULE

Tennis Association Approves Regulation Of Barnstorners

CINCINNATI, Feb. 9.—(AP)—The United States Lawn Tennis association today ratified allegiance to the controversial eight-week rule, and adopted a means by which the rule may be waived.

It accepted the rule, promulgated by the International Tennis Federation, as its executive committee urged.

The rule says amateur players may not accept expenses for more than eight weeks in any one year, including time spent traveling from one tournament to another. The "clarifying rider" exempts participants in national and sectional tournaments if they are certified by their sectional associations as "official representatives" of such sections. In such cases traveling time does not count.

The association decided to put on a "Wimbledon" basis the national singles for both men and women. Both tournaments were awarded to the West Side Tennis club of Forest Hills, Long Island, for the period August 29 to September 6.

It will be the first time the events have been held together.

It backed its president, W. Merrill Hall of New York, in rejecting a suggestion of Czechoslovakia that amateurs be permitted to accept money for appearing in tennis action-films. Great Britain had supported the proposal. Hall turned the suggestion down, declaring it an "encroachment upon the amateur spirit," which "would only be the first of a series" of similar demands.

It awarded the intercollegiate championships to Northwestern university for June 24-29; the national clay courts to Chicago, June 17-22; the public parks championships to New Orleans, August 19-24; the men and women's doubles championships to the Longwood Tennis club, Boston, August 17-19; the junior and boys' singles and doubles to Culver, Ind., August 12-17; and the girls' championships to the Merion C. C., Philadelphia, opening September 2.

Head Play, An Outsider, Wins San Antonio Stake

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Head Play, a long shot, recorded a sensational upset victory today to win the $7,500 added San Antonio handicap over a mile and one eighth in 1:52.2. Fleam, another long shot, was second, and Azucar, the favorite, placed third.

The winner, owned by Mrs. Silas B. Mason, paid $25.20, $15.40 and $6.40. Fleam paid $9.80 and $4.20 and Azucar was good for $3.20.

Gallant Sir, another favorite, finished fourth.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Directors of the Southern League Baseball association, assembling here Monday for their annual meeting, are expected to have a comparatively quiet session, with little more than routine matters carded for consideration.

Adoption of the 1935 playing schedule will likely be the most important item of business, the directors having already disposed of the controversial question of a split season by voting against the divided schedule.

Two tentative schedules have already been submitted to the league directors for study, and it is not expected that the adoption and formal approval of playing dates will provoke debate.

Larry Gilbert, manager and director of the New Orleans club, said today that "it has already been pretty well agreed that the playing season will begin April 16, and end about the middle of September."

Gilbert said he knew of no other topics to come up for discussion at the meeting tomorrow, "except routine stuff." Managers of the various clubs have already been selected, Gilbert said, adding that in-so-far as he knew, all the clubs were ready to go to the post.

Asked if he anticipated any player trades, Gilbert said "there might be a few," but knew of no specific instances.

"The question of the split season has already been settled; the league directors have voted to play 154 consecutive games."

All the clubs, New Orleans, Atlanta, Chattanooga, Memphis, Little Rock, Knoxville, Nashville and Birmingham, will be represented, Gilbert said, with the league president, John D. Martin of Memphis, presiding.

The meeting is not expected to be in session beyond Monday night.

Approximately 20 per cent of all school children under the age of 20 have defective sight.

44 PLAYERS ARE WORKING OUT ON TECH GRID SQUAD

McLane And Davis To Start Heavy Football Work This Week

Four complete teams reported to the Tech mentors a couple of weeks ago for limbering up exercises and light drills preceeding the heavy work scheduled to start here next week. The Bulldogs have been handicapped in their training the past week by sickness and injuries; however real work is on the slate for the remainder of the six week period set aside for spring training.

Although the 1935 edition of the Tech grid team will be composed mostly of sophomores, the Bulldogs are looking forward to their nine-game schedule with enthusiasm. Eight of the nine contests are against S. I. A. A. foes. No less than 28 of the 44 players who reported for spring practice are grads of the 1934 Bullpup squad.

Madison Brooks of Rinehart, who will captain the Tech gridders next fall, is out for basketball and will not be able to report until the cage schedule ends the first of March. Other cagers who will probably enter training with Captain Brooks are Cotton, Mitchell and Thigpen.

In addition to the large group of sophomores, the L. P. I. mentors will have a dozen lettermen on their grid squad. "T" men that will be eligible for football next fall are Brooks, Beckett, Cotton, Deas, Dunnaway, Johnston, Johnson, Mitchell, Phillips, Ruple, Thigpen and Turner. "Muddy" Waters, Tioga; "Ike" Lowery, Winnfield; and Henry Poulan of Monroe are the losses from the 1934 team by graduation.

Coach McLane told his gridders before spring training started that their work on the football field the coming six weeks would more than likely decide whether or not they remained on the team next fall. McLane stated that he intended to give his boys plenty of scrimmage during the spring practice so that they would not have to work so hard when the regular season comes around.

Those who reported for practice are: Adkins, Beaumont, Beckett, Boland, Causey, Chronister, Carroll, Deas, Dunnaway, Darling, Dukes, Funderburk, Giddens, Gardner, Hollis, Hinton, Hilburn, Hill, Hasha, Hoover, Hanna, Hewitt, Hinkie, Johnston, Johnson, Kidd, Lewis, Mize, Milam, Massey, Neal, Phillips, Ruple, Reagan, Roach, Stamms, Sawyer, Turner, Wells, Wyss, Wood, Woodard, and Wiley.

NEGRO IS SLAIN BY WHITE YOUTH

Shot in the lower part of his back early last night by an assailant who allegedly was on a drunken rampage on McEnery street, in the southern part of the city, John Howard, negro, of 605 McEnery street, died about an hour and a half later at a sanitarium. Aubrey Womack, 19, of 403 Thomas avenue, was arrested by police as the slayer of the negro.

Womack was transferred to the parish jail.

It was reported that prior to shooting the negro, Womack had threatened to shoot two white youths in the vicinity of the place where he shot the negro, which is located on McEnery street between Dick Taylor and Polk streets. Womack was said to have "pumped" several shells from the automatic shotgun to impress upon the youths the fact that the gun was loaded, and to have forced them to pick up the shells from the ground and return them to him.

Police Officer B. H. Grayson arrested Womack at the latter's residence.

Womack was said to be married. He is a native of Chatham.

HYDE FUNERAL

Funeral services for Newton Marion Hyde, 76, who died Thursday afternoon at his residence at 2607 Gordon avenue, were held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock at Winnfield at the First Methodist church. Ministers who officiated were Rev. E. O. Tucker, Rev. B. C. Land and Rev. Colvin Stokes. The funeral was attended by many friends from Monroe and Winnfield and the floral offering was large.

Surviving Mr. Hyde are his widow; two daughters, Mrs. L. D. Wardlow of Montgomery, La., and Mrs. W. C. Colvin of Winnfield; nine sons, C. L. Hyde, E. Q. Hyde, O. E. Hyde and W. F. Hyde of Monroe, A. R. Hyde of Longleaf, La., B. W. Hyde of Bogalusa, C. M. Hyde of Fort Necessity, La., H. H. Hyde of Longview, Texas, and Robert Hyde of Winnfield.

ROTHSCHILD RITES

FERRIDAY, La., Feb. 9.—(Special)—Last rites were held on Friday afternoon from Foster's Funeral home in Natchez, Miss., for Benjamin Rothschild, of Lamarque, in this parish, and a brother of the late Max Rothschild, prominent Ferriday wholesale merchant, who died at 2:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon at his residence in the lower part of the parish.

Mr. Rothschild is survived by his daughter and two brothers, Joe and Seigfried Rothschild of Los Angeles, Calif. Interment was made in the family plot of the City cemetery in Natchez.

New Ideas On Radiation From Cosmic Ray Study

New ideas about the radiation reaching man from the unexplored regions above the stratosphere are coming from study of cosmic rays. These developments are told by Dr. Jabez C. Street, of the physics department, Harvard university. The Harvard experiments described were conducted by Dr. Street and Dr. E. C. Stevenson, research fellow at Harvard, assisted by R. T. Young, Jr., and R. H. Woodward.

By Jabez C. Street
(Copyright, 1935, by the Associated Press)

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Feb. 9.—Early investigations by numerous scientists of the ionization of the earth's atmosphere led to the discovery of a radiation coming in from outside the earth and possessing the ability to penetrate great thicknesses of material.

Ionization is usually invisible to the eye. But it is familiar to everyone in the lightning stroke—the bolt following a path of ionized air. Ionization is breakdown of molecules, whose fragments take on electrical charges, and consequently the same sort of conductivity as wires.

However, when these rays from outside, whether they be particles of matter or bundles of light, strike the blanket of the atmosphere, they produce very complex phenomena in colliding with the atoms of the matter through which they pass. Light waves, particles of matter and secondary charged particles are produced which go on and cause further effects of their own.

All these effects are invisible to the eye. But they leave their records on three types of instruments. The ionization chamber, the Geiger counter and the cloud expansion chamber.

The ionization chamber consists simply of an enclosed volume of gas, containing a highly sensitive electrical circuit. This circuit registers and measures the passage of "ions," the charged atomic fragments which are ionization.

The Geiger-Muller counter is a cylindrical piece of metal, which is an electrical conductor. Along its axis is stretched a fine wire, also electrically conductive. The cylinder and the wire are electrodes. The space between them is filled with gas at reduced pressure (partial vacuum).

This counter is set so that a spark is ready to jump between the wire and the cylinder. So sensitive is this arrangement that one ion, or charged particle passing through the cylinder, will set off the spark.

The spark is amplified, so that it makes a sound, or flashes a light. Thus it counts the ions. Two or more counters can be arranged so that the instrument will record only the passage of particles powerful and swift enough to penetrate both tubes, cosmic rays alone have this energy.

The cloud expansion chamber makes use of the fact that if a gas saturated with the vapor of a liquid is suddenly expanded, the resultant cooling produces supersaturation of the vapor in the gas.

The vapor then will condense in fog droplets throughout the gas.

The cosmic rays do not act like simple parts of energy. They seem to be complex. At least their effects on the atmosphere as shown in the three types of instruments are quite varied.

At Harvard we have attached a great deal of importance to studies which would explain the nature of these interactions between the rays and the matter through which they pass.

We have watched or photographed the passage of the "showers" with all three kinds of instruments. The showers increase when dense material is placed above the receiving apparatus. The rays seem able to shake loose more electrons from these dense, heavy substances.

Whatever it is that produces these showers is rather readily stripped off from the cosmic ray. The main portion of the ray is not thereby appreciably slowed down. It keeps right on going.

Thus three centimeters of lead will strip from the rays about half their power to produce these showers. But the main portion of the ray will travel through 100 centimers of lead before it is half lost.

Our data now indicates that the shower-producing portion of the cosmic rays must be something in the nature of light, exceedingly energetic like gamma rays of radium.

We find also that this gamma, or light-like, fraction of the cosmic radiation, is probably something secondary, something induced by cosmic rays as they travel through the atmosphere, or through space.

For this shower-producing portion has a definite balance or equilibrium, with the number and energy of the original cosmic rays.

These rays, in our studies, appear at sea level to be largely charged particles. But at high elevations there is a much less penetration radiation, which shows its presence by creating showers of electrons. It is unlikely that this elevation shower-making radiation is itself a primary radiation. Its penetrating power is too low. It is probably induced by the passage of more powerful rays through the upper atmosphere.

By adding a powerful magnetic field to the cloud chamber much can be learned about the nature of the particles which make the "sky-writing" path in the vapor. A new electro-magnet, expected to be as powerful as any now in this country, is now under construction in the Harvard laboratories. It will be used with a cloud chamber.

The Friday Night club was delightfully entertained at the hospitable home of Dr. and Mrs. J. Roy Medlin on Friday evening. Preceding the bridge games a delicious supper was served. Mr. J. A. Gilbert and Mrs. Davis Whitfield were the fortunate winners of the high score awards. Those enjoying the hospitality of the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Z. L. Chambliss, Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Fuller, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Hurd, Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Whitfield, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Gilbert and Mrs. J. K. Post.

An interesting and profitable meeting of the Madison Parish Farmers' club was held in the community room of the Methodist church with the president, Mr. George H. Thompson, presiding. Mr. C. E. Speed gave an informative paper on "Growing Peaches and Watermelons." Mr. C. E. Hester discussed the recently organized Livestock Growers' association and Mr. L. B. Collins gave a report of the local work of the farm bureau. A violin and piano duet played by Erle and Ruth Read, and two interesting and appropriate readings, "Wet Weather Days" by Riley and "Jes Laughing" by Guest, by Miss Elizabeth Holt, added to entertainment feature of the program as did the community singing directed by Mrs. C. M. Richie. Members of the Eveready Circle of the Methodist Missionary society served refreshments during the social period after which Mr. Hester spoke on pruning and spraying the home orchard. The session was attended by a representative number of farmers of the parish.

Members of Circle Two of the Presbyterian Auxiliary met with Mrs. J. S. Agee when the first lesson from the text, "The Good Life" was conducted under the leadership of Mrs. Agee. Refreshments were enjoyed at the close of the session.

Mrs. J. R. Medlin was a charming hostess when she entertained the members of the Tuesday club at her home with Mrs. H. W. Huckabay and Mrs. G. L. Garrison as additional guests. The prize for high score was awarded to Mrs. J. A. Gilbert. A refreshing salad course was attractively served after the bridge games.

Circle One of the Presbyterian Auxiliary met with Mrs. J. H. Devine with Mrs. Chalmer Bridge as leader who conducted the lesson from the text, "The Good Life." Refreshments were enjoyed during the social period which followed the business session.

The monthly business meeting of the Methodist Missionary society took place at the home of Mrs. J. R. Linton with 56 members in attendance. The new president, Mrs. J. R. Medlin, presided and Mrs. W. D. Ziegler led the devotional. Plans were made for the annual Boy Scout banquet which will be held February 12 in the community room of the church. At the conclusion of an interesting business session Mrs. G. L. Smith and Mrs. T. W. Jones rendered two attractive musical numbers. The hostess served a delicious confection at the enjoyable social period.

The February meeting of the teachers and workers council of the Baptist Sunday school was held at the parsonage. Following the devotional and business session the review of the text, "The Book We Teach" was given by Mrs. H. B. Day preparatory to taking the examination. During the social period, Mrs. L. A. Materne served delicious ice cream and cake. Those present were Mr. W. C. Byrum, Mrs. R. S. Gayle, Mrs. H. J. Jones, Mrs. C. F. Hobson, Mrs. L. D. Moore, Miss Gene Stringer, Miss Christine Kitchens, Mrs. M. L. Hill, Mrs. V. J. Colligan, Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas White, Mrs. C. E. Walker and Mrs. H. B. Day.

The monthly meeting of Trinity chapter of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Episcopal church was held at the home of Mrs. Colvin Todd with a good attendance. Mrs. Will Yerger was welcomed as a new member. Mrs. Horace Lee presided and gave the opening prayer. Mrs. Fred McDuff acted as secretary and read the minutes.

Mrs. Lee read an interesting article, "Everyday Religion," by George Matthew Adams, and Mrs. W. C. Starrett contributed a reading. Plans were made for the program for the coming meeting of the auxiliary which will be held at Mounds. After the business session the guests were invited into the dining room where dainty and delicious refreshments were served, buffet style. Those present were Mesdames Steve Voelker, L. M. Spencer, R. L. Baily, Claude Searles, W. C. Starrett, George Yerger, Jr., Will Yerger, Ed Shamblin, W. L. Roundtree, T. B. Lucas, Herbert Jones, W. M. Scott, H. W. Lee, Miss Helen Yerger and Mrs. Snyder of Indiana, a guest in the Todd home.

The many friends of Mr. G. S. Blanche, of Quebec, who has been critically ill, will be glad to learn that his condition is improved.

The children's division workers of the Methodist Sunday school met at the home of Mrs. J. R. Medlin. Following the devotional, Mrs. A. F. Graves reviewed an article of the observance of "Church School day." A general discussion of special days in the Sunday school and methods of improving the work of the division proved to be profitable. Those in attendance were Rev. C. K. Smith, Mrs. Fred Yarbrough, Mrs. J. L. Deckleman, Mrs. W. G. Goza, Mrs. A. F. Graves, Mr. G. H. Thompson, Mrs. A. B. Kelly, Mrs. A. C. Cranford, Mrs. Medlin and Mrs. Erle Read.

Man, 83, Can Go Visiting Four Generations Of Kin

BARNARDSVILLE, N. C., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Whenever J. W. Wallin is in the mood to go visiting the kinfolk, he can drive about the countryside a few miles and visit four younger generations of his family.

With one exception, the difference in age of each generation is exactly 20 years. Wallin is 83, his daughter, Mrs. Lewis Smith, is 63, his granddaughter, Mrs. H. G. Gregg, is 43, and his great grandson, Ernest Gregg, is 23.

INDUSTRIAL--REVIEW OF THE TWIN CI

NEW MODELS OF PONTIAC SHOWN

Standard Six Line Expected To Prove Popular With Car Owners

Reports from all parts of the United States indicate that the enthusiasm of the public for the new Pontiacs is being interpreted in a large volume of retail orders for the new cars.

H. J. Klingler, president and general manager and A. W. L. Gilpin, vice president and general sales manager of Pontiac Motor Co., have just returned from a short trip prior to the Chicago automobile show during which dealer meetings were held in Des Moines, Omaha and Chicago.

As Mr. Gilpin says, "The principal topic of conversation among dealers is 'How can we get more cars.' Small dealers in a great many instances have taken more orders for new cars than they did all of last year.

"Reports that are being received from the automobile shows that have been held around the country all tell the same story, and Pontiac dealers in several important cities are enjoying large fleet orders from taxicab companies.

"Dealers in St. Louis wrote retail orders for 77 Pontiacs during their show. Sales made by dealers in Cincinnati are fifty per cent ahead of the total deliveries for the year 1934. Sales in metropolitan Detroit during the week of that automobile show were five times greater than they were during the same week last year.

"A taxicab order for 200 Pontiacs was taken in Cleveland and orders for 251 were sold to one taxicab company and 12 to another, while in Washington a sale of 100 new cars was made to one cab company.

Pontiac Motor company through its nation-wide dealer organization, is announcing a new line of low cost standard six models which are being shown publicly for the first time in addition to the de luxe six and improved straight eight announced earlier in January.

The new standard six models are lower priced than the de luxe six with the coupe listing at $615 f. o. b. the factory. Other models are the 2-door sedan at $665; 4-door sedan at $715; 2-door touring sedan at $695 and the 4-door touring sedan at $745.

With the same distinctive front end treatment which has made the higher priced Pontiacs among the most popular of the industry's 1935 offerings, the standard six line boasts the characteristic lines of its bigger brothers and provides economy of operation comparable to the lowest priced cars on the market.

Such typical developments of the 1935 season as the solid-steel turret top body by Fisher, synchronized and stabilized front end springing, triple-sealed hydraulic brakes and many other achievements of the engineering laboratory and the stylist-studio are to be found on the latest newcomer to the Pontiac line. It is powered by the same six-cylinder engine as the de luxe line, developing 61 horsepower at 65 miles an hour and capable of speeds well over eighty miles and hour.

The standard six retains the same high quality construction throughout that is found in the two higher priced lines.

Silver-alloy bearings developed and pioneered by Pontiac engineers and found in no other passenger cars in America today, are standard equipment. Except for the front fender indicator lamps, the standard six presents the identical exterior appearance of the de luxe six, and except for the new synchronized and stabilized front end springing, the chassis of both cars likewise are identical.

The new type of spring suspension allows for a "softer" ride, in that stiffness has been reduced from 300 pounds to only 200 pounds. This equalizes spring stiffness both in the front and rear, eliminates the forward pitch of the conventional type of suspension, it is claimed, and provides one of the most comfortable and restful types of springing available at any price.

Standard six models have the same completely sealed chassis of the higher priced de luxe six, which keeps all water, dust and grit from every working part. Luggage space is provided in the rear of all sedan and coupe models.

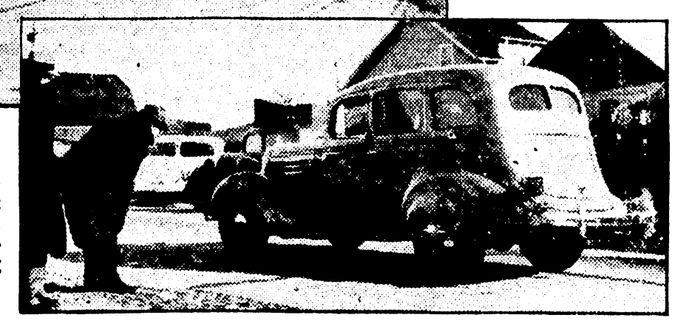

All of the well known engineering features of Pontiac motors such as the cross-flow radiator, gusher type cooling and metered-flow lubrication are found in identical fashion in the standard six models.

There are now 235 living former members of cabinets in France. This is because of the frequency with which French cabinets are changed.

SAFETY OFFICERS APPLAUD TERRAPLANE BRAKING ABILITY

Insurance and police officers of the City of Detroit recently conducted a brake test on a 1935 Terraplane Sedan. The purpose of the test was to compare the ability of this new 1935 model to stop with the standard figures approved by the Police Department at various speeds.

Reporting on the brake test, the insurance and police officers state that at speeds of 40 and 50 miles per hour the Terraplane stopped in about half the distance called for by the Police Department. This department uses figures compiled as the result of a large number of tests made by the Bendix Brake Company. For example, at 50 miles per hour the Detroit Police Department states that with brakes in excellent condition, the car should be able to stop in 111 feet. The Terraplane at 50 miles an hour stopped in 65 feet.

While tabulations of the Police Department at 40 miles an hour call for 71 feet, the Terraplane stopped in 40 feet, 1 inch. At 20 miles an hour, as against the police requirements of 18 feet, the Terraplane stopped in 10 feet 8 inches

NEW HIGH RECORD BY DODGE DEALERS

Latest Sales Tabulations Indicate Popularity Of New Models

Latest sales tabulations just released by the office of A. vanDerZee, general sales manager of Dodge Brothers corporation, show a larger number of retail deliveries during the first three weeks of January than during any corresponding January period in the 20 years' history of the company.

The volume of Dodge dealers' retail sales in the first 19 days of 1935 amounted to 10,230 Dodge and Plymouth passenger cars and 2,145 Dodge trucks, or to a total of 12,375 vehicles—as compared with 5,287 vehicles sold during the corresponding period of 1934.

With factory production being speeded up from week to week, Dodge dealers, during the week ending January 19, delivered to customers 4540 new vehicles; of these 3,789 were Dodge and Plymouth passenger cars while 751 were Dodge commercial cars and trucks.

"The tenor of automobile buying is plain and unmistakable," declares vanDerZee. "Only two weeks ago we were able to report a backlog of unfilled orders running to over $25,000,000. Although our plants are expanding their activities rapidly, the reserve of unfilled orders is, for the time being at least, increasing rather than diminishing. Even the circumstance that winter weather acts to delay the orders of thousands of new-car purchasers does not make itself felt at present. With demand for the new cars developing in this fashion it is not difficult to forecast the business which the approaching spring will bring forth."

WORN-OUT TIRES ENDANGER LIVES

Hundreds Killed Annually In Accidents Caused By Blowouts

Public enemy No. 1. is not a gangster with a smoking gun, but an innocent looking old tire with a blowout under its coat, and he is lurking in Louisiana.

This charge was made today by Harvey Benoit of the Benoit-Nash Motor Co., Inc., who supports his statement with unquestionable evidence.

"For every person killed by gangsters' bullets, hundreds are killed and thousands maimed by thin, smooth, skiddy tires," said Mr. Benoit. "Figures for the first eight months of 1934, the latest available, show that 264 persons lost their lives in traffic accidents in Louisiana.

"The national picture is reflected in figures supplied by the National Safety council. The council's records reveal that 31,000 persons were killed and more than a million injured in traffic accidents in 1933, and estimates indicate that 1934 will show an increase of at least 10 per cent in both fatalities and injuries.

"The question now comes as to how many of these accidents were caused by old, smooth tires. The answer is one out of every six. This answer is given on the authority of the Aetna Life Insurance company which has been making an analysis of causes of automobile accidents for more than a century.

"This company's study, based on their claims, show that 17.2 per cent, or out out of every six, of all automobile accidents is caused by skidding, I feel thoroughly justified in claiming that such a tire, rather than the most notorious gangster in the country, merits the title—Public enemy No. 1.

"And just as the gangster should be eliminated, so should the old tire. Every dangerous old tire should be put 'behind the bars'—on the scrap heap. It should be replaced with a new tire that has a sharp tread, the only kind of tread that will grip the ground."

Picketing Bill Collector 'Tells World' Of Debts

On two consecutive mornings he has walked back and forth before a Lakewood house, shouting hoarsely: "Mr. — owes me five dollars. Mr. — owes me five dollars, and he won't pay me."

Neighbors called police. When the collection agency knocked off for the day and climbed in his auto, he was picked up for having a defective muffler—on the auto, that is.

Police decided there was not much they could do about his system, so long as he told the truth and shouted no louder than hucksters and ash men.

Whereupon the man who gave his name as William Esry said he would go back to work.

CHEVROLET AGAIN LEADS CAR SALES

New Car Registrations For 1934 Show Another Big Increase

DETROIT, Feb. 9.—(Special)—Chevrolet Motor company reported today that official 1934 new-car registration figures for the United States complete show 534,906 Chevrolet passenger cars sold and registered, giving the company first place for the fourth year in succession, and for the sixth time out of the last eight years. Chevrolet also led in total truck registrations for 1934, with a total of 157,507.

Compared with the previous year, these totals show Chevrolet gains of 60,463 in passenger cars, and 37,627 in trucks.

Total Chevrolet units, cars and trucks, registered were 692,413, compared with 574,323 for 1933, a gain of 118,090.

December registrations of Chevrolet passenger cars, says the announcement, were 25,741, exceeding December, 1933, by 15,738.

Shot in the lower part of his back early last night by an assailant who allegedly was on a drunken rampage on McEnery street, in the southern part of the city, John Howard, negro, of 605 McEnery street, died about an hour and a half later at a sanitarium. Aubrey Womack, 19, of 403 Thomas avenue, was arrested by police as the slayer of the negro.

Womack was transferred to the parish jail.

It was reported that prior to shooting the negro, Womack had threatened to shoot two white youths in the vicinity of the place where he shot the negro, which is located on McEnery street between Dick Taylor and Polk streets. Womack was said to have "pumped" several shells from the automatic shotgun to impress upon the youths the fact that the gun was loaded, and to have forced them to pick up the shells from the ground and return them to him.

Police Officer B. H. Grayson arrested Womack at the latter's residence.

Womack was said to be married. He is a native of Chatham.

HYDE FUNERAL

Funeral services for Newton Marion Hyde, 76, who died Thursday afternoon at his residence at 2607 Gordon avenue, were held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock at Winnfield at the First Methodist church. Ministers who officiated were Rev. E. O. Tucker, Rev. B. C. Land and Rev. Colvin Stokes. The funeral was attended by many friends from Monroe and Winnfield and the floral offering was large.

Surviving Mr. Hyde are his widow; two daughters, Mrs. L. D. Wardlow of Montgomery, La., and Mrs. W. C. Colvin of Winnfield; nine sons, C. L. Hyde, E. Q. Hyde, O. E. Hyde and W. F. Hyde of Monroe, A. R. Hyde of Longleaf, La., B. W. Hyde of Bogalusa, C. M. Hyde of Fort Necessity, La., H. H. Hyde of Longview, Texas, and Robert Hyde of Winnfield.

ROTHSCHILD RITES

FERRIDAY, La., Feb. 9.—(Special)—Last rites were held on Friday afternoon from Foster's Funeral home in Natchez, Miss., for Benjamin Rothschild, of Lamarque, in this parish, and a brother of the late Max Rothschild, prominent Ferriday wholesale merchant, who died at 2:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon at his residence in the lower part of the parish.

Mr. Rothschild is survived by his daughter and two brothers, Joe and Seigfried Rothschild of Los Angeles, Calif. Interment was made in the family plot of the City cemetery in Natchez.

New Ideas On Radiation From Cosmic Ray Study

New ideas about the radiation reaching man from the unexplored regions above the stratosphere are coming from study of cosmic rays. These developments are told by Dr. Jabez C. Street, of the physics department, Harvard university. The Harvard experiments described were conducted by Dr. Street and Dr. E. C. Stevenson, research fellow at Harvard, assisted by R. T. Young, Jr., and R. H. Woodward.

By Jabez C. Street

(Copyright, 1935, by the Associated Press)

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Feb. 9.—Early investigations by numerous scientists of the ionization of the earth's atmosphere led to the discovery of a radiation coming in from outside the earth and possessing the ability to penetrate great thicknesses of material.

Ionization is usually invisible to the eye. But it is familiar to everyone in the lightning stroke—the bolt following a path of ionized air. Ionization is breakdown of molecules, whose fragments take on electrical charges, and consequently the same sort of conductivity as wires.

However, when these rays from outside, whether they be particles of matter or bundles of light, strike the blanket of the atmosphere, they produce very complex phenomena in colliding with the atoms of the matter through which they pass. Light waves, particles of matter and secondary charged particles are produced which go on and cause further effects of their own.

All these effects are invisible to the eye. But they leave their records on three types of instruments. The ionization chamber, the Geiger counter and the cloud expansion chamber.

The ionization chamber consists simply of an enclosed volume of gas, containing a highly sensitive electrical circuit. This circuit registers and measures the passage of "ions," the charged atomic fragments which are ionization.

The Geiger-Muller counter is a cylindrical piece of metal, which is an electrical conductor. Along its axis is stretched a fine wire, also electrically conductive. The cylinder and the wire are electrodes. The space between them is filled with gas at reduced pressure (partial vacuum).

This counter is set so that a spark is ready to jump between the wire and the cylinder. So sensitive is this arrangement that one ion, or charged particle passing through the cylinder, will set off the spark.

The spark is amplified, so that it makes a sound, or flashes a light. Thus it counts the ions. Two or more counters can be arranged so that the instrument will record only the passage of particles powerful and swift enough to penetrate both tubes, cosmic rays alone have this energy.

The cloud expansion chamber makes use of the fact that if a gas saturated with the vapor of a liquid is suddenly expanded, the resultant cooling produces supersaturation of the vapor in the gas.

The vapor then will condense in fog droplets throughout the gas.

Ions in the gas act as condensation centers for these droplets, so that passage of an ironizing ray can be seen as a line of drops along the path of the particle.

The cosmic rays do not act like simple parts of energy. They seem to be complex. At least their effects on the atmosphere as shown in the three types of instruments are quite varied.

At Harvard we have attached a great deal of importance to studies which would explain the nature of these interactions between the rays and the matter through which they pass.

We have watched or photographed the passage of the "showers" with all three kinds of instruments. The showers increase when dense material is placed above the receiving apparatus. The rays seem able to shake loose more electrons from these dense, heavy substances.

Whatever it is that produces these showers is rather readily stripped off from the cosmic ray. The main portion of the ray is not thereby appreciably slowed down. It keeps right on going.

Thus three centimeters of lead will strip from the rays about half their power to produce these showers. But the main portion of the ray will travel through 100 centimers of lead before it is half lost.

Our data now indicates that the shower-producing portion of the cosmic rays must be something in the nature of light, exceedingly energetic like gamma rays of radium.

We find also that this gamma, or light-like, fraction of the cosmic radiation, is probably something secondary, something induced by cosmic rays as they travel through the atmosphere, or through space.

For this shower-producing portion has a definite balance or equilibrium, with the number and energy of the original cosmic rays.

These rays, in our studies, appear at sea level to be largely charged particles. But at high elevations there is a much less penetration radiation, which shows its presence by creating showers of electrons. It is unlikely that this elevation shower-making radiation is itself a primary radiation. Its penetrating power is too low. It is probably induced by the passage of more powerful rays through the upper atmosphere.

By adding a powerful magnetic field to the cloud chamber much can be learned about the nature of the particles which make the "sky-writing" path in the vapor. A new electro-magnet, expected to be as powerful as any now in this country, is now under construction in the Harvard laboratories. It will be used with a cloud chamber.

The Friday Night club was delightfully entertained at the hospitable home of Dr. and Mrs. J. Roy Medlin on Friday evening. Preceding the bridge games a delicious supper was served. Mr. J. A. Gilbert and Mrs. Davis Whitfield were the fortunate winners of the high score awards. Those enjoying the hospitality of the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Z. L. Chambliss, Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Fuller, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Hurd, Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Whitfield, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Gilbert and Mrs. J. K. Post.

An interesting and profitable meeting of the Madison Parish Farmers' club was held in the community room of the Methodist church with the president, Mr. George H. Thompson, presiding. Mr. C. E. Speed gave an informative paper on "Growing Peaches and Watermelons." Mr. C. E. Hester discussed the recently organized Livestock Growers' association and Mr. L. B. Collins gave a report of the local work of the farm bureau. A violin and piano duet played by Erle and Ruth Read, and two interesting and appropriate readings, "Wet Weather Days" by Riley and "Jes Laughing" by Guest, by Miss Elizabeth Holt, added to entertainment feature of the program as did the community singing directed by Mrs. C. M. Richie. Members of the Eveready Circle of the Methodist Missionary society served refreshments during the social period after which Mr. Hester spoke on pruning and spraying the home orchard. The session was attended by a representative number of farmers of the parish.

Members of Circle Two of the Presbyterian Auxiliary met with Mrs. J. S. Agee when the first lesson from the text, "The Good Life" was conducted under the leadership of Mrs. Agee. Refreshments were enjoyed at the close of the session.

Mrs. J. R. Medlin was a charming hostess when she entertained the members of the Tuesday club at her home with Mrs. H. W. Huckabay and Mrs. G. L. Garrison as additional guests. The prize for high score was awarded to Mrs. J. A. Gilbert. A refreshing salad course was attractively served after the bridge games.

Circle One of the Presbyterian Auxiliary met with Mrs. J. H. Devine with Mrs. Chalmer Bridge as leader who conducted the lesson from the text, "The Good Life." Refreshments were enjoyed during the social period which followed the business session.

The monthly business meeting of the Methodist Missionary society took place at the home of Mrs. J. R. Linton with 56 members in attendance. The new president, Mrs. J. R. Medlin, presided and Mrs. W. D. Ziegler led the devotional. Plans were made for the annual Boy Scout banquet which will be held February 12 in the community room of the church. At the conclusion of an interesting business session Mrs. G. L. Smith and Mrs. T. W. Jones rendered two attractive musical numbers. The hostess served a delicious confection at the enjoyable social period.

The February meeting of the teachers and workers council of the Baptist Sunday school was held at the parsonage. Following the devotional and business session the review of the text, "The Book We Teach" was given by Mrs. H. B. Day preparatory to taking the examination. During the social period, Mrs. L. A. Materne served delicious ice cream and cake. Those present were Mr. W. C. Byrum, Mrs. R. S. Gayle, Mrs. H. J. Jones, Mrs. C. F. Hobson, Mrs. L. D. Moore, Miss Gene Stringer, Miss Christine Kitchens, Mrs. M. L. Hill, Mrs. V. J. Colligan, Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas White, Mrs. C. E. Walker and Mrs. H. B. Day.

The monthly meeting of Trinity chapter of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Episcopal church was held at the home of Mrs. Colvin Todd with a good attendance. Mrs. Will Yerger was welcomed as a new member. Mrs. Horace Lee presided and gave the opening prayer. Mrs. Fred McDuff acted as secretary and read the minutes.

Mrs. Lee read an interesting article, "Everyday Religion," by George Matthew Adams, and Mrs. W. C. Starrett contributed a reading. Plans were made for the program for the coming meeting of the auxiliary which will be held at Mounds. After the business session the guests were invited into the dining room where dainty and delicious refreshments were served, buffet style. Those present were Mesdames Steve Voelker, L. M. Spencer, R. L. Baily, Claude Searles, W. C. Starrett, George Yerger, Jr., Will Yerger, Ed Shamblin, W. L. Roundtree, T. B. Lucas, Herbert Jones, W. M. Scott, H. W. Lee, Miss Helen Yerger and Mrs. Snyder of Indiana, a guest in the Todd home.

The many friends of Mr. G. S. Blanche, of Quebec, who has been critically ill, will be glad to learn that his condition is improved.

The children's division workers of the Methodist Sunday school met at the home of Mrs. J. R. Medlin. Following the devotional, Mrs. A. F. Graves reviewed an article of the observance of "Church School day." A general discussion of special days in the Sunday school and methods of improving the work of the division proved to be profitable. Those in attendance were Rev. C. K. Smith, Mrs. Fred Yarbrough, Mrs. J. L. Deckleman, Mrs. W. G. Goza, Mrs. A. F. Graves, Mr. G. H. Thompson, Mrs. A. B. Kelly, Mrs. A. C. Cranford, Mrs. Medlin and Mrs. Erle Read.

BARNARDSVILLE, N. C., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Whenever J. W. Wallin is in the mood to go visiting the kinfolk, he can drive about the countryside a few miles and visit four younger generations of his family.

With one exception, the difference in age of each generation is exactly 20 years. Wallin is 83, his daughter, Mrs. Lewis Smith, is 63, his granddaughter, Mrs. H. G. Gregg, is 43, and his great grandson, Ernest Gregg, is 23.

INDUSTRIAL--REVIEW OF THE TWIN CIT

NEW MODELS OF PONTIAC SHOWN

Standard Six Line Expected To Prove Popular With Car Owners

Reports from all parts of the United States indicate that the enthusiasm of the public for the new Pontiacs is being interpreted in a large volume of retail orders for the new cars.

H. J. Klingler, president and general manager and A. W. L. Gilpin, vice president and general sales manager of Pontiac Motor Co., have just returned from a short trip prior to the Chicago automobile show during which dealer meetings were held in Des Moines, Omaha and Chicago.

As Mr. Gilpin says, "The principal topic of conversation among dealers is 'How can we get more cars.' Small dealers in a great many instances have taken more orders for new cars than they did all of last year.

"Reports that are being received from the automobile shows that have been held around the country all tell the same story, and Pontiac dealers in several important cities are enjoying large fleet orders from taxicab companies.

"Starting with the New York auto show, 378 retail orders for new Pontiacs were taken in the Metropolitan area during the week of that show with 132 of them written at the show itself. This is a great increase over previous years.

"Dealers in St. Louis wrote retail orders for 77 Pontiacs during their show. Sales made by dealers in Cincinnati are fifty per cent ahead of the total deliveries for the year 1934. Sales in metropolitan Detroit during the week of that automobile show were five times greater than they were during the same week last year.

"A taxicab order for 200 Pontiacs was taken in Cleveland and orders for 251 were sold to one taxicab company and 12 to another, while in Washington a sale of 100 new cars was made to one cab company.

Pontiac Motor company through its nation-wide dealer organization, is announcing a new line of low cost standard six models which are being shown publicly for the first time in addition to the de luxe six and improved straight eight announced earlier in January.

The new standard six models are lower priced than the de luxe six with the coupe listing at $615 f. o. b. the factory. Other models are the 2-door sedan at $$65; 4-door sedan at $715; 2-door touring sedan at $695 and the 4-door touring sedan at $745.

With the same distinctive front end treatment which has made the higher priced Pontiacs among the most popular of the industry's 1935 offerings, the standard six line boasts the characteristic lines of its bigger brothers and provides economy of operation comparable to the lowest priced cars on the market.

Such typical developments of the 1935 season as the solid-steel turret top body by Fisher, synchronized and stabilized front end springing, triple-sealed hydraulic brakes and many other achievements of the engineering laboratory and the stylist-studio are to be found on the latest newcomer to the Pontiac line. It is powered by the same six-cylinder engine as the de luxe line, developing 61 horsepower at 65 miles an hour and capable of speeds well over eighty miles and hour.

The standard six retains the same high quality construction throughout that is found in the two higher priced lines.

Silver-alloy bearings developed and pioneered by Pontiac engineers and found in no other passenger cars in America today, are standard equipment. Except for the front fender indicator lamps, the standard six presents the identical exterior appearance of the de luxe six, and except for the new synchronized and stabilized front end springing, the chassis of both cars likewise are identical.

The new type of spring suspension allows for a "softer" ride, in that stiffness has been reduced from 300 pounds to only 200 pounds. This equalizes spring stiffness both in the front and rear, eliminates the forward pitch of the conventional type of suspension, it is claimed, and provides one of the most comfortable and restful types of springing available at any price.

Standard six models have the same completely sealed chassis of the higher priced de luxe six, which keeps all water, dust and grit from every working part. Luggage space is provided in the rear of all sedan and coupe models.

All of the well known engineering features of Pontiac motors such as the cross-flow radiator, gusher type cooling and metered-flow lubrication are found in identical fashion in the standard six models.

There are now 235 living former members of cabinets in France. This is because of the frequency with which French cabinets are changed.

SAFETY OFFICERS APPLAUD TERRAPLANE BRAKING ABILITY

Police measuring stopping distance recorded by a 1935 Terraplane which bettered requirements in this respect by nearly 50 per cent.

Detroit Police and Insurance officers conducting rigid brake test on 1935 Terraplane which broke all previous records for stopping distances.

Insurance and police officers of the City of Detroit recently conducted a brake test on a 1935 Terraplane Sedan. The purpose of the test was to compare the ability of this new 1935 model to stop with the standard figures approved by the Police Department at various speeds.

Reporting on the brake test, the insurance and police officers state that at speeds of 40 and 50 miles per hour the Terraplane stopped in about half the distance called for by the Police Department. This department uses figures compiled as the result of a large number of tests made by the Bendix Brake Company. For example, at 50 miles per hour the Detroit Police Department states that with brakes in excellent condition, the car should be able to stop in 111 feet. The Terraplane at 50 miles an hour stopped in 65 feet.

While tabulations of the Police Department at 40 miles an hour call for 71 feet, the Terraplane stopped in 40 feet, 1 inch. At 20 miles an hour, as against the police requirements of 18 feet, the Terraplane stopped in 10 feet 8 inches.

NEW HIGH RECORD BY DODGE DEALERS

Latest sales tabulations just released by the office of A. vanDerZee, general sales manager of Dodge Brothers corporation, show a larger number of retail deliveries during the first three weeks of January than during any corresponding January period in the 20 years' history of the company.

The volume of Dodge dealers' retail sales in the first 19 days of 1935 amounted to 10,230 Dodge and Plymouth passenger cars and 2,145 Dodge trucks, or to a total of 12,375 vehicles —as compared with 5,287 vehicles sold during the corresponding period of 1934.

With factory production being speeded up from week to week, Dodge dealers, during the week ending January 19, delivered to customers 4540 new vehicles; of these 3,789 were Dodge and Plymouth passenger cars, while 751 were Dodge commercial cars and trucks.

"The tenor of automobile buying, is plain and unmistakable," declares vanDerZee. "Only two weeks ago we were able to report a backlog of unfilled orders running to over $25,000,000. Although our plants are expanding their activities rapidly, the reserve of unfilled orders is, for the time being at least, increasing rather than diminishing. Even the circumstance that winter weather acts to delay the orders of thousands of new-car purchasers does not make itself felt at present. With demand for the new cars developing in this fashion it is not difficult to forecast the business which the approaching spring will bring forth."

WORN-OUT TIRES ENDANGER LIVES

Hundreds Killed Annually In Accidents Caused By Blowouts

Public enemy No. 1. is not a gangster with a smoking gun, but an innocent looking old tire with a blowout under its coat, and he is lurking in Louisiana.

This charge was made today by Harvey Benoit of the Benoit-Nash Motor Co., Inc., who supports his statement with unquestionable evidence.

"For every person killed by gangsters' bullets, hundreds are killed and thousands maimed by thin, smooth, skiddy tires," said Mr. Benoit. "Figures for the first eight months of 1934, the latest available, show that 264 persons lost their lives in traffic accidents in Louisiana.

"The national picture is reflected in figures supplied by the National Safety council. The council's records reveal that 31,000 persons were killed and more than a million injured in traffic accidents in 1933, and estimates indicate that 1934 will show an increase of at least 10 per cent in both fatalities and injuries.

"The question now comes as to how many of these accidents were caused by old, smooth tires. The answer is one out of every six. This answer is given on the authority of the Aetna Life Insurance company which has been making an analysis of causes of automobile accidents for more than a century.

"This company's study, based on their claims, show that 17.2 per cent, or out out of every six, of all automobile accidents is caused by skidding, I feel thoroughly justified in claiming that such a tire, rather than the most notorious gangster in the country, merits the title—Public enemy No. 1.

"And just as the gangster should be eliminated, so should the old tire. Every dangerous old tire should be put 'behind the bars'—on the scrap heap. It should be replaced with a new tire that has a sharp tread, the only kind of tread that will grip the ground."

Picketing Bill Collector 'Tells World' Of Debts

On two consecutive mornings he has walked back and forth before a Lakewood house, shouting hoarsely: "Mr. — owes me five dollars. Mr. — owes me five dollars, and he won't pay me."

Neighbors called police. When the collection agency knocked off for the day and climbed in his auto, he was picked up for having a defective muffler—on the auto, that is.

Police decided there was not much they could do about his system, so long as he told the truth and shouted no louder than hucksters and ash men.

Whereupon the man who gave his name as William Esry said he guessed he would go back to work.

New Car Registrations For 1934 Show Another Big Increase

DETROIT, Feb. 9.—(Special)—Chevrolet Motor company reported today that official 1934 new-car registration figures for the United States complete show 534,906 Chevrolet passenger cars sold and registered, giving the company first place for the fourth year in succession, and for the sixth time out of the last eight years. Chevrolet also led in total truck registrations for 1934, with a total of 157,507.

Compared with the previous year, these totals show Chevrolet gains of 60,463 in passenger cars, and 57,627 in trucks.

Total Chevrolet units, cars and trucks, registered were 692,413, compared with 574,323 for 1933, a gain of 118,090.

December registrations of Chevrolet passenger cars, says the announcement, were 25,741, exceeding December, 1933, by 15,738.

Normal tears are hundreds of times more effective in protecting the eye than solutions commonly used, laboratory tests have revealed.

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(AP)—The stock market resumed its waiting attitude today and many of yesterday's mildly bullish traders were inclined to step out of the brief week-end session with small profits. There were a number of moderate gains recorded. The close was a trifle irregular. Transfers approximated 300,000 shares.

Notwithstanding the fact that the equities division was unable to stir up any noticeable enthusiasm for the bull side of the market, recovery protagonists were encouraged by the lack of selling pressure generally.

In contradiction to the indecisive stock trends, commodities, led again by rubber and hides, pointed higher. Grains were not particularly buoyant, but, during the early hours, they pushed ahead at a sedate pace. Cotton just about held its own. Bonds were fairly firm throughout, although U. S. government securities were slightly mixed.

Shares of Liggett & Myers "B" and National Department Stores preferred got up a point or so each, and American Can, American Tobacco "B", General Electric, U. S. Steel, Westinghouse, Public Service of California, American Telephone, General Motors, Sears Roebuck and U. S. Smelting were about unchanged to a bit improved.

Union Pacific was off a point at one time, but regained most of this decline. The other rails, including Santa Fe, Delaware and Hudson and New York Central were mostly easier. The metals and utilities did virtually nothing.

Market barometers were not especially cheered by the report of tariffs and other trade controls published by the department of commerce. Allowing for certain exceptions, the report stated, the net outcome of 1934 changes in trade restrictions seem to have been to leave the general trade-control structure of the world almost as restrictive as it was at the outset of the year.

Sugar

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Raw sugar was firm and unchanged today with buyers and sellers apart.

Local refiners were believed willing to pay 2.86 for sugar in suitable position, but there was nothing offered below 2.90. It developed that late yesterday there was sales of 12,600 bags Cuban ex store to an operator at 2.89 and 22,000 bags for the first half of March shipment at 2.87, but these were isolated.

After opening at a partial decline of 1 point on overnight liquidation, futures rallied on renewed covering and trade buying supported by the firmness in the stock market with the market closing unchanged to 1 cent net higher in the old contracts and unchanged to 1 cent under, in the new.

Sales in the old were 8,100 tons and in the new 2,500 tons. In the old delivery May opened sold up from 1.88 to 1.89, and September from 2.07 to 2.09 or about the previous close, while in the new July advanced from 2.11 to 2.03 and December from 2.12 to 2.14, or 1 to 2 net higher. Refining cracked the uptrend but final prices were at or within a point of the best.

March old closed at 1.94, May 1.90, July 2.04, Sept 2.06-2.09 and Dec 2.15.

Refined sugar was unsettled and although list prices were unchanged at 4.50 for fine granulated, one of the local refiners was accepting business in a limited way at 5 points less until Monday night.

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(AP)—The stock market resumed its waiting attitude today and many of yesterday's mildly bullish traders were inclined to step out of the brief week-end session with small profits. There were a number of moderate gains recorded. The close was a trifle irregular. Transfers approximated 300,000 shares.

Notwithstanding the fact that the equities division was unable to stir up any noticeable enthusiasm for the bull side of the market, recovery protagonists were encouraged by the lack of selling pressure generally.

In contradiction to the indecisive stock trends, commodities, led again by rubber and hides, pointed higher. Grains were not particularly buoyant, but, during the early hours, they pushed ahead at a sedate pace. Cotton just about held its own. Bonds were fairly firm throughout, although U. S. government securities were slightly mixed.

Shares of Liggett & Myers "B" and National Department Stores preferred got up a point or so each, and American Can, American Tobacco "B", General Electric, U. S. Steel, Westinghouse, Public Service of California, American Telephone, General Motors, Sears Roebuck and U. S. Smelting were about unchanged to a bit improved.

Union Pacific was off a point at one time, but regained most of this decline. The other rails, including Santa Fe, Delaware and Hudson and New York Central were mostly easier. The metals and utilities did virtually nothing.

Market barometers were not especially cheered by the report of tariffs and other trade controls published by the department of commerce. Allowing for certain exceptions, the report stated, the net outcome of 1934 changes in trade restrictions seem to have been to leave the general trade-control structure of the world almost as restrictive as it was at the outset of the year.

Sugar

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Raw sugar was firm and unchanged today with buyers and sellers apart.

Local refiners were believed willing to pay 2.86 for sugar in suitable position, but there was nothing offered below 2.90. It developed that late yesterday there was sales of 12,600 bags Cuban ex store to an operator at 2.89 and 22,000 bags for the first half of March shipment at 2.87, but there were no sales today.

After opening at a partial decline of 1 point on overnight liquidation, futures rallied on renewed covering and trade buying supported by the firmness in the stock market with the market closing unchanged to 1 point net higher in the old contracts and unchanged to 1 point higher in the new.

Sales in the old were 8,100 tons and in the new 3,500 tons. In the old deliveries May contract sold up from 1.88 to 1.89, and September from 2.07 to 2.09, or about above the previous close, while in the new July advanced from 2.01 to 2.03 and December from 2.12 to 2.14, or 1 to 2 net higher. Realizing checked the upturn, but final prices were at or with n a point of the best.

March old closed at 1.94; May 1.99; July 2.04; Sept. 2.08-2.09 and Dec. 2.15.

Refined sugar was unsettled, and although list prices were unchanged at 4.30 for fine granulated, one of the local refiners was accepting business in a limited way at 5 points less until Monday night.

TO PLACE NURSES IN FIVE SCHOOLS

Will Supervise Health Of Children In Local Institutions

Through cooperation of the Ouachita parish health unit and the emergency relief administration, graduate nurses have been obtained to supervise the health of children in five of the schools of Monroe and Ouachita parish. It was planned originally to designate an individual nurse for each of the major schools of the parish and city systems, but only five graduate nurses were found who could meet ERA qualfications, which specified that they must be in need of work.

Nurses who were named and the respective schools in which they will supervise health conditions were given as follows: Mrs. Anna McClellan, Barkdull Faulk school; Miss Edith Faris, Central grammar school; Miss Jimmie Walters, Crosley school in West Monroe; Miss Winnie Hackworth, Lida Benton school, and Miss Estelle McKinney, Ouachita parish grammar school.

These nurses will be placed in the schools to observe the general health of the children and when there appears to be a necessity for it they will go into the homes of the needy and give medical assistance. One of their duties will be to keep a close watch for communicable diseases and to notify the health unit immediately when a case of this kind appears.

In addition to assisting in curbing diseases and helping those who are unable to employ a physician, the nurses will conduct general health and cleanliness programs. They will give dental drills and oral hygiene lessons and will stress the importance of keeping the hands and body clean.

When the nurses are called upon to aid in cases of illness in the homes they will advise parents on how to administer medicine and also the proper food to be given when patients are suffering from different ailments.

Dr. J. W. Williams, director of the health unit here, expressed the opinion that the presence of the nurses in the schools would benefit health conditions materially, as they will be in more direct contact with the pupils at all times than it is possible for the health unit nurses to be and their work will be in addition to that rendered by the health unit nurses.

Gravel Firm Employe Hurt While At Work

TROUT, La., Feb. 9.—(Special)—Jesse Miller, employe of the Gifford Hill Gravel company, is in an Alexandria hospital recovering from severe face injuries received when he fell through a washing screen at the local gravel plant.

Miller, whose home is at Midway, a few miles southeast of here, has been employed by the gravel company for a number of years. He received treatment by a physician here and was later removed to the Baptist hospital at Alexandria.

BEAR SCARE RAGES IN HICO SECTION

HICO, La., Feb. 9.—(Special)—Bear! That is the word on every lip in this section as rumors from almost every neighborhood and the outlying farms of this section have set the people here on guard for a marauding "big black thing" that scares mules, eats pigs and almost killed a dog.

A few inghts ago at the sawmill on Fred Brazzell's place, the night watchman reported that "something with large shining eyes" frightened the mules in the corral at the mill.

The next day a negro reported that something had invaded his pig-pen and eaten all but one of his pigs. He said big tracks, resembling bear tracks, were all about the pen.

A group of negroes, deciding to investigate, took their hounds and guns and set out in quest of the animal. One of the dogs bayed the mysterious creature far ahead of the hunters, but came back "telling the news" with about half of his head clawed off. Awe-stricken at the appearance of the dog the negroes decided to call the hunt off and went home "pretty quick." Wednesday night a lumber hauler saw "some large black creature" cross the road in front of his truck.

It is the belief of some that high waters in the swamps has driven a bear or bears up into this section seeking higher ground.

Mayor Bernstein Will Make Carnival Address

Mayor Arnold Bernstein is scheduled to give a brief address in connection with the opening of a carnival sponsored by the congregation of the St. Matthew's Catholic church and which will be held in the former Adler building on South Grand street Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The address will be given Thursday night.

The carnival will have a number of entertainment booths and novel amusement features. Refreshments and regular meals will be served.

One of the features will be a bridge contest. Reservations for entering the contest and becoming eligible to receive a prize to be awarded the contest winner may be made by telephoning Nos. 2424 or 2512.

Sponsors of the Thursday afternoon bridge games are Mrs. A. C. Worsham, Mrs. M. E. Bell, Mrs. R. L. Wood, Mrs. John Pracher, Mrs. L. P. Abernathy and Mrs. Ned Wilson.

A deck of cards will be awarded as the prize for each table.

POLICE JURY MEETS

TALLULAH, La., Feb. 9.—(Special)—At a meeting of the Madison parish police jury held here this week a committee from the Northeast Livestock Growers association appeared before the body to ask that means be provided to combat the menace caused by cattle being stolen, butchered and sold to retailers. A resolution was adopted directing the president to appoint a committee to prepare a report for the next meeting of the police jury. The committee named was J. H. Baughman, J. A. Moberly, G. W. Patterson, district attorney, J. B. Snyder, W. H. Hewes and P. O. Benjamin, of the police jury.

ASKS SUPPORT OF NATIONAL DEFENSE

Mayor Bernstein Requests Citizens To Aid In Observing Week

A proclamation calling for observance of national defense week and urging that the citizenship in general strive for the goal that has been fixed for aiding in national defense was issued Saturday by Mayor Arnold Bernstein. The proclamation was as follows:

PROCLAMATION

"The period from February 12 to February 22 has been designated as 'National Defense week' and dedicated to striving for a legal limit army and a navy second to none, each with component air forces to meet modern needs.

"Every man, woman and child in America owes to our nation every legitimate effort seeking that goal.

"The United States of America has been, is, and will continue to be the leader among the nations of the world in every respect regarding commerce, inventions and the progress, development and uplift of its population.

"Therefore, it must not lag behind any other nation in the world with respect to development of its resources for the defense of its national organization and existence, and the people of Monroe are hereby called upon by me, as their mayor, to join in all proper ways in the celebration and observation of 'National Defense week,' in accordance with the approved program of the reserve officers association of the United States.

"Given at Monroe, La., on this, the 9th day of February, 1935.

"ARNOLD BERNSTEIN,
"Mayor."

Birthday Celebration Held For Oldest Mother In Claiborne Parish

HOMER, La., Feb. 9.—(Special)—A birthday celebration for the "oldest mother in Claiborne parish" was held at her residence near here today. With her in the celebration, which was also a family reunion, was a son whose birthday is the same as hers.

The celebration was for the 90-year-old mother of five children, Mrs. Mary Frances Cooksey, a pioneer resident of this parish. She came here 60 years ago with her parents, Col. and Mrs. J. J. Duke, who were the largest landowners in this section at that time.

Quite active for her age, Mrs. Cooksey still superintends her household, enjoys reading newspapers and is a member of the Methodist church.

The affair today brought together again all her children, except one, who was unable to attend, and numerous other relatives and friends. Her children are Mrs. Irmy Fortson and Miss Mattie Cooksey of Homer, Dr. W. P. Cooksey of Magnolia, Ark., whose birthday was also today, B. D. Cooksey of Segraves, Texas, and R. Lee Cooksey of Homer.

Rev. Morgan To Preach In West Monroe Today

Rev. L. R. Morgan, former pastor of the First Baptist church of West Monroe and recently elected field secretary of the Louisiana Baptist Children's home here, will deliver a sermon from his old pulpit this morning at 11 o'clock, Rev. E. E. Huntsberry, pastor of the West Monroe church, announced yesterday.

Reverend Morgan was pastor of the West Monroe Baptist church from 1923 to 1925 and later received the pastorate at Bernice, which he held until his appointment to the children's home.

In facing his old congregation this morning, Reverend Morgan has chosen as his subject, "A Square Deal For Christ."

The regular evening service will be rendered as usual by Reverend Huntsberry, who will preach on the subject, "Without the Shedding of Blood, What?"

Reverend Morgan just recently made his home here, and has established his residence at 513 Calypso street.

The Griffin Studio announces in this issue a special offering of photographs that is described as "the greatest value ever offered in Monroe." A remarkable feature of the offering is made to persons who may have purchased coupons from any other studio. Such coupons will be accepted at full purchase price on duplicate photographs at the Griffin studio.

The studio announces: "We do not employ high pressure sales people to sell you more than you need; you buy what you need and what you like." Photographs in oil or pencil will be supplied to patrons who desire them at reasonable additional charge, the work to be done by a recognized artist.

Larger Honor Roll Announced At Tech

RUSTON, La., Feb. 9.—(Special)—Surpassing by far all previous scholarship records, the honor roll of the first semester of the 1934-35 term at Louisiana Tech lists 283 students who made "B" average or above during the period. A report of the standings was made today at the offices of the dean of men and the dean of women. The reports show 172 women and 111 men on the honor roll. The previous record, achieved during the last spring semester, showed 224 names on the honor roll.

A average: Elsie Aulds, Mrs. Anne S. Hardie, Herbert Henry, B. W. Johnson, Mrs. R. L. Clayton, Kathryn McClain, Mrs. Ruby Fae Shumate, Mrs. Lillian Herron Williamson.

Jonesboro Town Council Approves Work Center

JONESBORO, La., Feb. 9.—(Special)—The town council of Jonesboro unanimously voted to accept the plan offered by the ERA, through the Louisiana Rural Rehabilitation corporation, to assist Jackson parish in establishing a work center for the parish, located in Jonesboro, on the plot of ground donated to the Jackson Parish Fair association.

The purpose of the project is to provide employment for people now on relief, and opportunity for the people to exchange products they have for those they do not have. This project will consist of a canning plant, meat curing plant, ERA offices and also provisions for fair exhibits.

Plans and specifications have been sent to the general offices for approval.

FISHER'S HISTORY OF BOXING

WITH A GREAT STRING OF KAYOS BEHIND HIM, FIRPO, HAVING BEEN GIVEN TERRIFIC BALLYHOO BY THE GARDEN, WAS MATCHED TO FIGHT JESS WILLARD, WHO HAD BEEN IN RETIREMENT FOR SEVERAL YEARS.

THAT WAS FIRPO THE NEW SENSATION.

HE'S A SENSATION ALL RIGHT!

—o—

C'MON JESS!

BUT IN THE 7TH, THE "WILD BULL" LET GO A ROUNDHOUSE SWING, WHICH SENT WILLARD DOWN FOR THE COUNT.

GH LIGHTS OF HISTORY -:- Philip Of Macedon -:- By J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

"THAT P OF MACEDON AS THE FATHER OF KANDER THE GREAT. HILIP OCCUPIES A LESS ONSPICUOUS NICHE IN HISTORY'S HALL OF FAME THAN HIS ILLUSTRIOUS SON, YET IT WAS PHILIP'S STATESMANSHIP AND MILITARY ACHIEVEMENTS THAT PAVED THE WAY FOR ALEXANDER'S SENSATIONAL SUCCESS AS A CONQUEROR....

PHILIP—

IN PHILIP'S TIME THE GREEKS WERE THE MOST ADVANCED PEOPLE OF EUROPE. GREECE WAS NOT A UNITED NATION THEN, BUT A LOOSE LEAGUE OF INDEPENDENT CITY STATES THAT OFTEN FOUGHT AMONG THEMSELVES.....

NORTH OF GREECE LIVED THE MACEDONIANS, A RACE OF HARDY, ILLITERATE MOUNTAINEERS, DISTANT COUSINS OF THE GREEKS WHO REGARDED THEM AS BARBARIANS. THE MACEDONIANS ADMIRED THE CULTURE OF THE GREEKS AND DESIRED A CLOSER FRIENDSHIP AND CO-OPERATION, BUT ONLY MET WITH REBUFFS.

PHILIP, HEIR TO THE THRONE OF HIS UNCLE, THE KING OF MACEDON, WAS EDUCATED IN GREECE, WHERE HE PASSED HIS YOUTH AS A HOSTAGE IN THEBES, THEN THE STRONGEST OF GREEK CITIES.....

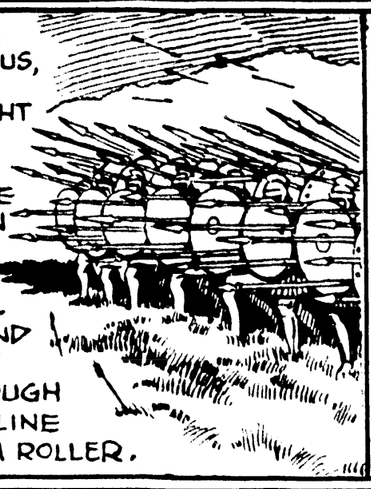

IN 360, B.C., WHEN HIS UNCLE DIED, PHILIP CONTRIVED TO ESCAPE TO MACEDON AND BECOME KING..... HAVING SEEN THE LACK OF HARMONY AMONG THE GREEKS, HE DETERMINED SOME DAY TO MAKE HIMSELF MASTER OF GREECE.

FIRST HE SET TO WORK TO MAKE MACEDON A POWERFUL MILITARY NATION. FROM AMONG THE TOUGH MOUNTAIN MEN OF HIS NATIVE HILLS HE CREATED A STRONG AND WELL-TRAINED STANDING ARMY.

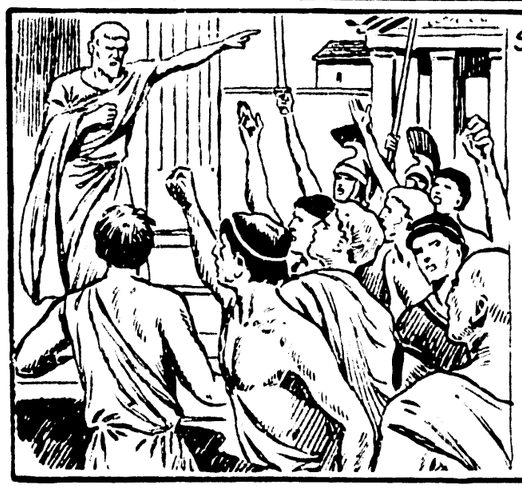

ENDOWED WITH MILITARY GENIUS, PHILIP TAUGHT HIS MEN TO FIGHT IN A MASS FORMATION KNOWN AS THE "MACEDONIAN PHALANX", A SOLID, MOVING WALL OF SPEARS AND SHIELDS THAT PLOWED THROUGH THE ENEMY'S LINE LIKE A STEAM ROLLER.

WITH HIS INVINCIBLE PHALANX PHILIP EXTENDED HIS DOMINIONS NORTH TOWARD THE DANUBE AND EAST TO THE DARDANELLES. HE NOW SET ON FOOT A SCHEME TO FORCE THE GREEK STATES INTO A STRONG CONFEDERACY HEADED BY MACEDON.

SOME OF THE GREEKS WERE WILLING TO ACCEPT PHILIP'S LEADERSHIP, BUT THE GREAT ORATOR, DEMOSTHENES, AROUSED MOST OF HIS COUNTRYMEN TO TAKE UP ARMS AND RESIST THE MACEDONIAN

AFTER A LONG CONFLICT PHILIP FINALLY CRUSHED HIS GREEK OPPONENTS AT THE BATTLE OF CHAERONEA IN 338 B.C. AND MADE HIMSELF HEAD OF A LEAGUE OF ALL THE GREEK STATES. SPARTA ALONE HELD OUT AGAINST THE MACEDONIAN CONQUEROR....

"THAT" The Czar's Five-and-Ten Million Dollar Palace Now a 5-and-10

Rolling Pins, Mop Pails, Can Openers and Scrubbing Brushes For Sale Beneath Moscow's Brilliant Chandelier Where Royalty Once Held Court

These Shoppers Now Buy Where the Nobles Once Danced. A Scene at the Shoe Counter, in the New "Palace 5-and-10." They're Typical Russian Peasant Types.

The Bed of the Former Empress Maria Fedorovna. The Room She Once Occupied in the Kochucey Palace Is Now the Kitchenware Department in the 5-and-10.

This Is the Workers' Cafeteria in the New "Palace 5-and-10." Notice the Nearly Priceless Chandelier, from Earlier Days, Lighting the Counters for the Hungry Workers.

(From a Special Correspondent)

MOSCOW.

NEARLY a half million workers elbowed their way into the famous $15,000,000 Kochucey palace a few days ago, but they came not to marvel at the filigree trimmings, the rich mosaics nor the beautiful parquet floors—for the $15,000,000 palace is now the Russian equivalent of a 5-and-10 cent store!

This is the newest sensation in the great daily newspapers here—and it has the whole city talking. Never before has the American system 5-and-10 been tried here, and never since the fiery days of the revolution have so many men and women swarmed around one of the great palaces.

So it is something new in this new land where new things give way to something newer, usually within the week!

The 5-and-10 has become, in a few short days, one of the common-place business enterprises of Moscow—but a highly successful one, needless to say. And the story which lies behind it makes one of the most colorful scenes in the rapidly changing Soviet picture.

The Kochucey palace—which got its name from its builder, Prince Kochucey—is one of the most famous and romantic structures in all Russia. And because in the days of the Czars, it was so lavishly furnished and endowed with all the baubles of great wealth, the workers chuckle happily over its lowly transformation.

Prince Kochucey was one of the most popular members of the court, in the early 1800's. Shortly after Alexander I took the throne, the Prince was chosen as one of his trusted advisors. And between them and a small group of companions, they planted the first seeds of revolution in Russian minds, it has been claimed, by their efforts to organize a more representative government.

Prince Kochucey was an extremely wealthy young man, inheriting great stores of gold and costly jewels from his family. After taking a seat of great power in Alexander's "cabinet," his wealth increased by leaps and bounds, until he found it difficult to decide what to do with his money.

According to many authorities, Alexander was "joshing" the Prince one day about his millions, and suggested:

"Why don't you build a palace which will stand everlastingly as an honor to your name?"

Prince Kochucey took Alexander's suggestion seriously, and immediately set out to build a mansion the "likes of which no nobleman had ever seen."

He combed Europe to obtain the greatest architects, artists and craftsmen, and planned to spend at least $30,000,000 on his future show-place. However, when Alexander saw the developments of his jest, he attempted to curtail his favorite's plans, with the result that Prince Kochucey spent only $15,000,000 on the palace.

Much of the costly mosaic and filigree work had been contracted for, and at even half the cost Prince Kochucey had originally planned upon the completed edifice was unexcelled for ornate beauty. But now this vision of loveliness is just a common, every-day 5-and-10 cent store!

Where once the Emperors, Grand Duchesses, Grand Dukes, Princes and Princesses cavorted in their mad rounds of gay revelry, now humble workers stalk about in heavy hob-nail shoes, perhaps tossing a few pennies upon a hand carved table and carrying away, maybe, a pair of cheap canvas working gloves.

In the grand ballroom, where once tables were set with solid gold plate and loaded with the richest and most expensive delicacies that could be conceived by the chefs recruited from all over the world—now, for a few cents, the hungry worker may fill his tray, cafeteria style, and munch his bread and soup with all the pleasure if not the daintiness—of the grandees.

And so it goes—the contrast a cause of great merriment among the Communist-minded Russians. And perhaps in this very fact lies the phenomenal success of the enterprise.

The Kochucey palace, like all other mansions of the rich, was immediately taken over by the government at the time of the Revolution, and stripped of all its valuable accoutrements. Some of the other mansions were chopped and mutilated by the angry Reds and a few were demolished by fire and dynamite.

The Kochucey escaped the ravishings of the destructive mobs, and was immediately turned into a retreat and haven for the multitudes. It has had a varied history in recent years, serving once as a rest home for convalescent workers, again as a school for mechanics and office workers, and at still another time as a district police headquarters and jail.

But in the long years of the future, it appears now, this palace will supply the wants of the poor, who must do most of their shopping in the 5-and-10. And if Prince Kochucey were one to turn over in his grave, he certainly must be a restless corpse!

One view, as a contrast, is of a gathering of the Russian court before the revolution, taken in the Grand Hall of Nicholas, in the famous Winter Palace at St. Petersburg. The ball room of Prince Kochucey's palace was a careful copy of this majestic hall, so the reader studying the "Before the War" view, may obtain a fair idea of the decorations and walls of the palatial 5-and-10.

Shortly after the big Russian governmental "shake-up," American newspapers were supplied with the story that the Czar's throne had been sold to a cobbler, who planned to use it in his shop.

For several years this cobbler has sat upon the throne and tapped half-soles onto worn boots. And now he has moved his business, throne and all, into the Kochucey palace, where he has been given a special room for his cobbling—close by the entrance to the store cafeteria, in the grand ballroom.

Unlike the American counterparts of this Russian 5-and-10, the Moscow store is divided into many separate departments, each having a room of its own. There are more than 125 rooms in the palace, and half of these have been converted into salesrooms. The rest are used as storerooms, offices, and it is planned that in the future the large staff of salespeople will be housed there.

Perhaps those in charge of arranging the different departments of the new store dealt in irony, because there are many ironic contrasts in what the grand rooms once were used for, and what they are today.

One room of the palace in the old days was reserved and furnished with the bejeweled and frilly fittings from the bedroom of the Empress Maria Fedorovna. Today this room has become the kitchenware department of the 5-and-10. Certainly the kitchen in earlier days was a long step from the bedroom of the Empress!

Several rooms in one wing of the palace were built for a nursery by Prince Kochucey, and there the proud children of the rich once played with their diamond studded toys. Today the children of the poor workers flock there to admire the simpler playthings which are within their parents' means.

Unlike the standard American 5-and-10, the new Moscow store also has departments where shoes, clothing and even furniture may be purchased—of course at considerably more than the equivalent of five or ten cents, but nevertheless at surprisingly low cost.

Perhaps "Department Store" would be a better name for the new market, but the workers insist on calling it by the less aristocratic name, because, as they explain, the majority of sales are for the small amounts.

The Soviet merchandising system, it might be explained, is being swiftly changed from one of ration cards and co-operative stores to ordinary commercial stores where anybody with money can buy. This explains the success of the 5-and-10.

Figures recently released by the Commissariat of Internal Trade show that 73 per cent of retail goods moved from store counters have been sold in open stores, whereas in 1931 only 20 per cent were sold in this way.

The prices are slightly higher in the commercial stores than in co-operatives, but the commissariat reported that the opening of the general stores really has caused a reduction of prices. There has been a drop of 18 per cent in bread prices and from 40 to 50 per cent in meat and butter.

On my first visit to the store, on opening day, the director told me a story which I found of even greater interest than the store itself. While seated in his office he casually touched a corner of the massive fire place mantle, and a noiseless panel in the wall slid open, revealing a small, shelf-lined closet made from heavy iron slabs so that it was virtually a built-in safe.

The closet is used to keep funds and valuable records now. The director said that while carpenters were transforming the palace into salesrooms, one of the time-keeper's assistants came to the store office and requested an interview.

He told the director that he was the son of a member of the royal family, and he had survived the Red assassinations because he had accepted Communism. And, as proof of his statement that as a child he had played in the palace, he revealed the hidden spring which opened the vault. No one had even suspected its existence before that day!

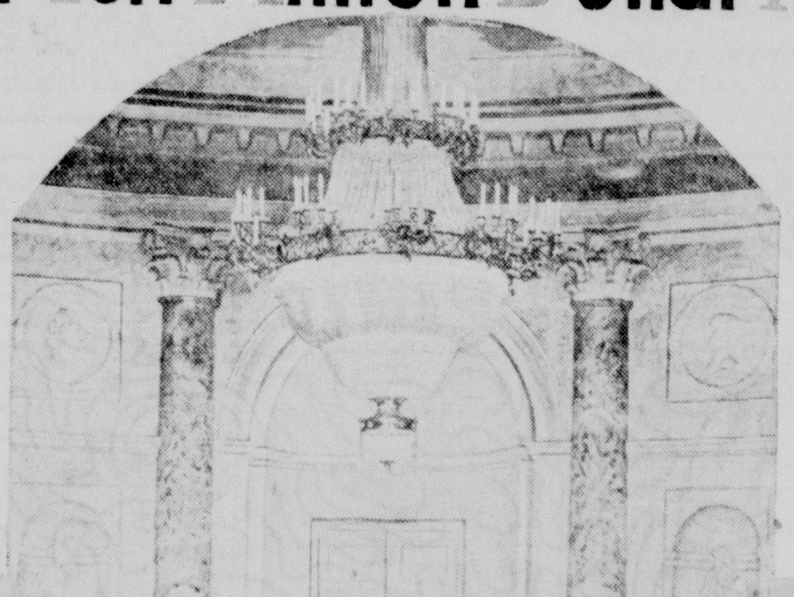

And, listening to the director's words, it occurred to me that here was the secret of Russia's glamor. A $15,000,000 palace was now a 5-and-10 cent store. A child of the haughty rich was now a lowly clerk's assistant. A country with such radical transformations, made in only a few years, must be colorful to its neighboring countries, to say the least!

MOSCOW.

NEARLY a half million workers elbowed their way into the famous $15,000,000 Kochucey palace a few days ago, but they came not to marvel at the filigree trimmings, the rich mosaics nor the beautiful parquet floors—for the $15,000,000 palace is now the Russian equivalent of a 5-and-10 cent store!

This is the newest sensation in the great daily newspapers here—and it has the whole city talking. Never before has the American system 5-and-10 been tried here, and never since the fiery days of the revolution have so many men and women swarmed around one of the great palaces.

So it is something new in this new land where new things give way to something newer, usually within the week!

The 5-and-10 has become, in a few short days, one of the common-place business enterprises of Moscow—but a highly successful one, needless to say. And the story which lies behind it makes one of the most colorful scenes in the rapidly changing Soviet picture.

The Kochucey palace—

which got its name from its builder, Prince Kochucey—is one of the most famous and romantic structures in all Russia. And because in the days of the Czars, it was so lavishly furnished and endowed with all the baubles of great wealth, the workers chuckle happily over its lowly transformation.

Prince Kochucey was one of the most popular members of the court, in the early 1800's. Shortly after Alexander I took the throne, the Prince was chosen as one of his trusted advisors. And between them and a small group of companions, they planted the first seeds of revolution in Russian minds, it has been claimed, by their efforts to organize a more representative government.

According to many authorities, Alexander was "joshing" the Prince one day about his millions, and suggested:

"Why don't you build a palace which will stand everlastingly as an honor to your name?"

Prince Kochucey took Alexander's suggestion seriously, and immediately set out to build a mansion the "likes of which no nobleman had ever seen."

He combed Europe to obtain the greatest architects, artists and craftsmen, and planned to spend at least $30,000,000 on his future show-place. However, when Alexander saw the developments of his jest, he attempted to curtail his favorite's plans, with the result that Prince Kochucey spent only $15,000,000 on the palace.

Much of the costly mosaic and filigree work had been contracted for, and at even half the cost Prince Kochucey had originally planned upon the completed edifice was unexcelled for ornate beauty. But now this vision of loveliness is just a common, every-day 5-and-10 cent store!
